SECOND HAND MAIL BOX.

Why a Little Village May Not Have Big Numbers in Its Post Office.

The man who was spending his summer vacation in the country was looking quizzically at the mail boxes in the rural post office.

"I did not know this was such a large place," he said. "I thought it had a population of only about 4,000, but the mail box numbers run much higher than that, and I don't suppose every one in town rents a box either."

The postmaster peered out of his little bared window.

"I can explain that," he said. "You see the country post offices never get new boxes, but we have those left over when the city establishments make over their offices and get new boxes. So you see lots of country places are bound to have high number boxes."

"Although our numbers run over 4,000, you won't find any less than 1,000, some other country post office drew the lower ones. I myself would rather get the big numbers, for it makes us seem like a bustling little city."

Chamois Skins.

Charles C. Druedling has written an article for the American Journal of Pharmacy on the subject of chamois skins. What is known in the market as chamois skins, he says, is really an oil-tanned sheep or lamb skin lining. The supply of skins from the chamois animals is very limited—enough could not be obtained in a year to supply the United States for more than a single day. He made special inquiry on a recent visit to Switzerland about the annual crop of the chamois skin and ascertained that from 5,000 to 6,000 skins would be a fair average yearly crop. This skin is heavier than the skin of the sheep or lamb, also much coarser. For strength and durability the chamois skin is preferable, but for ordinary use and appearance the oil-tanned sheepskin lining would, in most instances, be preferred.

Made His Own Teeth.

Charles Bennett, aged 60, a Franklin county convict serving five years in the Ohio penitentiary for burglary, not only pulls his own teeth but he makes new ones and puts them in himself.

He makes the teeth out of rosin beef bones obtained in the kitchen, using only a little saw and a pen-knife. He has been using two of the teeth several months and is now at work on others.

He pulls his old teeth by means of a fiddle string and then makes the new teeth the shape of the ones pulled out. They are grooved so they fit to the gum and also to the teeth on each side.

Origin of "Flat." Possibly the exact origin of "flat" as applied to an apartment will forever remain in obscurity. In recent years owners of "flat houses" have rebelled against the term most hotly.

A short while ago a tenant was threatened with a suit for libel because he persisted in saying that he lived in such-and-such a flat house. The landlord declared that the structure was neither a flat house nor a tenement, but an apartment hotel. The repeated use of "flat house" as a designation tended to lower the reputation of the place and drove away would-be occupants.

Second Day of Fall Sale of Notions and Dressmakers' Findings

The fact of some sales largely depends on the reputation of the seller. In other words, claims are accorded credence in proportion as performances have kept pace with promises. On the other hand, a sale of notions, which concerns the hundred-and-one articles in daily use as to the values of which almost every woman is more or less posted, stands upon its own merits. Under the circumstances, therefore, we shall not felicitate ourselves upon the success which attended the opening day of our Fall sale of those lines. The bargains were obvious and told their own story in their own way. Here are some more of the same kind for to-day.

The Best Ranges and Heaters

Nothing is more important to the comfort and welfare of the family than a good range. After a careful examination of many lines we selected the well known Sterling and Norman makes as representing the most modern ideas and the best workmanship in stove manufacture, and the experience of a host of patrons has showed the wisdom of our choice. For baking qualities and for economy of coal these two popular Rochester range products are unequaled. An important advantage in purchasing one of these ranges is that no matter how many years from now you may need any additional repairs they can be secured at a moments notice.

HEATERS

If you have a Sterling or Norman Heater in the house you are sure of warmth and comfort at all times. No matter what the weather, with the least consumption of coal. They are the most practical dispensers of heat on the market.
