A CARPET ASSORTMENT

Without equal in the state, outside New York City, and carpet values that are not bettered anywhere

OUR spring stock of carpets is a veritable exposition of the most desirable products of the best mills in the country. As usual, we enjoyed the advantage of an early selection and our extensive purchases show many particularly choice patterns which the makers have confined to us exclusively for this city. The constant growth of our business has developed the necessity for wider assortments as well as larger stocks, so that the housewife who comes to the Howe & Rogers store for her carpets finds it a simpler task than ever to make a suitable choice, whatever the kind or grade wanted. And as we buy on the best terms accorded any establishment in the trade, so we make prices that retain for our store its reputation for good values.

Our stocks comprise the newest effects of pattern and color in Wiltons, Axmisters, Velvets, Body Brussels, Tapestry Brussels, and Ingrains, and the Velvet and Ingrains include a complete range of colors in the plain weaves now so much in vogue. Whatever the special requirements of any room, you may be sure that they are fully provided for in our extensive assortments; and in the matter of making and laying we can and do guarantee the most thorough workmanship.

What we have said about assortments and values in Carpets applies with the same force to our magnificent stock of Rugs. The kind, the size, the design and the color combination best suited to your purpose are reasonably certain to be recognized in our display, and the price will be satisfactory because no higher than you may have noticed elsewhere on Rugs not nearly as desirable.

Manager Danny Long by members of a theatrical troupe who witnessed the Kanaka's work in the box.

The man from the sugar cane plantations arrived in Bakersfield, Cal., recently after a stormy trip on the ocean. He immediately donned a uniform and commenced training with the other members of the team practicing in the city.

The next day in an exhibition game Joy was sent into the box to try out for three innings. The Hawaiian made good.

He struck out the first five men up fielded the position like a champion and showed all around knowledge of the game. Joy is a south paw, with lightning speed. Charlie Street, who received his delivery, hardly expected any twirler would use such speed thus early in the game.

Manager Danny Long and Captain Ed Mohler were carried away with the elegant showing Joy made in the early games.

In later practice the Honolulu boy batted savagely and ran bases fast for a heavy man.

Organized baseball in Wisconsin will enter upon the season of 1907 with better prospects than ever before in the Chattanooga. Its a splendid organization, as, of course, you know. I State league now is an eight club circuit and it consists of Oshkosh, Madison, Fond du Lac, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Wausau, Green Bay and Freeport. Ill. Hawley will manage the La Crosse team again this year. The season opens May 9, with Oshkosh playing at Madison, Green Bay at Freeport, Fond du Lac at La Crosse and Wausau at Eau Claire. Madison and Fond du Lac are new cities in the league.

Nick Altrock is widely believed to be in line for the premier pitching honors of the American league for this season.

NICK ALTROCK IN ACTION.

Many careful experts state that Nick is the ablest twirler in the entire organization.

Anyway, Altrock's work for the Chicago American world's champions last season was of genuine top notch caliber, and it is safe to say he is the chief standby of Captain-Manager Dary Jones.

Attractive Parquetry Effects

WE do not lay hardwood floors, but we can give you the hardwood parquetry effect in a durable and not expensive material which, in connection with appropriate rugs, will prove highly ornamental and artistic. Perhaps this may be the solution of the floor-covering problem for one or more of your rooms; at all events it might be well to follow up the suggestion here offered.

Not Too Early To Buy Mattings

HOWE & ROGERS COMPANY

President Roosevelt's Misplay.

President Roosevelt never leaves a train or gets to the end of a railroad division without shaking hands with the engineer and the fireman. He thanks them for the run, even if the train is late.

During his last Western trip there was a change of engines at Grand Island, Neb. The President hurried to the engine and gripped the oily palm of the engine driver and quite abashed that worthy with thanks for the successful and rapid trip. Then he turned to the fireman, remarking with enthusiasm:

"You know I am a member of your brotherhood; the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen made me a member when I attended its convention at Chattanooga. Its a splendid organization, as, of course, you know. I am a great believer in unions like yours. They are a mighty good thing. Goodbye!"

The President put out his hand. The fireman's face did not reflect the enthusiasm in that of the Chief Executive. The President received only the impatient kind of grip from the unsmiling engine driver. As he passed down the platform to his car the President turned in great surprise to the superintendent of the railroad, who walked by his side.

"Those men did not seem very much pleased," he remarked, with a puzzled expression.

"Well, you see, Mr. President," returned the railroad man, with a dry smile, "there's been a strike on this road and they are not union men."

Spiders That Spin Big Webs.

In the mountains of Ceylon and India there is a spider six inches long that spins a web like bright yellowish silk, the central net of which is five feet in diameter, while the supporting lines or guys measure some times ten feet or twelve feet. Riding quickly in the early mornings you may dash right into it, the stout threads twisting around your face like a lace veil, while as the creature that has woven it takes up its position in the middle it generally catches you right on the nose and, though it seldom bites or stings, the contact of its large body and long legs is anything but pleasant. If you try to catch it, bite it will, and, though not venomous, its jaws are as powerful as a bird's beak, and you are not likely to forget the encounter. The bodies of these spiders are very handsomely decorated, being bright gold or scarlet underneath, while the upper part is covered with the most delicate slate-colored fur. So strong are the webs that birds the size of larks are frequently caught in them and even the small but powerful scaly lizard falls a victim.
