HOLY APOSTLES

Rev. Hugh A. Crowley, who for several years has been Catholic chaplain for the Craig Colony for Epileptics at Sonyea, has been appointed assistant to Rev. James A. Hickey, rector of Holy Apostles parish. During the time Father Crowley has had charge of the Catholics of the colony he has endeared himself not only to the inmates of the institution, but also to those in charge. When it became known that the Catholic chaplain was to sever his connection with the institution the board of managers unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it is with regret that we accept the resignation of Rev. Hugh A. Crowley, Roman Catholic chaplain at the colony. His labors among the patients have been filled with beneficence and his work at the colony has brought inspiration for more efficient service and a greater devotion to the unfortunate committed to the colony's care. We wish for him in the new field of service to which he has been called an abundance of all good things. Be it further, "Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Father Crowley, and one to Bishop B. J. McQuaid."

After the congratulations the bride and groom left for a trip to Old Point Comfort and the Exposition. They will be at home to their friends at No. 231 Hudson Avenue about November 1st.

Five Minute Sermon

Jesus Cures the Man Sick of the Palsy.

It was the city of Capharnaum, on the west bank of the river Jordan, a little before it flows into the Sea of Tiberias, also called the Lake of Genesareth and the Sea of Galilee. This was a rich commercial city, and the emporium of all Judea on account of its great population, its extensive trade, and the concourse of strangers.

The home of Jesus was Nazareth, but St. John Chrysostom and many others are of the opinion that He cherished a special affection for Capharnaum, so that St. Matthew called it His city. In Capharnaum there was a house where Christ was accustomed to meet with His apostles, and in this city He began to preach the kingdom of God, to correct the prevailing vices, to teach virtue, and worked many astounding miracles.

He healed the paralytic mentioned in the Gospel. He restored sight to two blind persons, and healed the deaf and dumb man who was possessed by the devil, of which mention is made in the Gospel for the third Sunday in Lent. He also cured the servant of the centurion, the woman who was suffering from a loss of blood and the son of Regulus, who was dying of fever. Besides these He recalled to life the daughter of Jairus.

We are to learn from this that when we are sick our first thought should be to place ourselves in the grace of God; thus healing our soul first, because diseases are very often a punishment for sins committed; hence a cure can scarcely be hoped for if the cause has not first been removed by repentance.
