JAMES BRECK PERKINS Republican, Renominated for Representative in Congress for the Thirty-second District

He was born at Croix Falls, Wis., November 4, 1847, which at the time was the extreme limit of white settlement in the West. When he was three years old his father was drowned, and he removed with his mother to Chicago, later settling on a farm at Comon, Ill. At the age of 9 years he came to this city. Six years later he completed a course in the local schools and received one of the three free scholarships which the University of Rochester presented to graduates with the highest standing. He graduated from this university in 1867, at the head of his class.

At the age of 26 Mr Perkins was elected city attorney, being the youngest man who had ever held that office. After completing two terms, he declined a renomination. In 1877, Mr. Perkins was elected member of assembly from the first district of Monroe county. In 1900 he was elected to congress and has served there since. He is at present a member of the committees on foreign relations and public printing.

Mr. Perkins is a man of sound business and economic ideas, a skilled lawyer and efficient legislator, he has proved his worth in Washington for the past eight years and should be returned by an increased majority this time. Mr. Perkins is an advocate of tariff revision. He has said as much frequently and renewed the stand in his speech of acceptance before the nominating convention. His attitude on the tariff is especially favorable. He is an insistent worker for the best possible rates with Canada, much of whose trade with this country comes and goes from the port of Charlotte. He favors improvement and expansion of the port, so that Rochester may enjoy increased commerce through this source. Mr. Perkins was a strong supporter of the bill to indemnify the Catholic Church in the Philippine Islands for church property taken at the time of the Spanish American War. His ability has been recognized in Washington, where he enjoys a high standing among the leading legislators of the lower house and is esteemed by members of the upper house and of the national administration.

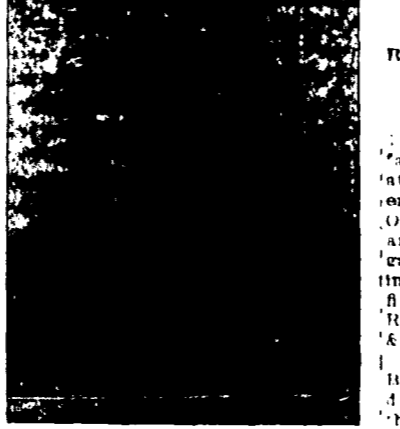

WILLIS K. GILLETTE Republican Nominated for Sheriff

Willis K. Gillette was born in Monroe County, N. Y., April 25, 1867. His father, Rev. Charles Gillette, a Presbyterian clergyman, held pastorates in New York city, Fort Covington, Franklin county (fourteen years), Mansville (four years) and Red Creek (three years) and in 1877 moved to Rochester, where he died December 9, 1887, aged 74. Willis K. received his rudimentary education in No. 3 and 15 schools of this city and was graduated from the Rochester Free academy in 1884. After filling a position as reporter on the Post Express for a short time he began the study of law in the office of Sullivan & Morris and finished with Hon. Alfred Ely, and was graduated from the law department of the university of Michigan at Ann Arbor in 1891. He was admitted to the bar of this state at Rochester in October of the same year and immediately commenced the practice of his profession in the offices of Hon. Alfred Ely. He has been active in politics since attaining his majority, and in 1893 to 1899 he represented the Third ward in the board of education. In 1902 he represented his ward in the Board of Supervisors and in 1903 was elected clerk of the Board of Supervisors, which office he has since filled. He belongs to many fraternities including Valley Lodge, Masons, Elks, Rochester City Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Modern Woodmen of America, Genesee Valley Golf Club, and Rochester Whist Club. He is a staunch Republican and an able and conscientious worker for the welfare of his party.

Men who eschew politics know and love Tom Dunn. His modest worth has been recognized by his fellow citizens in Rochester and elsewhere. He has made him a host of friends and they were all boosters for him as Senator. Their number will be swelled now that his candidacy is not discouraged by Monroe County's confines but is for a state office.

Business men who sit with Mr. Dunn on the boards of directors of banks, trust companies and other corporations in Rochester and elsewhere realize that he is no idle dreamer nor impracticable philanthropist. Their estimate of the man is to the effect that he is one of the shrewdest and longest headed business men in the country. This is made evident when it is known that he has made the "State" and other products of the "Genesee" and "Monroe" counties on the face of the globe. Moreover, to-day he conducts his own business and the result has not been either:

HON. F. M. JONES, Nominée for County Treasurer

There are few men in Monroe County more highly esteemed or possessed of a larger personal friendship within the realm of their acquaintance and activities, irrespective of party affiliation than Frank M. Jones of Webster. His nomination for County Treasurer is not only a distinct recognition of his fine personal qualities and business ability, but it certifies to his standing and influence in the councils of the Republican party whose principles he has steadfastly supported. The secret of Mr. Jones' business success and political strength is an open book to those who are able to understand and appreciate the qualities that make up the elements of success in life. His uniform courtesy and fairness toward those of opposing political faith, have established for him many personal friends among men whose political beliefs differ from his own.

Mr. Jones was born at Union Hill, N. Y., in 1854; and with the exception of three years has been a lifelong resident of Webster. In 1883 he was elected supervisor and was four times re-elected. In this office serving five consecutive terms. In the fall of 1896, he was nominated and elected Assemblyman from the first district of Monroe County, which office he held three terms being re-elected in 1898 and again in 1899. Mr. Jones is not a stranger to the responsibilities of public office and we confidently predict that Monroe County, regardless of political faith, will register for him a vote which will create the first business Republican and Democrat and which will be a true expression of the esteem in which Mr. Jones is held by the voters of this county.

His elevation to the presidency of the Chamber of Commerce, election to the State Senate, nomination for State Treasurer, all came unbidden.

GEORGE L. MEADE Republican Nominated for State Senator in the Forty-fifth District

Mr. Meade was born at Clyde in 1859 and spent his early years on a farm in Washington County. After graduating from the Clyde High School, he entered the University of Lebanon, Ohio. He taught school for one year and then came to Rochester to engage in the practice of law, entering into a partnership and forming the firm of Webster, Meade, Strauss & Hayes, with offices in the Elvanger & Barry Building.

Mr. Meade was elected to the Board of Supervisors in 1903 and during his first year was assigned to the chairmanship of the law committee. He held that chairmanship during his entire service in the board. In 1906, he was made a building commissioner representing the second district, and was made chairman of that commission.

Last year Mr. Meade was advanced to the Assembly. His activity resulted in the passage of several bills signed by the governor among them the following: No. 111—An act to amend the charter of the city of Rochester relative to street improvements. This was a law designed to correct the abuses which had existed in paving contracts in Rochester, and its beneficial effects have been felt this year.

No. 542—An act to amend the primary election law. This bill was designed to simplify in a measure the election law, and to make some amendments which became necessary when Rochester stepped into the rank of cities of the first class.

No. 571—An act to amend the forest, fish and game laws, relative to taking and sale of Monzolian, ring-necked and English pheasants in the counties of Orleans, Monroe, Wayne, Ontario and Livingston. This law shows the taking of three male pheasants during the season, on Thursdays and Saturdays in the month of October.

No. 686—An act to amend the charter of the city of Rochester. This bill amended the charter in relation to the tax penalties and reduced the penalty on delinquent taxes, and gives to the taxpayers two months more time in which to pay their taxes before they go into the hands of collectors and have the additional 5 per cent. added.

In the Republican city convention, October 10, 1907, Mr. Meade introduced resolutions regarding water storage which were adopted by a unanimous vote. These declared that the dam in the Genesee, and the additional water supply there developed, should be retained by the people of the state of New York for the benefit of the Genesee valley, the county of Monroe, and the city of Rochester. The purpose of the resolution being to condemn the project of the Genesee River company which is trying to secure a monopoly of the development and sale of power.

Through Mr. Meade's efforts and persistency an appropriation of $25,000 was made for this cause.
