Baker Theater. Monday night at the Baker Theatre, Vaughan Glaser and his company will leave behind the modern drama and present for the first time in stock in Rochester "The Adventures of Lady Ursula," a beautiful, romantic costume play by Anthony Hope, whose scenes are laid in the years of 1760 to 1770. This is the first costume play Mr. Glaser has presented since his advent to Rochester and will no doubt prove to be one of his most successful weeks. The story is a thrilling one. The scenes are kaleidoscopic. Humor, pathos, romanticism, are all interwoven in masterly style. Miss Courtney as Lady Ursula and Mr. Glaser as Sir George will no doubt make many friends and the rest of the company will all have congenial roles. Matinees will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Advertisement for Cook Opera House. The headline attraction at Moore's Cook Opera House next week is a genuine grand opera number, written especially for vaudeville by Julian Edwards and Stanislaus Stange, well known producers. There are 9 people in the cast of singers and the prima donna is that famous soprano Antoinette Lehman. The special feature attraction of the bill is a comedy called "A Strenuous Rehearsal," to be presented by the famous legitimate actor Claude Gillingwater, who will be recalled by playgoers as principal support to Fritz Scheff. The third big number to conjure with is the Eight Original Madcaps, late the star feature of "A Knight for a Day." Among the other acts that will be thoroughly pleasing to Mr. Moore's large clientele are: the Jack Wilson company, in "An Upeaval in Darktown"; Frozini the wizard of the accordeon; Carson & Willard, German comedians; Jacob's wonderful dogs; and the Mooreoscope pictures.
