IT frequently happens that our customers ask us to explain why a bill is high for a given month. If they had read their meter each day, they could then recall just how it was used, a month after everybody had forgotten. If you read your meter day by day and you cannot account for your usage, call on us to help you locate it, while conditions are such, that we can talk intelligently. A card showing how to read your gas meter free, and a man sent to your home to also instruct you if you desire.
