

In Memoriam

Branch 129, O. M. B. A. has adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst, our brother, Andrew F. Short, be it

Resolved, that we sincerely condole with the family of our brother in their severe affliction, and trust they will be enabled with Christian resignation to bear their loss, which an all wise Providence has inflicted upon them.

Resolved, that as a mark of respect to our brother that these resolutions be inscribed to the minutes of our meeting, and a copy thereof be sent to the family and published in the (Catholic Journal) Committee J. J. McGuire Pres. P. J. Lyman, Rec. Sec.

Cook Opera House.

Sig. Giovanni Gennaro, the celebrated Italian bandmaster, will bring his famous Venetian Gondoliers' band to the Cook Opera House next week, as the feature of a vaudeville bill that appears on paper to be one of the most pretentious and costliest ever brought to that popular home of first-class entertainment. There are three distinct headline acts on the bill, the second in the affections of the public being the Four Fords, presenting the most famous dancing carnival vaudeville has ever known; and the third being the sensational dramatic sketch "The Bandit," featuring E. Frederic Hawley and Francis Haight, although William Hilliard, as Jose Traventa, the dumb servant, shows a piece of character acting seldom seen even in dramatic theatres. Fiddler & Sheldon, will give a colored act called "Suffocating with Poyntness." Little Sunshine, the late feature with the "Little Nemo" company, in songs and dances, and the Robert DeMont company in the "Hotel Turn-over" together with the Mooreoscope pictures will complete the bill.

Catholics, Episcopalians and Lutherans in Iowa are behind a movement to have Good Friday declared a legal holiday in that state.

WHAT PIGS CAN BE TAUGHT.

In France They Hunt Truffles and Draw the Plow.
Owing to its obstinacy and seemingly stupidity the pig is usually classed among the dull animals. This, however, is not a just estimate of its intelligence. Learned pigs that could pick out letters of the alphabet have been exhibited at fairs. Throw a pig into deep water and it will begin swimming ashore at once, which is more than men are able to do. In France they have been trained to hunt for truffles (which are hidden underground) and to draw the plow. They have even been taught to act as printers. In most cases they are trained by means of reward for success. In pointing for example, when they spot the bird, they drop their tail and ear, and sink on their knees and do not rise until after the bird has risen they are rewarded with pudding.

Fear of the Law.

The literal strictness of German rules and regulations has always been a matter of amusement to other nations which do not insist so rigidly on the letter of the law. A writer in the Washington Star recently told a story illustrating this point. Two men, Schmidt and Krauss, met one morning in the park. "Have you heard," said Schmidt, "the sad news about Muller?" "No," said Krauss. "What is it?" "Well, poor Muller went boating on the river yesterday. The boat capsized and he was drowned. The water was ten feet deep." "But couldn't he swim?" "Swim! Don't you know that all persons are strictly forbidden by the police to swim in the river!"

Penholders Made from Packing Box.

Both ingenuity and economy are represented by a practice reported from Calcutta, India. A firm in that city imports drugs in wooden boxes from the United States and England. It then works up good material from the packing cases into penholders. Both the city and provincial governments buy these products, but the penholders are said to be rather crude. Labor is so very cheap in India that it would be hard to compete with any manufactured article there, but inexpensive penholders made in large quantities in America might have a chance of selling in that far-off land, nevertheless. A great saving in cost always results from the use of machinery.

Slang in England.

Hotten's division of slang terms for neobriety would be useful to police courts if fashion did not so quickly change in this respect. The following were classified as decess—solid intonation. Berry, demused, booby, bossy, busy, corned, foggy, fou, fresh, hazy, elevated, klaky, lushy, mooney, mucky, muxy, on, screwed, stewed, light and wincy. In an intermediate class stand peddy, bargony, bused, cut, primed, lumpy, muddled, ploughed, obfuscated, swipty, three sheets in the wind and topheavy.

Farming.

"Farmers Raise Money" is the headline of an article in the Mexico Ledger No. 766, published nowadays to raise money. All he has to do is to pick up a chicken or a dozen eggs (or a bushel of corn) or a peck of corn (or a dozen potatoes) and bring it to town and sell it and his fortune is made. Louisiana Mo. Press-Journal.

Drives Away Fever.

An eminent Spanish scientist has made the recent discovery that the sunflower yields a splendid febrifuge that can be used as a substitute for quinine. Accordingly, the sunflower should not only be its growing, exert great fever-reducing power, but also yield a product which is used advantageously in all fevers.

Wasps Capture Flies.

Wasps prey on flies—a fact which is well known in Italy. On any summer or early autumn day in the Tuscan country parts, when the lundchen is a blackened by a ch. one may see a wasp sail in at the open window, select a fly, roll it over, curl it up and carry it out into the sunshine and soon return for another.

Ballasted with Gold.

A section of the Canadian Northern Railway running northwest from Sudbury and crossing at Vermilion river, is unique in that it is ballasted with gold. Every yard of the gravel used for ballast has been found to contain from 50 cents worth to a dollar's worth of the precious metal, in the shape of fine dust.

Government Run Bars.

In some parts of Russia the barrooms are run by the government according to a recent law. It is the rule for all males to remove their hats when in a government building, and it is ludicrous to see the patrons of the barroom standing, hat in hand while waiting for the barkeepers to serve their toddy.

A Sharp Answer.

"I am not happy with my husband. Can I get a separation?" asked a lady of a lawyer. "His life is insured in your favor, isn't it?" "Yes, I made him do that before we married." "Well, don't separate. He'll live long or away from you!"

Royalty Leads Simple Life.

Corbett life in Norway is usually simple, almost to the point of being democratic. In summer one frequently meets the King and Queen, who then occupy their small but charming country house outside the city, driving along the country roads, while in winter it is by no means uncommon to meet them coating down the hills upon skates, or sledges of the country, or upon ski joining in with the populace in the national winter sports.

More Protection.

"I call it splendidly patriotic," says the first citizen, "to have a law forbidding the desecration of our national flag by using it for purposes of advertising."
"Yes," agrees the second citizen, "but let's protect it more fully, by making it a misdemeanor and a malfeasance to drag it onto the stage in order to secure applause for a weak musical comedy."

Soldiers' Paper Kettles.

Preparations are being made to furnish the soldiers of the German Army with paper kettles, which are a Japanese invention. Although the utensils are made of pliable paper, they hold water readily. By pouring water into them they can be hung over the fire without burning for a length of time sufficient to boil the water. One kettle can be used about eight times.

The Longest Courtship.

The longest courtship on record was that between Frans Rosner and Anna Renner, of Oberpolitz, Bohemia. They had been courting for seventy-five years, but repeatedly deferred the bridal day. At last Frans became fatally ill, and was recently married on his deathbed, at the age of one hundred and died two days later. The age of the widow is ninety-three.

Brilliant Lightning Display.

A brilliant and startling spectacle was witnessed a short time ago in a Tyrolean valley near Tannheim. A violent storm arose suddenly, and several globes of lightning rolled over the surface of the lake. Then a column of water arose thirty feet high from the middle of the lake, and from its top small flashes darted. The spectacle lasted about three minutes.

China Essentially Agricultural.

China is essentially an agricultural country and from time immemorial it has been the custom of the sovereign to initiate Chinese new year, which begins in the spring, by turning over a few furrows in the "sacred field."
