Giovanno Gennaro, the celebrated Italian bandmaster, will bring his famous Venetian Gondoliers' band to the Cook Opera House next week, as the feature of a vaudeville bill that appears on paper to be one of the most pretentious and costliest ever brought to that popular ome of first-class entertainment. There are three distinct headline nets on the bill, the second in the affections of the public being the Four Fords, presenting the most famous dancing carnival vaude-ville has ever known; and the third being the sensational dra-matic sketch "The Bandit," featuring E. Frederic Hawley and Francis Haight, although William Hilliard, as Jose Travenia, the dumb servant, shows a piece of character acting seldom seen even in dramatic theatres.
