

Is Your Kitchen Work Mere Drudgery?

If so, change this condition by installing a Gas Range and your daily household duties in the kitchen will be a pleasure. You can then go about preparing your meals in a dainty frock that will not become soiled by contact with ashes, dirt and soot. We keep the ashes, dirt and hard work.

DECAY OF THE LAW OF CUSTOM.

Due to the White Race Travelling All Over the Earth.

The progressive penetration of the white race into regions of the earth which are inhabited by colored races may be said to have culminated in the recent expedition to Lhasa which probably marks the beginning of a sapping process destined ultimately to lead to the fall of the vast citadel of immemorial custom and prejudice. Under the title of "Decay of the Law of Custom" an interesting address was recently delivered at the meeting of the Day on the Association by its president, Basil H. Thomson, governor of the Dominion of Cornwall, England. The laws of custom which have governed the colored races for countless generations are in a process of gradual breaking down though it is not yet so advanced as to admit of the possibility of the globe's still remaining very unutilized as it stands today. The influence of these laws is being lessening fast, less of their communication must make itself for a greater number of slow and steady among the different races of mankind and for the white race the question is of the first importance as to what part of the colored races will come to pass in the fair of the world when they shall have assimilated the teachings of Western civilization.

With this in mind upon the question of the relative mental capacity of the white and colored races, it would be not to assume that the white is inferior to the colored, but to recognize the mental level of another race. The mental level of another race is found who after years of reading has been able to read the "Laws of Custom" of the colored races. MAMMOTH GERMAN DOCK

Holds Longest Vessel Afloat and Lifts 35,000 Tons. With the view of keeping pace with the increasing length and weight of modern steamships, a firming firm constructed an enormous floating dock. This dock is capable of lifting 17,000 tons weight but the new plan is 35,000 tons. It is 50 feet long in five sections 10 feet each so that it is able to lift the largest vessel now afloat. It is built on a barge and can be towed from one place to another. Although Hatching will be the main part of the dock, it will be a most important work in the construction of the dock. It is a most important work in the construction of the dock. It is a most important work in the construction of the dock.

Title of Affairs in Germany.

Gen. von Lieber of Germany has a theory regarding the fatherland which he explained at the conference of the pan-German League at Worms. The general theory is to this effect: "Every five years or so there comes a tide in the affairs of Germany which takes the blood has led on to fortune. The year 1791 came the sea years war in 1756, after the battle of Jena in 1806 followed the successful wars of 1864 and 1866. The water mark was reached in 1871 and the ebb will be due by about the year 1920."

THE LOVE OF ONE WOMAN

Lucy was anxiously waiting the coming of Gerald Nutting. For two weeks she had not seen him, and she had been both hurt and displeased at his silence, for she could only guess why he had not come. But to-day she had received a note from him telling her that he would call this evening. Immediately she had forgotten her misgivings and in honor of his coming she had donned the dress he liked the best, and arranged her hair in the way that he had said pleased him most.

Time dragged along until it was a quarter of eight and the lady came and told her that Mr. Nutting was waiting to see her. Lucy descended to the parlor with a happy smile on her face. As she entered the room a young man rose and came forward. "I can stop only a few minutes," he said after the first greeting which was not very cordial on his part.

"I'm going away this evening," he said, and you don't want to be disappointed. I'm going to be out of a theatre party and I suppose Beatrice Varney makes another one of the party. Make a try to get to the theatre, but I don't know if you can get there in time. I wish I had never come to see you. I'm going to be out of a theatre party and I suppose Beatrice Varney makes another one of the party. Make a try to get to the theatre, but I don't know if you can get there in time.

The days that followed were filled with sorrow for Lucy, for she had no one to turn to for comfort. She had no one to turn to for comfort. She had no one to turn to for comfort. She had no one to turn to for comfort.

Time went by until two years had passed and then one day Lucy saw that Gerald Nutting had returned, and that though he had recovered from his illness he was in danger of losing his sight. She did not hesitate in deciding that she would go to see him at once. She was sure she had no claim on him, but she was an old friend and she needed every bit of sympathy she could get at this trying time.

When she remembered that she had not seen him for two years, she did not think of her plans. She did not think of her plans. She did not think of her plans. She did not think of her plans.

He came to his feet, and he reached out his hand to her. "I'm glad to see you," he said. "I'm glad to see you." "I'm glad to see you," he said. "I'm glad to see you." "I'm glad to see you," he said. "I'm glad to see you."

"Yes, I do, I could," she answered. "Heaven bless you, dear," he murmured. "I knew you would say that. I knew if you loved me that the world would make no difference but I was afraid you had left off caring. But I won't be as bad as you heard, Lucy. I saw a specialist yesterday. His question of a delicate operation. There's not a doubt but that it will be successful," he said. "But best of all, everything is the thought that you would love me anyway."

DEATH IS PAINLESS.

once as Naturally and is as Welcome as Sleep.

The fear of death, which has been so grossly exploited in dramatic literature, is almost without existence in reality. Most patients have lost it completely by the time they become seriously ill. Death and sleep are both painless according to Dr. Woods Hutchinson in the American Magazine and cause their fear not anxiety by their approach. It is one of the most merciful things in nature that the overwhelming majority of the patients which destroy themselves, whether they are cases of infectious diseases or those which are elaborated from the body, are unconscious long before they die.

While death is not in any sense, a punishment, to sleep it resembles it to a great extent. It is the vast majority of cases that not only painless but also unconscious, and fever, and all other symptoms of death are completely absent. The patient is unconscious long before they die.
