Baker Theater. For their second production at the Baker Theatre commencing Monday afternoon, June 21, Bert Lytell and his company have chosen "Gallop" a play in which Charles Richman and Frances Starr scored a great success. The play is a dramatization by David Gray of his book of the same name and had a long run at the Garrick Theatre, New York. The race scene in the third act is cleverly managed and is worthy of mention. The last act, shows the "hunt ball" a live horse being introduced as "leader of the cotillion." During Mr. Lytell's season matinees will be given on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. For the week commencing Monday, June 28, "Henriette," one of Henry Miller's greatest successes, will be the bill.

Liberal Reductions on Children's Coats.

There are about two hundred coats here in our Children's department on the Second floor which it is our purpose to dispose of quickly.

We cannot house them here during the summer, and believe the new price tags they now wear will start them out of the store at a rapid pace.

They are coats for children from 2 to 14 years of age. Materials are worsteds, broadcloths, serges, coverts and mixtures.

Colors are plain navy, tan, red, and gray, and black and white checks. There are three-quarter length and full length styles, many lined throughout with saten or silk, others unlined.

All have notched collarband and are trimmed with braid in various styles. They are coats that have sold up to this time at prices from $3.98 to $15.75. You may now select at prices from $2.25 to $10.75.

Hardly necessary to think it over very long with such savings as this in sight. Second Floor.
