Ad Multes Annos. The Catholic Journal extends hearty congratulations to his Eminence, Cardinal Gibbons...

China. It is becoming evident that the Taft administration is to be much more of a diplomatic, much less a gallery-play government than the Roosevelt regime.

Education. Judging from the accounts given in the press despatches and in the Catholic exchanges, the recent convention of the National Educational Association held in Boston was a gratifying success...

France. There, again, it may not. But the possibility will bear close watch.

Briand. So an avowed Socialist is to be premier of France! How does this appeal to the ignorant and the bigots who argued that the Combes anti-religion law was to be the forerunner of unreserved success and extreme tolerance for the French Republic?

Let an exchange of pronounced secular mind, describe Briand. We cannot feel surprised at the announcement that both Conservative senators and the Radicals, who dominate the party of the Republican majority, object to the selection of a Socialist as the head of the French government.

M. Briand has some ability. Like many other advocates who seek popularity by demagogic appeals to the populace, he professes to believe in the fallacies of what the French call "collectivism."

One of the strong resolutions adopted was as follows: Whereas, Our Holy Father, Pius X, beholding the wreck and ruin which their false ideas of education are bringing upon those nations who have debased and disgraced their once glorious ideals...

Resolved That we solemnly reiterate our purpose expressed in the resolutions of the fifth annual meeting of the association "to make every effort not only to strengthen our present splendid parish school system, but also to make every effort to maintain in all vigor and to multiply, wherever necessary, our academies, high schools, colleges and universities, which are coming to be more and more recognized as the only ordinary safeguards of faith for a period of life, most in need of such aid."

State Council of C. M. B. A. The New York State Council of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association will hold its annual convention in Rochester on Saturday next...

Parade. The convention will open at Cathedral Hall on Frank Street at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning. Mayor H. H. Edgerton will extend to the delegates the welcome of the city.

Parade. The parade will be held on Saturday night in which the members of the state council and the Rochester members will join. Members of the 3,000 local members are expected to turn out.

To Build a "Masters' Home in Wayland. No real estate transaction of greater interest to Catholics in this vicinity has taken place in some time than the purchase of a piece of land by the Nazareth Convent and Academy from the Rosenkrantz estate in Wayland.
