ST. JOSEPH'S

Last Thursday morning at 9 o'clock there was a solemn high mass in this church, the occasion being the celebration of the golden jubilee of the religious profession of Mother Paula, member of the Notre Dame sisterhood, who for the past 25 years has been in charge of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum. Delegations from all over the sisterhoods were present at the services in large numbers. Wednesday evening a celebration was held in parish hall. The children from the orphan asylum gave a delightful entertainment and several speakers extended heartfelt congratulations to the venerable jubilarian.

Margaret Chateau, known in religion as Mother Paula, was born July 30, 1835, in Alsace-Lorraine, then a French province. She was the eldest of 12 children born to Nicholas and Susanne Mentzien Chateau, five of whom are still alive. Her parents brought her to America in September of the same year and settled in Detroit, Mich., at that time little more than a wilderness. The father was one of the pioneer residents of the city. He resided there until he died, August 11, 1854. The wife survived nearly fifty years and died March 9, 1904, at the advanced age of 69 years.

Margaret Chateau entered the Notre Dame Convent at Milwaukee, Wis., August 21, 1855, and received the religious habit on August 5th the following year. Two years later on the same day she made her final vows.

After becoming a member of the Notre Dame sisterhood the young religious was sent to St. Louis. Later she was transferred to New York city and after some years she came to Rochester, where for a quarter of a century she has been in charge of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum.

Since she came to this city Mother Paula has made a host of friends, who see in her the ideal of the modern nun; generous to a fault, unselfish and unswerving in the performance of duty, sac-rificating everything in the good of others. Many women from all walks of life and followers of all creeds will unite in Mother Paula honor on her coming anniversary. Not the least among these will be a large number who lost parents at an early age and who were given a chance in life through the instrumentality of this noble, unassuming woman.

The monthly school collection will be taken up after the elevation at all of the masses Sunday. Sunday will be the monthly communion day for the married women of the Holy Family.

Sunday at 10:30 o'clock there will be a solemn high mass, the occasion being the celebration of the feast of St. Alphonsus, founder of the Redemptorist order in charge of St. Joseph's church.

The annual outing of St. Joseph's orphans will be held next Wednesday at Bay View. All members of the congregation are invited to attend.

The picnic of the choir was held last Wednesday at Long Pond. All present had a most enjoyable time. Frank M. Hoffman was in charge of the arrangements.

Next Sunday will be communion day for the young men of the Holy Family and for the Sunday school boys.

More stone for the new tower has been received in this city. The work will soon be pushed and will be completed as soon as possible.

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

On next Sunday the Boys Sodality will receive holy communion at the 8:30 mass.

At the meeting of the Rosary Society on last Sunday an interesting letter from Father O'Neill was read.

The Misses Agnes and Florence Henry are spending their vacation in Palmyra.

Miss Mary Hogan of Tremont St. is traveling through Canada.

Cornerstone Laid

Bishop Hickey Officiated At Solemn Ceremony Last Sunday.

Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Hickey officiated Sunday afternoon at the laying of the cornerstone of the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel in Ontario Street.

Rev. Oreste Casali, who has been interested in the Italian residents of Rochester for many years, will take charge of the new church. The walls are up now, and it will be but a short time when the building will be ready for occupancy.

Before the exercises at the church, there was a parade of civic and religious societies, including the Holy Rosary Society, Our Lady of Mt. Carmel and St. Anthony's. These societies assembled at the Episcopal residence in Frank Street at 3 o'clock. The civic societies assembled there with the religious organizations, all wearing citizen's clothes, and acted as an escort to Bishop Hickey and the other clergy men.

In his address Bishop Hickey congratulated his Italian people on the erection of a church for their own use and urged upon them high standards of morality, religion and patriotism. He referred to the future with evident appreciation of what the combined church and school would mean to the Italian people in the years to come. He explained that the sanctuary had been blessed to God's work in the ceremonies just ended, and told his hearers that the prayers of the clergy and laymen had been a petition to God for a blessing upon all those who shall worship within the walls of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel.

"I wish to call your attention," he said, "to the fact that this structure, like all the new buildings being erected for religious work in this city and the diocese, is one that offers to the people a place in which to worship God and to the children of the people a place in which they may receive that education so important, so essential to every Christian child."

The speaker explained that the building would have an auditorium on the second floor for services, and that in other parts of the building there would be ten school rooms for the use of the little folks. He spoke at length on the value of education, saying that the most important thing in any great system of education is the building of character.

"If you don't teach the child that he owes an obligation to God," said the Bishop, "how can he be taught that he owes an obligation to his fellowman?"

In another part of his address, the speaker reminded the Italians that the church would be an Italian church and school is more than just a place of worship. It is a place where the child learns to love God and his fellowman.

The church will accommodate about 100 persons, while the school will have room for at least 100 children. There are about 3,000 persons of the Italian race in the church field, so that Father Casali does not expect to have any difficulty in filling his pews. The Italians have a personal interest in the church, because they have already a financial interest in it.

On the construction, in their own language, they will give help before they the church's name. "Nostra Signora del Monte Carmelo, 1905."

Rev. Dr. Joseph V. Hennessy of the Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, Buffalo, also delivered an address in Italian.

New Church for Polish People

Two bishops officiated Sunday morning at the dedication of the new Church of St. Stanislaus. Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Hickey and Rt. Rev. Paul Rhode, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, the only Polish bishop in the United States, was the other.

About a year ago, Bishop Hickey laid the cornerstone and the completion of the building is a source of pride, not only to those who are to use it, but to the Bishop and his associates, who have watched the growth of the Polish Church generally with great interest and satisfaction.

While the members of the Polish Church are delighted with it because it is a modern sanctuary and of the best construction throughout, their pleasure in the dedication services was not as complete as it might have been. For a long time their beloved rector, Rev. Theophilus Szadalski, has been seriously ill. He was unable to attend. The priest who has filled in at the church since May 1, Rev. M. F. Holmink of Buffalo, represented Father Szadalski at both services.

Bishop Rhode blessed the church and delivered the sermon in connection with the mass, at which Bishop Hickey officiated. After the mass, Bishop Hickey spoke to the congregation, congratulating its members on the completion of the church and giving them fatherly advice for the future.

Deaths

Miss Agnes Ryan died Sunday at the residence of her sister, Mrs. George J. Knapp, 115 South Goodman Street. She leaves one brother, Joseph M. Ryan of Palmyra, and two sisters, Mrs. Katharine Marks and Mrs. Anna M. Knapp. The funeral took place Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the house, and at 9 o'clock from Blessed Sacrament Church.
