

The Bachelor's Button

By Martha Gray Pillsbury

The hot, sultry sun, peculiar alone to the month of August, was pouring its rays over the busy, turmoil of an overcrowded city.

On this particular day, as she was hurrying to her daily trial, the lawyer's office, she met the eyes of an indifferent masculine, whom she had especially noticed for the past week.

"Julie entered the office and was soon at her desk working with a furious haste to forget the impracticability of her former thoughts.

"Edwards had been refused another baked potato on the simple but convincing ground that there were no more, according to the New York Sun.

"The difference between dinner and a luncheon. You don't eat dinner in the middle of the day.

"It was funny something very funny happened the day," said Olette to his friend. "I was downtown and found myself without car fare.

"The early hours of the morning was when he approached the hotel clerk. He did not realize that many cars along Broadway had somewhat rearranged his appearance.

"Earthquake Areas of World. The most shaken countries of the world are Italy, Japan, Greece, South America (the Pacific coast), Java, Siam and Asia Minor.

"Idea of a Philosopher. When they're away from looking at a thing it might help matters to shut one's eyes."

WONDERFUL ROCK GARDEN.

Englishman Has a Three Acre Reproduction of the Matterhorn.

The largest rock garden in England is that of Sir Frank Crisp, at Friar Park, Henley. It is a faithful reproduction of the Matterhorn on a scale of about three acres.

At the base of the mountain says Country Life in America is a white Swiss chalet where one may sit and enjoy the scene comparing all the main features with a little ornate model of the Matterhorn.

The Passer. Morality was coming down the pike. Every one turned to see her. "It's a grand sight," said Polton.

"What a pleasant looking old lady," said a chorus of voices. "I believe in her thoroughly," said the magnate.

Only three people in the crowd there were who did not even notice her as she approached and faded out of sight.

The Difference. Edward having been refused another baked potato on the simple but convincing ground that there were no more, according to the New York Sun.

A MAIDEN AND A SOLDIER

By Sadie Hoffman Seaman

People wondered at the thrift of Mateo Menzano. He seldom gambled during the fiestas and this alone marked him among his neighbors.

To make his aristocracy more complete, Mateo came home one day with a great can of yellow paint.

When the big handsome American soldier from San Cristobal came down to the shack to see a neighbor, he was their heads in grave apprehension.

On pleasant Sunday evenings when the band played in the Plaza Municipal and the maidens and their mothers stood about in the cool shade of the trees, and a few soldiers were seen in the distance.

One beautiful night—and such beautiful nights as they have in Porto Rico—Carter Young was leaning against one of the flowering plants of the garden.

The next day the transport sailed, but in the confusion of embarking, it was not noticed until the flag of old Morro were almost lost from sight.

"Margaret, Carita," he said. "This is a pretty mess and I think I get my discharge tomorrow. Well, I will ride down in the morning and see Carita and tell her I have gained a short furlough.

FISHES WITH ITS WINGS.

Naturalist's Observation on the Sky Way of the Casowary.

Habits of the cormorant and of our native fish hawk are generally known. Their methods of taking fish are very much like those of birds of prey.

The bird remained motionless and kept its eyes closed as if in sleep. It remained in this position for a quarter of an hour when suddenly closing its wings and straightening its feathers it stepped out on the bank.

The fish had evidently mistaken the feathers for a kind of weed that grows in the water along the banks of the river in this island and which much resemble the feathers of the Casowary.

Torpedo Governed from Shore. A submerged torpedo propelled and controlled by wireless electricity transmitted by the wireless method to the work of Carl Abrahamson of San Diego, Cal.

Soap Grows on Trees. Side by side grow the soap tree and the tallow tree. The soap tree yields a product from which is manufactured the purest article of soap that is possible to be made.

Flowers Without Foliage. One of the most extraordinary flowers in cultivation is Hall's amaryllis, which reverses the order of nature by blooming in winter without any foliage.

Dogs Have Cancer. Among animals reptiles are practically the only species in which cancers have not been found, but it is the domesticated animals or those living in closest association with man that suffer most.

Addition for a Lady. She entered upon her stage life at the age of 15, had attained phenomenal success at 20. Ten years later she toured the States as a star.

Daily Thought. A man is only happy when he believes himself to be so, in whatever way the proposition is turned, and no man believes himself so happy but what he might be happier.
