Wake Up! It is high time that Catholics all over the country but especially in Rochester, woke up to the fact that they have been in a Rip Van Winkle slumber.

If it be true that advertising is necessary in every walk of life and in every sort of activity, and evidences are not wanting that this is true in great measure, then we have not been fully awake.

Every fad, every lam, every sort of organization is using printer's ink lavishly and fulsomely to spread abroad its alleged virtues and to attract followers and adherents.

Have Catholics followed suit? Not to the extent that they should.

Non Catholic sects put out hundreds of thousands of their official organs. Catholic publishers have to "dig hard" for their subscribers. Men and women will subscribe to the daily papers, even though they lambast the Catholic Church in every issue, and while the Catholic Editor has to beg for news the same is furnished post haste to the daily press.

If wealthy Catholics would be half as generous in their support of the Catholic press as they are in their contribution to institutions that have no love for us, they would occupy a far stronger position than we do. We could demand as a matter of right not be as mendicants.

If Catholics would assert their rights in season and out of season we would not witness the spectacle of public school buildings being thrown open to infidel, God-hating anarchists to glorify anarchy of the Emma Goldman type and to hurl denunciations at a friendly European power for executing an agitator who was trying to overthrow the Government by violence. Csatogosz assassinated President McKinley. The Courts decreed his death. Ferrer advocated assassination of the King of Spain; it was his speeches that fanned the flame of anarchy culminating in the Barcelona massacre where convents were burned, nuns insulted and priests maltreated. Ferrer was tried by the Spanish courts and executed in conformity with their decree. We must assume that he was executed legally as was the assassin of President McKinley.

Surely, the fact that Spain is a Catholic country should not weigh. If anarchy is not to be permitted in the United States its European supporters should not be applauded just because they advocate assassination and violence toward those who profess the Catholic faith. "Death to the Jesuits" was the key-note of the Ferrer meeting in New York and it is the keynote at every such gathering in the United States.

Possibly, bigotry cannot be driven entirely out of human nature but there is no excuse for it to be aired in public school buildings. Maintained by taxes paid by Catholics as well as non-Catholics by men and women drawing their salaries from the public treasury. These things would not befall the Catholics would wake up

Christians!

At the dinner given to Dr. Cook at Copenhagen, on September 6, Norman Hansen, who was with the arctic discoverer on the little steamer Hans Egede during the trip from Lerwick, in his speech drew a striking picture of that hitherto unknown vessel and added, for the benefit of the legion of newspapermen who made up the company.

"Probably even now you do not know who Hans Egede was. He was the first man to take the knowledge of Christianity to Greenland. That was 200 years ago."

America did not relish this statement and continued as follows:

"It is not easy to accept all the romances which our newspapers have been indulging of late in connection with polar discoveries. If Mr. Hansen is not misquoted, one must marvel at such an exhibition of historical ignorance in a man so well reputed among the Danes. The records of the Far North tell how Laefson of Eric the Red, the founder of Greenland, became the instrument of his country's conversion by bringing there from the European continent, in the year 1000, Catholic missionaries and spread abroad its alleged virtues and to attract followers and adherents.

Fur Garments

For the coming season, which promises to be a decided Fur Coat season, the medium and long Coats are the fashionable garments.

The modish long Fur Coat has been an exceedingly popular garment and is likely to continue to be so for a number of seasons to come, regardless of the minor style changes apt to appear from time to time.

But, to be attractive, the long Coat especially must have the correct fit and outline. There is nothing more unbecoming than an ill-fitting Fur Coat. Regardless of the Fur employed, the style feature is essential, and this is impossible if the garment is improperly fitted.

In order that this element of style may be brought to its highest perfection in every garment that is sold, the garment is fitted and altered by expert fitters and cutters in our own factory, an advantage which should not be overlooked by prospective purchasers.

Table with 2 columns: Fur Garment Name and Price. Includes Russian Pony Coats, Caracul Coats, Hudson Seal, Sable Squirrel, Persian Lamb.
