Things are good or bad only as they are made good or bad.

If you have not yet allowed yourself the good and gratifications in Liebotschaner, perhaps it is because you haven't yet gotten the bad out of yourself.

Banker Theater.
For the New Year's week attraction, Bert Lytell and his popular company will make an elaborate production of "The Millionaire's Affair," a comedy drama of college football life, entitled "The Strongheart."

The title role of "Strongheart" is none other than a full-blooded North American Indian who is taking a post-graduate course at Columbia College.

The scenes are brilliant with comic detail. The varying types of collegiate characters are neatly drawn and the incident in the training quarters between the heroes of the big football game is stirring in the extreme and full of youthful fervor. To make the play as attractive as possible, Mr. Lytell has arranged for the members of the East and West High School football teams to participate in the big football game in the second act.

Wm. H. Turner, The Sporting Deacon

Matinees will be played on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. An early reservation of seats for the two New Year's Day performances is advised.

Temple Theater.
There will be several new acts in the Temple bill acts that will make their first local appearance. In addition there will also be acts on the bill that have enjoyed popularity in Rochester heretofore. Among the latter might be mentioned Stuart Barnes, the polished comedian, character actor and singer and Bert Levy, the informal whistling artist.

The place of honor on the bill has been reserved for Van Buren, who comes to Rochester both as an actor and as a musician. In a Broadhurst playlet named "The Master Musician" he will be supported by Leonard Burleigh and Eileen Van Buren.

The opening act will be the bounding rope act of Hugh Lloyd, an Australian expert, who is as well and favorably known in the Antipodes as was Blondin in this country.

The Makenenko troupe of Russian gypsy dancers and musicians will have the closing position on the bill, immediately preceding the Temple scope pictures. This act as well as the dancing act of Ryan and White will also be seen in local vaudeville for the first time.

Cook Opera House.
"The Sporting Deacon," Chas. E. Blaney's newest offering will have its first presentation here at the Cook Opera House next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday with the usual matinees.

It is a story of love and horse racing and bristles with strong dramatic action, interspersed with plenty of clean, wholesome comedy, and has been the biggest kind of a hit ever since first produced.

"Mr. Lode of Kohl," with Bert Williams, that big, funny fellow long identified with the Williams and Walker company, in the principal role will begin a three nights and one matinee engagement at the Cooks, starting December 30.

Every particular of this new musical fantasy will be presented on a lavish scale. The song numbers and ensembles will be staged with novelty and dressed with taste. The dances have all the fire and dash of ragtime.

Emmet Guards.

The annual meeting and installation of officers of the Emmet Guards was held on Tuesday evening, December 22, at the headquarters, 401 H. Hall, 138 W. Main Street. There was a large attendance and the affair was conducted by the officers in a most business-like manner. The new officers are: Captain, Michael T. Ryan; First Lieutenant, P. Murray; Second Lieutenant, Frank P. Murray; Sergeants, Florence Donoghue, Peter Kelly, Joseph Dolan, Mathew Morrison; Corporals, Martin Walsh, Michael Buggy, William Manning, Michael Henley, President, John Cotter, vice president, Martin Walsh, recording secretary, Frank P. Murray, financial secretary, Florence Donoghue, treasurer, Edward O'Connell; trustees, Michael T. Ryan and Florence Donoghue.

The officers installed are as follows: Captain, Michael T. Ryan; second lieutenant, Frank P. Murray; sergeants, Florence Donoghue, Peter Kelly, Joseph Dolan, Mathew Morrison; corporals, Martin Walsh, Michael Buggy, William Manning, Michael Henley, President, John Cotter, vice president, Martin Walsh, recording secretary, Frank P. Murray, financial secretary, Florence Donoghue, treasurer, Edward O'Connell; trustees, Michael T. Ryan and Florence Donoghue.

The contest was well matched and the contest was called off without victory for either.

President John Cotter sang "Off to Philadelphia." Peter Kelly sang "Michael Dwyer," Dan McFarland sang "Three leaves of Samrock." Vocal solos were also given by Thomas McTammany, Michael Murrphy and Thomas Culhane. The entertainment was brought to a close by the entire company singing "God Save Ireland."
