Learn Lesson.

Rochester has had a "students' volunteer convention" for the last week. This is really a Union Protestant missionary convention under a new name.

Bliss your soul, dear Catholic readers, don't feel too angry at attacks upon the Church made in the heat of a missionary convention or Methodist camp meeting.

There is one lesson however that the student volunteer managers might well learn from the Catholics of Rochester. It was like pulling teeth to drag from the entire business set, the entire citizenship and the entire Protestant population, the comparatively paltry $10,000 needed to entertain the convention.

And the 75,000 or 100,000 Protestants of Rochester had to pass the hat again and again in public in order to raise $10,000!

Great Work.

Throughout the entire country Catholic circles are interested in the announcement that Archbishop Farley despite his exacting duties has undertaken a biography of Cardinal McClosky.

Besides the faithful of the Archdiocese of New York, those of the Northern portion of the province will be equally interested in the celebration of Cardinal McClosky's centenary which is to be celebrated in New York on March 10, 1910.

Church For All. Probably, the Catholic Church is best and familiarly known as "the Church of the Poor."

Rev. Bernard Vaughan, the noted Jesuit holds that the Catholic Church is equally "the Church of the Gentleman."

Question Box

Catholic priests, at least, in Rochester are coming to place a high value on the question box especially in its effect upon non-Catholics.

"First, however, be it observed that only the occasional use of the question box is contemplated say in Advent and Lent; otherwise, of course, it would soon pall."

"It serves as an admirable instruction to the many Catholics whose ignorance of their religion is appalling."

"It fills the church as an ordinary preacher can do. It is far and away the most powerful means of making converts that has yet appeared."

Missomer

Rev. Francis F. Goeding, the eminent Jesuit missionary, does not take much stock in the so-called "Education of Progress and Refinement".

"What is the first question asked the child in school?" Who made you? When I say in school I am not considering the schools of progress and refinement.

Five Minute Sermon

The Child Jesus in the Temple. St. Luke tells us that Our Lord at the age of twelve years went with His holy Mother and St. Joseph to Jerusalem to be present at the festival, which was solemnized for seven days, in the Temple, and the feast of the Pasch or Passover; that these days being over, He was lost from their sight and remained in Jerusalem for their home believing that He was in company of His relatives.

Sinners may learn from these holy persons what ought to be the sentiments of their own hearts when they have lost God by their sins; how eagerly they should to find Him by repentance and that they should have recourse to the friends of God, the saints, to obtain the graces necessary for a true conversion.

We should learn from this that if Jesus Christ, King of kings and Lord of lords, did not refuse to obey Mary and Joseph, we should not refuse to obey humbly and voluntarily our parents, superiors and all who are charged with our care and education.
