Only Woman Chauffeur—Miss Natalie White Holds the Record.

Miss Natalie White of New York City has the distinction of being the only professional chauffeur in this country.

A Good House Plant. One of the nicest little plants for using in a window, either in pots set close together or in a box fitted to the window, is peperomia.

They may be propagated very readily by leaf cuttings the same as some varieties of begonia—that is, a leaf may be slit through by two cuts crossing each other and laid on moist, warm sand until roots appear below accompanied by tiny leaves above.

The Modern Lady Godiva. This is the costume in which the charming young American singer Belle Abbott will appear when she stars this fall in a new light grand opera by Pietro Mascagni, called "Ysobel."

BELLE ABOUT IN STAINED GLASS ATTITUDE.

English history knows, rode through the town of Coventry clad principally in her hair. In costume Miss Abbott has a stained glass effect that is quite realistic.

A Fashion Tip. "Are separate waists going out?" is a question frequently asked and is always readily answered. "They are not."

Happily for the peace of mind of all womanhood, the shirt waist never has gone out and never will.

As long as our skies rain dust and dirt so long does every woman feel that after one or two wearings her shirt waist is unfit for use and must go to be laundered.

The hint is given that waists of contrasting colors are to be worn this fall, but save to the wearer unless accompanied with taste and skill. They are hard to handle successfully.

Milady's Mirror

"Now we're busy teaching women to be hobble headed," said a woman who takes care of the hair.

"To dress your hair hobble style you take it and part it in the middle. Then you drape it back from the face in some soft way, and finally you bunch it at the back in a big mass.

For Oily Skins. When one's skin is oily do not try to conceal it by excessive use of powder. It makes the face puffy and clogs the pores.

There are various drying lotions that are excellent for this condition. Wiping off the face with pure alcohol has a drying effect on the skin.

If you fear pore braxy try this lotion: One tablespoonful of powdered borax, two tablespoonfuls of glycerin and a quart of camphor water. Dip a soft linen cloth in this and mop the face several times a day.

What Are Your Eyebrows Like? Straight and level eyebrows denote mentality. Musicians often have these brows that meet over the nose usually prove the love of authority and mark a capable person.

The arch is but slight the forehead may be strong, full of individuality and with a fine central spread. When like this, however, there is usually a lack either of time, tone or locality.

Very fine, distinctly outlined brows indicate an artistic nature. Much elevated eyebrows show artistic perception of color and shape, good taste, organization and mathematical powers.

A Toilet Economy. The particular hostess now uses individual pieces of soap in her guest room and gives to each new guest a fresh piece. Where much entertaining is done this means numerous odds and ends of fine soap.

One woman has hit upon the plan of using this for the children in a wire soap shaker, such as is found for dishwashing. The finest pieces can be thus utilized. A basin is filled with warm water and the shaker agitated until a thick lather is formed.

Another way to use up small pieces of the soap is to put them into small cheesecloth bags and use as one would a bra or almond meal bag.

Low Shoe Peril. The constant wearing of low shoes and slippers will spoil the shape of the ankles, especially if one must be much on the feet. An exercise which gives shapeliness to the lower limbs consists in standing straight, hands on hips, heels together, then rising slowly on the tips of the toes while exhaling in the breath; then while exhaling it slowly return to the first position, feet flat on floor. Do this every morning and evening for ten minutes; also as much as you can wear high laced boots, drawing the laces as snugly as comfort will permit. Draw them in by degrees, not all at once.

Perfuming the Hair. The perfumed hair cap has met with favor with women who are fond of dainty conceits, and one may be easily made at home. After the shampoo and at night these caps should be worn and the fragrance is lasting. Fashion them after the style of the Dutch bunnet. Between two layers of silk put a sheet of cotton batting with plenty of sachet powder, using always the same perfume. Many women prefer the Florentine oris, but when you find a perfume to your liking use it all the time, as it bespeaks more refinement than having all sorts of essences about your garments.

THE ROYAL PELT.

Ermine More Fashionable Than Ever This Winter.

NEW ERMINE SET.

In line with the popularity of black and white effects this season that royal pelt, ermine, has come into more than usual favor from the fashionable world. It not only adorns hats, trims evening gowns and street suits, but makes the stunner of the new small piece sets. The illustration gives a good impression of how attractive is the new makeup in collar and muff sets of ermine.

The Separate Waist. Persian effects in separate waists are one of the latest comers in the dress world and they are certainly attractive when soft colorings are selected. The natty blouse in the cut is of pale though rich Persian colorings and ried out in chiffon, which material is used over a foundation of navy blue satin. The folds and simulated buttonholes and covered buttons are of the blue satin. Such a waist worn with a dark blue cloth costume is exceedingly good taste.

Doesn't Know Her Age. There is a glaring phase of unfairness in the position of the two sexes, despite all our struggles for the suffrage. A woman still breathes to tell her age, no matter how youthful she may look, while as long as a man looks youthful he is generally willing to admit and even to boast of how many milestones he has passed. There is at least one father who understood this problem in time and who gave his daughter a fair chance in life by never letting her know how old she was. He realized that her birth that a time would come when she would not want to tell her age, and he spared her the humiliation of having to prevaricate, so she was never told either her age or the place where she was born, and there were no birth records preserved in the family.

A DOUBLE REVENGE

"Would you mind," said Gwen to me one day shortly before we were to send out our wedding cards, "if I do a bit of flirting?" "Flirting? What do you want to do that for, and whom do you want to flirt with?" "I wish to flirt with Ed Avery, and I wish to punish him for the way he treated me once."

"What did he do?" "Why, he just acted as if he could marry me if he liked. He went around telling everybody we were engaged."

"That's just the reason why I want to get this one out of the way before settling down."

I was very busy getting my affairs in shape to be married and go on my wedding trip and thought very little about Gwen's "cleaning up" her old affairs and getting them out of the way. I was a little surprised one day to receive a note from her that she was feeling very badly and feared she might not be in condition for the wedding by the day she had set.

"I think she's going to drop you and marry Ed Avery."

"Nonsense," I replied. "That's simply an old score she's got against Avery, and she's paying him up before being married."

"Don't you believe it." "I know it. She told me what she was going to do before starting in."

"You mean she told you what she thought she was going to do. We women are never certain what we'll eventually do in such cases. It depends more on the man than on the girl. If a man has a girl and lets some one else take her away from him it's his own fault."

Belle left me to think over what she had said. I didn't do much thinking, but I did some mighty quick acting. I wrote a note to Gwen telling her that an old flame of mine had come to town who had jilted me. I was burning to pay her off in her own coin. I must therefore ask the same indulgence I had granted.
