

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Benbrook, Michigan Star Left Guard and Captain.

Widespread interest is being taken in the coming intercollegiate football game between the Pennsylvania and Michigan eleven to be played in Philadelphia Nov. 12.

Another "Hope of White Flax." While other cities of the country are increasing the pugilistic question and saying their claims to the championship, "Decorah," Ia., is likely to again shine in the sporting world.

George O'Brien, who is well versed in pugilistic matters, says that Falzer is doing wonderful work and that he is today being considered the white man's hope in wrestling the championship from Jack Johnson, the big negro.

Princeton hockey prospects are again bright this year. All but two of last season's championship team are eligible. Captain Peacock's place at right and Read's at cover point will be hard to fill, but the entire forward line will be composed of veterans.

Eddie Collins in Every Game. Eddie Collins, the star second baseman of the Philadelphia world's champions, is just a sample of the men that go to make up the pennant winning team.

Cornell Develops a Star. One of the features of the football practice at Cornell is the drop kicking of Fitcher, one of the candidates for end. He surprised the coaches by making the ball over, both from the end and drop, with surprising accuracy.

HUMOROUS QUIPS

Modern Osculation.

Three, only three my darling, Sterilized, sanative, slow, Not like the swift and careless ones We used to know

The first kiss oh my darling, Is sprayed with germicide, For many noxious little germs In real life hide

Cordial Greetings. We are always glad to encourage new arrivals in the journalistic trade. There is no petty jealousy about us.

Wrong Question. "So you took dinner at Willie Stout's today?" said Tommy's mother to Tommy.

That Was All. Weary clerk (after cutting off a twenty-five samples of dress goods) is waiting for his madam.

Intended to Pay. A bashful young lover walked into the house of his sweetheart bearing a large box with the name of a prominent florist written on the cover.

Fame's Kindness. Fame came and placed the laurel wreath on the brow of the hero.

A Complaint. Mabel—Mr. Muggins paid me a compliment last night. Stella—What did he say? Mabel—He said I was just like sugar.

Plausible Proof. John—One of your creditors wishes to speak to you, sir. Master—Well, sir I'm away from home.

Cat and Canary Combine. Boy—Please, mum, I've come for the reward you offered. Lady—Yes, but it was for my canary not for the cat.

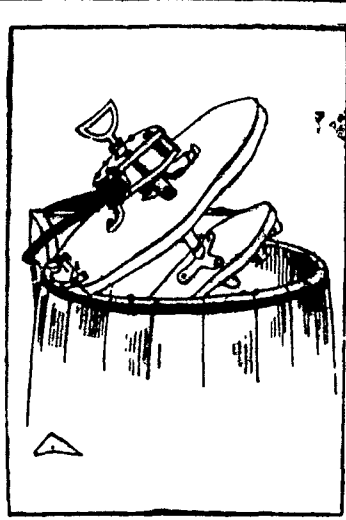

An Objection. "Every man should sleep eight or nine hours a day." "I couldn't think of it," replied the energetic person.

In Some Instances. Little Bobby—What are "sins of omission?" Uncle Bob—Those we have forgotten to commit, but which we promptly attend to as soon as we are reminded of the oversight.—Life.

Truth of It. "Didn't you tell me he made a living painting pictures?" "No, I did not. I said he painted pictures to make a living."—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Washing Machine Operated by Electricity or Hand.

A compact and strong little electric washing machine that is especially adapted for use in small families has been invented by an Ohio man.

Broiled Salt Mackerel. Broiled salt mackerel is a toothsome dish if rightly prepared, and one advantage is that it may be kept in the house as an emergency dish.

Conundrums. Why should a compliment from a turkey be an insult? Because it would be foul language.

Green Tomato Pickle. One peck of green tomatoes, one ounce of whole allspice, one dozen of sliced onions, one and one-half ounces of black pepper, one-quarter pound of ground mustard, one ounce of whole cloves and elder vinegar.

Cream Cake Pudding. Make a soft cream of a pint of milk, yolks of two eggs, a spoonful of flour, half a cupful of sugar and a little salt.

Braised Beef. One pound of chuck or juicy piece of beef, cut in cubes. Add cold water, and put on back of stove two or three hours.

Chili Sauce. Two dozen ripe tomatoes, one dozen onions, six green peppers and half a bunch of celery, chopped fine.

Goldenrod Toast. Into a chafing dish put one tablespoonful of butter and when bubbling add one tablespoonful of flour.

To Clean Jet. To clean jet jewelry rub it with a cloth wet in equal parts of water and alcohol and dry with a soft cloth.

Four in One. Every person has four characters: The one he shows, The one he thinks he has, The one others think he has, The one he actually has.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Floral Love Tale.

The maiden's name and the color of her hair? Marigold. An adjective that suited her and her brother's name? Sweet William.

The game of doublets was invented by that Englishman, Lewis Carroll (author of "Alice in Wonderland"), who originated the problem to change "head" to "tail" in five moves.

Queen Wilhelmina's Kindness. In a little house in one of the poorer streets of The Hague there lives in retirement, according to the figures, General Verwilt.

Mr. Otis of the Los Angeles Times. General Harrison Gray Otis, who recently came into public notice through the destruction of the Los Angeles Times printing plant, has had an interesting and varied career.

Wink—A Likely Game. Wink is an indoor game, and there must be just one more boy than there are girls.

Four in One. Every person has four characters: The one he shows, The one he thinks he has, The one others think he has, The one he actually has.

PEN PORTRAITS OF NOTABLE PEOPLE

Theophile Braga, Head of Affairs in Portugal.

Dr. Theophile Braga, president of the provisional government of Portugal, is one of the most popular men of that country, where he is known as the "wise man."

Queen Wilhelmina's Kindness. In a little house in one of the poorer streets of The Hague there lives in retirement, according to the figures, General Verwilt.

Mr. Otis of the Los Angeles Times. General Harrison Gray Otis, who recently came into public notice through the destruction of the Los Angeles Times printing plant, has had an interesting and varied career.

Wink—A Likely Game. Wink is an indoor game, and there must be just one more boy than there are girls.

Four in One. Every person has four characters: The one he shows, The one he thinks he has, The one others think he has, The one he actually has.

Wink—A Likely Game. Wink is an indoor game, and there must be just one more boy than there are girls.

Four in One. Every person has four characters: The one he shows, The one he thinks he has, The one others think he has, The one he actually has.

Wink—A Likely Game. Wink is an indoor game, and there must be just one more boy than there are girls.

Four in One. Every person has four characters: The one he shows, The one he thinks he has, The one others think he has, The one he actually has.

Wink—A Likely Game. Wink is an indoor game, and there must be just one more boy than there are girls.

Four in One. Every person has four characters: The one he shows, The one he thinks he has, The one others think he has, The one he actually has.

Wink—A Likely Game. Wink is an indoor game, and there must be just one more boy than there are girls.

Four in One. Every person has four characters: The one he shows, The one he thinks he has, The one others think he has, The one he actually has.

DUTCH JUSTICE.

It has been said of one of the old Dutch governors of New York that a Yankee—the Dutch always hated and distrusted the Yankees—once evening directed his attention to a silver crescent in the sky, remarking that it indicated bad weather.

"That is a ferry goat representing the moon." In the town of Albany, about the middle of the seventeenth century, Dietrich Ten Eyck had a dispute with one Killian van Giesbeck, after which Van Giesbeck disappeared.

The next morning the town clock astonished the good burghers by striking the hour of noon an hour later than the day before.

The judge sat up all night deliberating whether or no a day had been reached any conclusion, he assembled the twelve jurymen who had convicted Ten Eyck and propounded the problem.

The next day the jurymen got together in the winchshop of the town, lighted their clay pipes and consulted with the doctor about the matter of Dietrich Ten Eyck.

"Tell 'em where you have been," said the lawyer. "After peets." Then arose the patron in his dignity and, eyeing the Yankee severely, said:

"This man is not Killian van Giesbeck. He may be his brother, but he is not Killian. Killian is dead, and Dietrich killed him. A great thought has come to me. What say you, neighbors—shall we not try the case over, convict the prisoner again and—"

"Hang him for killing a man who went for peets and is now here?" the Yankee put in.

As much as they detested the Yankee, there was no answering the argument. But every Dutchman sat scowling and fervently smoking till so dense was the cloud that neither the Yankee nor Killian could be distinguished.

The Yankee was arrested and lodged in jail. The next day he was tried before the burghers, and though he brought ample proof that the man proffered was Killian van Giesbeck, the Yankee was convicted and hanged.

This is the only recorded case in the history of New Netherlands where a Dutchman got ahead of a Yankee.

The Yankee was arrested and lodged in jail. The next day he was tried before the burghers, and though he brought ample proof that the man proffered was Killian van Giesbeck, the Yankee was convicted and hanged.

This is the only recorded case in the history of New Netherlands where a Dutchman got ahead of a Yankee.

The Yankee was arrested and lodged in jail. The next day he was tried before the burghers, and though he brought ample proof that the man proffered was Killian van Giesbeck, the Yankee was convicted and hanged.

This is the only recorded case in the history of New Netherlands where a Dutchman got ahead of a Yankee.

The Yankee was arrested and lodged in jail. The next day he was tried before the burghers, and though he brought ample proof that the man proffered was Killian van Giesbeck, the Yankee was convicted and hanged.

This is the only recorded case in the history of New Netherlands where a Dutchman got ahead of a Yankee.

The Yankee was arrested and lodged in jail. The next day he was tried before the burghers, and though he brought ample proof that the man proffered was Killian van Giesbeck, the Yankee was convicted and hanged.