Cupid Wins Victory
in Suffragette Camp.

Miss Inez Milholland and Miss Frances M. Bates.

The crusaders who fear that the suffragette will lose her matrimonial chance as a result of her refusal of the engagement is announced of the most obstreperous of suffragettes, Miss Inez Milholland, who perhaps has done more spectacular and strenuous work in the "voices for women" cause than any other American woman.

The lucky man who will have to court to marry this socialistic suffragette is Lincoln Bates Jr. of New York, an assemblyman and author and editor.

Victory through defeat will be Mr. Bates' slogan for he does not promise to aid the girl in all of her activities, but he promises not to interfere in them. A dangerous trip taken by Mr. Bates through Siberia and the Hudson road to China, published last winter, completed Miss Milholland's interest in the author. The Hudson road led directly to her heart.

A resume of Miss Milholland's short career will show just what her band will be up against. As a child, she had a mother, "but was constantly bringing home the most forlorn and maligned specimens of femininity." And at Vassar after her socialist and socialistic quite shocked the conservative faculty, for early in her college career she had herself made probation officer (the chapel) having been refused the fair lines as a gathering place for a suffragette meeting, nothing daunted with sixteen of her sworn allies, a meeting took place at midnight in a nearby graveyard where they listened to burning words from President Taft. After that suffrage became a tolerated if not an approved subject at Vassar.

Miss Milholland has the honor of being the first woman to break up the "big Taft campaign parade." As the procession moved down Fifth avenue, the band playing "There'll Be a Hot Time" a voice from a window of one of the houses called "Give us votes for women!" Miss Milholland, then a member of the Political Equality League, was shouting these words to the crowd through a megaphone.

Some of the men broke and ran into the house, and after fifteen minutes convincing talk, Miss Bates converted them to the cause. It was a great victory from the suffragette viewpoint. Several arrests, two in London and one during the shirtmakers' strike in New York last winter, are added to Miss Milholland's victories for the oftener a suffragette can suffer for the cause the greater the glory.

She made four militant suffragette speeches in Hyde park, London, when only fifteen years old. She interviewed Premier Asquith last summer, when she persuaded him to be more openly friendly to the suffragettes. Her conversion of Mr. Bates took place a year ago at a suffragette tea, and now it is said that the wedding bells will soon be heard.

The Vogue of Ribbon Work.
There is a daintiness about pompador ribbon work that never fails to please. A tiny ribbon has just been put on the market with a crimped edge that works up effectively. The pin cushion top illustrated is made with this ribbon, which is used as ordinary embroidery silk. The flowers and leaves must be carefully done and all be of a uniform size if a good effect is desired.

IN POMPADOUR EFFECT

Cookery Notes

If improperly cooked, beef kidneys are a course dish, but when carefully prepared they make an excellent stew.

Remove all superfluous fat, trim them and cut them into chunks. Let them soak in cold salted water for about an hour. Rinse them very thoroughly and then set them over the fire in fresh cold water. When they come almost to the boiling point and begin to show scum on the surface, pour off the water, and add fresh cold water. A better way, if one has time is to remove the kidneys, put them in a new pot or lay them aside a moment until the pot they were cooked in has been thoroughly washed out. Then put them back. In order to get the strong flavor out of this meat it is necessary to remove as much scum and blood from it as possible. Let them reboil in water a second time. Then pour off this second water and treat as before. It may be necessary to do it a third and a fourth time also. When the stage is reached in which the water is quite clear and free from scum, cut up one or two onions a good sized one for every kidney one or two small carrots and one or two potatoes. Put them into the water around the meat and cook slowly for about two hours, or until a gravy is formed. Some cooks add a little lemon juice or part of the yellow peel of a lemon to the stew. The carrots and onions may be left out and the kidneys stewed by themselves, the gravy being flavored only with a tiny glass of wine and lemon juice.

Potato Cake

Two cupsful of sugar, two cupfuls of flour, one cupful of butter, one large cupful of egg whites, one cupful of potatoes, mashed and sea-salted ready to serve, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, one large egg, one-half cupful of milk, one-third cupful of oil, one-third cupful of sugar, one-third cupful of vanilla, one-third cupful of lemon and vanilla, one-third cupful of orange and vanilla, one-third cupful of cream, one-third cupful of sugar. Add milk then yolks of eggs, beaten light, then potatoes, soft spices, chocolate and baking powder in flour and add yolks and butter. Then add beaten whites and lastly the nuts. Will keep fresh for a week or ten days.

Split Pea Soup

For split pea soup, so good in this cold weather, wash a quart of split peas overnight. In the morning put them on the stove in plenty of fresh cold water about four times as much water as peas. Add a large piece of salt pork, half a good sized carrot, a good sized leek, two potatoes of medium size, one root of parsley, one teaspoonful of thyme, one large slice of bread and salt and pepper to taste. Let the soup boil all day adding fresh water as it boils down. Strain before serving.

A Fine Sauce

Apples and cranberries are very good cooked together about half and half. Let a quart of the mixture cook with about a quart of water or juice—enough to prevent burning. At the end of twenty minutes add two cupfuls of granulated sugar and let the mixture cook for about ten minutes more. Turn into a bowl and serve when cold. The apples seem to mellow the berries and the sauce will be preferred to one entirely of berries by those who do not like the sharpness of the latter when cooked alone.

Tea Wafers

For the Virginia wafers that are served with afternoon tea and other light points, work a couple of tablespoonfuls of butter into two cupfuls of flour and mix in enough ice water to make a stiff paste. Then pat the dough on to a floured board and roll out a very thin sheet. It should be little thicker than paper and cut in rounds with a wafers baker. Bake in a quick oven on a floured pan. The wafers should have an uneven, bubbly surface and be eaten cold. They are delicious with a conservé or jam.

Sandwich Filler

White raisin bread, milk and cream cheese is delicious. Cut the slices very thin and spread one with cream cheese and the other with the nuts. Both should be buttered first. If they are cut in the shape of a bird for a party, noon refreshments at card clubs and parties they are very slightly. The card suit cutters are kept by the house furnishers.

Soup Stock

In mixing leavers for soups never combine fish and meat, beef and lamb, chicken and beef. Sometimes a little bacon or pork bones can be added to soup stock for richer flavoring.

FOR THE MATRON.

Here's a Winner in Evening Gowns of High Degree

WHITE CHARMISSE AND ORNATELY LACE

Yes, at first glance this gown has all the earmarks of extravagance, but madam just look a little closer and use your "gumption" a little bit, and it will suddenly dawn upon you that you have a black charmissé lace gown that will make up beautifully into a model fashioned after the costume it illustrates. It is a delightful mingling of black and white lace arranged over white charmissé. The embroidery banding used as "bridge work" on skirt and bodice is a very new treat—most so is the culture ornamentation—pearl buttons connected with jet chains. A jet and pearl tuck fastens the wide black velvet neck-ribbon.

The Small Girl's Hobbie Coat

Hobbie coats have become the thing for children's fashions and the we get loveliness or seems to be blue just as mother does. As a matter of fact the coat of the hobbie coat is to be seen in the illustration assumes that prototype fashion although it has

THE NEWEST COAT

It is not the band holding the fringed portion of the coat at the bottom is not tight, but looks so and is of velvet. Black beads both makes the rest of the wrap. Children this winter are dressing a great deal in this color black, and it is a pity to see the little dears so solemnly attired, but Dame Fashion's decrees must be obeyed.

A Remarkable Chapeau

A new hat designed especially for the woman who has retained all the instincts of her savage ancestors is a helmet shape covered with tall grasses and bordered with royal blue velvet. The decorations consist of two rosettes, each of which is made of twelve humming birds laid flat, with their bills meeting in the center.

Millinery We'll Wear In the Spring, Trials.

THE ADVANCED GUARD IS HERE

Hats are going to turn up and not down in the spring. In other words, the extinguisher chapeau has extinguished itself and no more will the mauve-crepe cry be heard. "It's hard enough on a fellow to remember the faces of all the girls he knows when he meets them on the street, but when he's only a chub to recognize them by it's awful!"

Baby Prince Olaf Aids Society

Queen Maund of Norway, following the example of Queen Mary of King Island, has issued a book of photographs of herself and her baby, Prince Olaf, as a means of raising money for charity. She sells the book for $1.25. The queen and received many requests for pictures of herself and her baby boy, and it finally occurred to her that she could satisfy the demand and make something for charity by having the pictures published. One picture shows the prince and his pet dog, another depicts the king of Norway in his shirt sleeves walking through the garden with the prince.

Don't Be Fussy

Don't. Even if you can't try to overcome the falling for the sake of your own health and peace of mind try to do so for the sake of the man you will certainly render wretched one of these days. It is said that no woman has a proper sense of proportion. The busy woman certainly hasn't. On her horizon rides loom like battleships she never recognizes what really matters and what is unimportant. As a worker, the busy woman is always a failure. She neither gets through as much work nor allows others to do so. Like a high stepping horse, she is all action, yet makes but little progress. Nevertheless fustiness will age her before her time.

Mrs. Taft's Dream Came True

On June 10 next the president and Mrs. Taft will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary. The last event of the kind in the White House was in the administration of Rutherford B. Hayes. Mrs. Taft was there as a young girl, and it is on record she told President Hayes, who was her father's law partner and her godfather, that she would never be married to a man who would not become president. Hayes advised her to become an Ohio man's wife if she wished to realize that dream.

Good Form

Little Pu Yi, Baby Emperor of China.

Little Pu Yi, Baby Emperor of China.

If you are a boor among your acquaintances they can severely leave you alone, you can give the cold shoulder to the cad in the office or the morning train, you can have a prior engagement if your pet aversion asks you to supper.

But four home people are under the inescapable necessity of living with you. A man sometimes gets into the habit of thinking that anything will do for his home people. He treats them as daily bread, he does not exert himself, he reserves his best for outsiders.

He says he likes to be homely at home, that is very well so long as it does not mean being vulgar. He says he likes to be at ease in his home, very well, too, if it does not mean being thoughtless.

Familiarity breeds contempt. It is not easy to be constantly patient and profitable and pleasant to those whom you meet every morning at breakfast. The breakfast table is often the greatest disillusioner. More secrets of character are revealed over the bacon and eggs than over the dessert.

There is no severer discipline in the world than that of the home, and most of us go down under it in this matter of courtesy.

Don't let us put off our manners when we put off our dippers. Let us be the more considerate when it is only our own whom we have to consider. And just because our home life is private and is screened off from public judgment and is sheltered from the scrutiny of public opinion let us be the more scrupulous that we may be void of the offense against the heart of love.

Behind many closed doors and drawn blinds there lie grim tragedies, and many of them may be traced to seemingly trivial weaknesses in the courtesies of love.

This is the rift that has made the music mute. Take care of the courtesies and the great passions will take care of themselves.

The Desirable Guest

The person who can talk entertainingly is the best type of guest at social gatherings, for she who chatters incessantly is almost more undesirable than one who is too quiet for the latter gives opportunity for other persons to express themselves, while with the former to say even one word is often a struggle.

The balance between these extremes is the art of stimulating a temporary companion to conversation, and at no place is it more important to adopt the correct attitude than at a dinner. More than one man has been obliged to talk so much when sitting beside a quiet woman that he has not even enough such conduct on the part of a woman is decidedly inconsiderate.

At dinners and also at formal luncheons it is a good idea to watch the plates of neighbors, and if one person has been talking so much as to have fallen behind in the course it is useful to take conversation into one's own hands giving the other a chance to listen and at the same time to eat.

It is not good form to monopolize the attention of one neighbor to such an extent as to prevent him or her from talking with the person on the other side. Often it is a temptation when on one side is an attractive person and on the other one who is dull, but politeness makes dividing the attention necessary.

If one person is kept constantly in conversation by one neighbor at a dinner it means that he or she on the other side sits much of the time with no one to talk to, for the guest farther on is certainly giving some time to the person on his or her other side.

Wedding Reception Before Ceremony

The wedding reception should precede the marriage ceremony. This is the newest suggestion from London. Instead of the "at home" that usually follows the society church wedding, a reception that is similar in every respect practically to the old time function should be held on the day before the wedding. The parents receive the guests while the bride and groom stand together to receive the congratulations of their friends. All the wedding presents are on view, and everything is the same as in the "at home" except that the couple are not married. The reason for this new arrangement is that it saves the crush at the bride's home following the church wedding. It is more comfortable for the couple and their parents to have a quiet hour while preparations for the wedding tour are being made. Such an arrangement also gives the bride and bridegroom an opportunity to slip away quietly.

Grammatical Points

Many people make mistakes in the use of "lay" and "lie." It is correct to say "I am going to lie down." "I am going to lay down" is not grammatical. One may inquire, "Lay what down?" "Shall" and "will" are also often incorrectly used. Learn to say, "I shall, you shall, you will, he will and they will." This rule guards the switch where most people get off the track. "Will" in the first person must always have a touch of volition, and "shall" in the second person gives emphasis to authority. But courtesy demands that both authority and self assertion be avoided whenever possible.

For the Children

Little Pu Yi, Baby Emperor of China.

Little Pu Yi, Baby Emperor of China.

While Pu Yi is the emperor of China, he does not rule over that great nation yet. He is too young for that. Some day, if he lives to grow up, he will sit on the throne. At present his father, Prince Chun, is the real ruler, acting for his son. Prince Chun is the brother of the late emperor, who died a couple of years ago.

Pu Yi was born in February, 1906, and is therefore nearly five years old. When he becomes emperor he will be able to exercise but a small part of the autocratic power by which his predecessor ruled. China is advancing and has already decided to have a constitutional government. So Pu Yi must reign according to the written law and not as the emperor would decree under the old system.

Valentine Archery

Cut from red kindergarten paper as many hearts as there are people. Divide in two lots. On the back of one lot write halves of verses and the other halves on the back of the second lot. Pin one lot a couple of feet apart to a white sheet and hang at one end of the room, removing breakable things from the vicinity. The other lot distribute to the girls. Each boy will in turn try to pierce a heart on the sheet with the bow. If a heart is given him, the one he comes nearest to belongs to him, and he may talk partner by the half verse on the back. For instance, Teddy pierces a heart on the back of which he finds:

The rose is red,
The violet blue,
And he searches among the girls
He finds Nellie has
Sugar is sweet,
And so are you
They are partners for the next game
For supper or whatever is suggested.

A Wonderful Person

With what amazement would you regard a person who had a million ancestors? Yet by looking into a mirror you can behold the very individual yourself.

Now we each had two parents, a father and a mother, both of whom had two parents. Thus on this principle and assuming there has been no intermarriage of relations, a person who has had four grandparents has had eight great grandparents. And our lineal ancestors during twenty generations number 1,048,576. If these ancestors were all living they would be sufficient to populate Wales.

Conundrums

Why is a nobleman like a book? Because he has a title.
What class of women give toes to society? The belles.
What is that which has a mouth but never speaks; a bed, but never lies in it? A river.
Why is a four quart jar like a saddle? Because it holds a gallon.
Why are airships like tramps? Because they have no visible means of support.

Ingenious Wasps

In South America lives a wasp that hangs from the boughs of trees a soft tough as pasteboard and remarkable also because the hole through which the branch is passed is so large that the nest swings freely in the wind. In most of these nests the hole is simply made through the thick upper part of the structure, but sometimes this is so molded that it looks like a zigzag. This wasp is named chartergus, a name derived from two Greek words meaning papermaker. The average nest is about a foot long and wide in proportion.

Dorothy's Valentines

See Dorothy sits by the little stand,
With paper smooth and white,
A pencil held close in her chubby hand,
Her eyes with smiles are bright.
She has drawn a tree and painted green
The leaves of a vivid hue,
Her flowers are the brightest ever seen,
Their size is marvelous too.
She wonders if papa will ever know
From whom the picture came,
For mamma says that it will go
Without the sender's name.
Her work she thinks is rather grand
For a little girl, you see,
And secretly hopes he will understand
"To papa dear—from me."
