IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

How Catcher Henry Was Discovered.

It must be true that ball players are born and not made. True, all of them need to have the rough edges taken off and experience to perfect them, but a good ball player is usually so from the time he starts out.

In Henry, Washington has picked up a player who is sure to shine, and no one excepting Scout Mike Kahoe deserves credit for his being with the team.

Kahoe was sent to Amherst to look over a pitcher named McClure. He saw him and dismissed him from his mind, because he did not think that he was cut out for a major league career. But it was the big, husky youngster who was catching him that attracted Kahoe's attention, and he immediately laid lines to secure him. So instead of bringing back the man he saw sent after Kahoe secured Henry, and in so doing he probably brought a player who will do much to make the Nationals a winning aggregation.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Overall, One of Few Players to Really Quit Baseball.

Cases of ball players deliberately retiring while still with plenty of good playing left in them are few and far between. In fact, the number of ball tossers who quit the big leagues voluntarily can almost be counted on the fingers of one hand. Every year a number of players announce their retirement from the sport, but at the opening of the campaign can be seen coveting around with the rest of the bunch. This season there were many, but only two were in earnest, and they were Orvie Overall of the Cubs and Jake Stahl of the Boston Americans. The pair announced last fall that they intended to retire from the game for good. Stahl is in the banking business in Chicago, and Overall is in the mining business and says he has struck it rich in California. Manager Chance will miss the services of Overall this season. Orvie when in good condition was one of the best pitchers in the National league.

May Revise Cricket Rules.

After a delay of at least fifty years an agitation has been begun in England to put more snap into cricket. The scheme of the Cricketers' association is to make the bat narrower and the stumps higher.

Followers of the sport charge that the game as played now takes too much time and add that "this fact alone has prevented it from taking any serious root in the United States, where known as games is every bit as great as in the English islands and colonies."

All the big matches now take three days, and even then are frequently drawn for want of time. The proposal is to limit the bat to three and one-half inches across the blade, instead of four and one-quarter, the present width, and to increase the stumps from twenty-seven to twenty-nine inches. This, it is estimated, will enable the four innings to be ended in one-third of the time they now require.

Runner Monument to Quit.

Jack Monument, the senior and junior mile champion of the United States, has announced that he will never run another race. This dire news came in a letter from Monument to Trainer Lawson Robertson, notifying the Irish American coach that he would not be on the job this year. Monument gives business cares as the reason for his leaving the cinder path. Monument's decision to quit athletics is a distinct loss to the sport. He is known as a quiet, gentlemanly fellow and as game a man as ever put on a running shoe. It is thought that the coming on of real summer weather and a few peeps at his fellow athletes in action may induce Monument to reconsider and come out on the path for another season. All the influence that the Irish American Athletic club can bring to bear will be used to get the mile champion into his running togs again.

Holmer to Race Abroad.

Hans Holmer, who recently defeated Ljungstrom in a fifteen mile race in New York, has received an offer from a European promoter who was present when Holmer won the Powder Hill Marathon at Edinburgh, Scotland, and who wants to take Holmer on a tour of the world. He has asked Hans to come to England immediately after his race with Ljungstrom and from there propose going to Italy, Africa, South America and Australia.

Kilpatrick After All Around Title.

J. R. Kilpatrick, Yale's track captain, will enter the all round championship at the meet to be held in Chicago in June. The track and football star weighs nearly 200 pounds. He is a good man in the weights, hurdles and the jumps. He will compete against Garretts, the famous Chicago athlete; F. C. Thompson of Los Angeles and other western stars.

Germany Has Crack Sprinter.

For the first time in the history of track and field sports Germany has produced a first class sprinter, and this man, who is little more than a beginner, is likely to prove a stumbling block to the visitors at the Swedish Olympic games next year. The name of the star is R. Rau, and in competition he sports the purple and gold of the Berliner Sports club of the German capital. Quite recently in the indoor Olympic games at Berlin Rau gave a fine display of sprinting prowess and something which means that the visitors from America, England and other countries will have to look to their laurels at Stockholm next year. The German covered the fifty meters in 5 7/10 seconds, figures which, if closely calculated, compare with the best on the record books of any country in the world today.

Unique Baseball Team Formed.

A remarkable baseball team is being organized by the students of the University of Pennsylvania. It is to be called the Cosmopolitans. The name is appropriate, as in the lineup are natives of China, Korea, Cuba, Porto Rico and, of course, the United States. The team is said to be a strong one and should be able to give a good account of itself against the Philadelphia prep schools and minor organizations. The lineup follows: Pitchers, F. Y. Kim, Korea, and J. Ricarte, Porto Rico; catcher, J. E. Calom, Porto Rico; first base, J. F. Reeves, United States; second base, J. K. Shryock, United States; third base, R. Jimenez, Cuba; shortstop, F. Penabaz, Cuba; outfielders, R. Jacobson, Cuba; M. Collins, Cuba, and H. S. Tsang, China.

Japs to Be Here Soon.

The Waseda university baseball team of Tokyo, Japan, which is coming to this country as the guests of the University of Chicago, is expected to arrive in San Francisco the latter part of April. Besides playing a three game series in Chicago, the Japanese players will meet all the leading college nines in the west.

The Japs play the first game in Chicago May 6, the second June 3 and the third June 17, which will be the university alumni day.

At a recent meeting of the Western Conference association the Japanese trip was heartily indorsed, and games are being booked with the Universities of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue and Wisconsin.

Try Baseball in England Again.

Although baseball never yet has "caught on" in England, the National Baseball Association of London will make another big attempt this summer to popularize the American pastime in Great Britain.

There are no particularly good players in London, but an effort will be made to arrange a fixture between the Brits and some "star" Americans. The Rhodes scholars at Oxford will also have teams.
