

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Ramsdell, Who Is Showing His Heels to Englishmen.

Tex Ramsdell, the crack sprinter of the University of Pennsylvania, who has been in England for the past month, is demonstrating that he is one of the speediest men in the world today.

Work of College Players Watched. College players by the score are joining the major league teams, and it will be interesting to note what a small percentage of them will be able to hold their own.

Here's a Great Strikeout Record. In the act of discussing strikeout records, here is one worth looking over. In a battle at Shippan, Conn., recently King's school played Stamford.

A Popular Attraction. "Yes, she's lecturing against woman suffrage." "But that's a unpopular side to take in this neighborhood."

The Rural Idealist. "Do you think that man will make a success of farming?" asked one real estate agent.

Not Needed. "I never judge a woman by her clothes," observed Bilkins.

They Seem So. "I hope your husband has no secrets from you."

Between Boys. Baby-May, Chimnie, who was Robinson-Crusoe?

HUMOROUS QUIPS

Baby-Bye Revised. Baby-Bye. Here's an insect of the tribe diptera, spe- cific name Muzca domestica. We will watch him.

Figured the Wrong Way. "Two old salts who had spent most of their lives on fishing marks had an argument one day as to which was the better mathematician."

Partners in All Things. A young lawyer in a western town was taken into partnership with his father and soon got the idea that he was the whole firm.

The Only Way. He was a very raw recruit and particularly stupid at that. The drill sergeant did not know what to do with him.

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Labor Saving Device For Seeding Cherries.

Most careful cooks stone the cherries before they bake the pie, but that is a long and tedious operation unless performed with the assistance of the seeding machine invented by a Penn sylvanian man and shown in the illustration.

Brown Stew. Two pounds and a half of neck and shoulder of fresh beef cut in small pieces. If too fat, remove some of it.

Sauce For Spanish Omelet. The sauce for a Spanish omelet may be made in the morning or even the day before and be heated when it is wanted.

Rhubarb Chutney. Two pounds of rhubarb, cut in pieces; three quarters of a pound of seeded raisins, half a pound of stoned dates.

Potato and Nut Croquette. Mix together three cups of mashed potatoes, one scant cup of chopped nuts, one tablespoonful of finely chopped onion, one tablespoonful of sage, one beaten egg and pepper and salt to taste.

Fried Veal. Take a cheap cut of veal and have it cut in thin pieces. Then take one slice of fat salt pork, cut into dice and fry until crisp.

London Fagets. One pound liver, one-half pound suet and one onion, all chopped fine; one quart stale breadcrumbs, one teaspoonful poultry dressing, salt and pepper to suit taste, one egg or a little milk to moisten it.

Royal Pop Beer. Cream tartar, one pound; ginger, one and a half ounces; white sugar, seven pounds; essence of lemon, one dram; water, six gallons; yeast, one pint.

FOR THE CHILDREN

He Wouldn't and He Would.

He wouldn't eat the breakfast food. Nor say "Please" at the table. He wouldn't speak to Cousin Nell. Nor sing for Cousin Mabel.

Bees That Went to War. One would have to look far before finding a more terrifying and demoralizing method of repelling besiegers than that employed by the people of Thebes.

About the Piano. The piano is the outgrowth of hundreds of years of invention. In earliest times it was simply a harp with two or three strings.

Five Cents in a Pinch. In five cents in a pinch the children sit on a bank or bench in a garden side by side.

A New Kind of Rain. Here is a new kind of rain—nothing less than sand. When a storm swept over Massachusetts recently there was not much rain at Pittsfield, but there was a shower of fine sand.

The Ancient Norman. Do you know where Normandy got its name? If you have studied European history you remember that the Normans were really Norsemen or Norwegians who invaded what is now northeastern France in the tenth century.

Genendruma. Why are washwomen frequently silly? Because they put out their tubs to catch soft water when it rains hard.

Whispering Feet. Baby was asleep, and Ben was cautioned to be careful and not waken her while he played soldiers.

Ready Rhyme. Two, four or more words that rhyme are written on a piece of paper and given to each. A complete rhyme must be written from these.

SNAPSHOTS AT CELEBRITIES

Senator Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin.

The recent presentation of charges to the senate committee on privileges and elections impeaching the election of Isaac Stephenson, United States senator from Wisconsin, indicates another investigation, rivaling the Lorimer case in interest.

Defenses of the McNamara. Leo M. Rapoport of Indianapolis, first assistant to Clarence Darrow in the defense of John J. and James B. McNamara, charged with dynamiting the Los Angeles Times and other similar crimes, has for some time been counsel for the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

THE COACHMAN AND THE MAID

Double Impersonation Leads to a Wedding.

"Are you Mrs. Sanderson's coachman?" "Yes, miss."

"When will your mistress arrive?" asked Mrs. Sanderson when the maid had made Miss Childers' excuses.

"Singular," muttered the lady, "that she should have sent her maid a head."

"How long do you think it will take her to become aware of the faults of the man she is to marry?"

"Then if you were Miss Childers' coachman, would you not be a senator?"

"What is different?" "In this matter let us consider the maid. You blame me, a gentleman, for chatting with you, a servant. Suppose Miss Childers were to become a pauper and go out to service. Would you expect me to recognize her for what she had been?"

"Would you, were you Miss Childers' coachman, consider it a proper thing to become your coachman?"

"Once upon a time," continued the man, "a princess was betrothed to a prince she had never seen. Desiring to observe him in person, she impersonated her own maid and went to visit the prince's mother. The prince, poor fool, thinking to see his fiancée when she was not masquerading in fact, to do the masquerading himself—drove his carriage to the station, where, to his behold, he found not her, but his maid. Disappointed at not meeting his mistress, he solaced himself by chatting with the maid and—lost his heart."

Miss Childers' maid looked up with a smile. "But she was Miss Childers' maid, wasn't she?"
