A Fraud

We have read often of persons being arrested and punished for obtaining money under false pretences. Unfortunately, there appears to be no law to punish those who seek to ruin souls under false pretences. At least we know of no law upon the statutes of the United States or of the individual states. To whom do we refer? We are sorry to point the finger of suspicion at the Presbyterians. While the followers of John Knox profess themselves to be the most uncompromising opponents of the Roman Catholic Church it appears they are willing to parade in Catholic garb and robes if in so doing they may win ignorant souls away from Catholicity. The Westminster Confession, upon which Presbyterianism is supposed to rest says "The Polish sacrifice of the Mass is abominably injurious to Christ's one only sacrifice—worshipping the elements, the lifting them up, or carrying them about for adoration, etc., etc.,—are all contrary to the nature of the sacrament and to the institution of Christ—That doctrine which maintains a change of the substance by consecration of a priest, etc.,—leads to gross idolatry."

And yet the London Catholic Record makes this bold charge:—"Not content with its campaign of fraud and deceit among the Ruthenians of the Northwest the Presbyterian Church has inaugurated a similar one in Toronto. The opening meeting in St. Andrew's Institute is thus described in the daily papers:—"The service, which is carried out with all the ritual of the Greek Reformed Church, was conducted most efficiently by the Rev. V. T. Kupcenski, of Knox College, who wore the vestments including a handsome red cape trimmed with gold. "The altar was beautifully decorated with cross and candles, incense was used and the sanctus bell rang out. "The clergyman explains that the service, which is certainly somewhat startling to English Protestant eyes; has to be carried out in this form, as it is the only way the people understand. "Can it be possible that some such motive inspired the erection of a large gilded cross upon the spire of the Brick Church in our own City?"

Another Feature

The following, from the Philadelphia Standard and Times indicates that the Catholic schools are in the van in the "Quaker City":—"This year the committee appointed by Mayor Reyburn to recommend candidates for the Philadelphia scholarships in the University invited the college entrance examination board (a general examining board for the universities of America) to conduct the tests. There were ninety-nine candidates from the various high schools of the city for the seventeen scholarships offered.

"Four students of the Catholic High school took the examinations, and three won scholarships. This is an extraordinary good showing, in view of the fact that there are at least eight thousand pupils in the various high and preparatory schools in this city, of which only four hundred attend the Catholic High School. The proportion being thus about one to twenty, the Catholic High School would have maintained an excellent average if it had succeeded in gaining only one of the seventeen scholarships.

"Another notable feature of the examinations is the fact that one of the Catholic high school boys, Raymond Hummel, attained the highest general average thus headed the list of winners. The other Catholic High School winners are Dominic Furia and Luke Grady. Mr. Hummel studied in the parish school of St. Ignatius, Mr. Furia in the school of Our Lady of Good Counsel and Mr. Grady in the school of St. Thomas Aquinas."

Well Provided

Rochester, at least, is well provided with facilities for Catholic's to hear mass while on their week-end vacations or upon short trips to the nearby summer resorts. At Sea Breeze, at Summerville, at Conesus Lake and at Long Pond, may be found Catholic chapels, where Mass is celebrated, sermons preached and confessions heard every Sunday and on holidays.

Primarily, these facilities were provided by the earnest desire of the Rochester Photo Supply Co., Catholic summer residents who wished vacations near at home, yet did not want to miss mass. These subscribed part of the needed funds for buildings, priests and maintenance. The bishop realized what a good work was projected and he lent every aid and assistance possible.

Hence it is that Rochesterians need not worry about missing mass if they rusticate near Rochester while the careless Catholic can no longer put forward the excuse that he was too far from a Church.

Canal Terminals

In the inside pages of to-day's issue of the Catholic Journal will be found a copy of a State document which, although published by the Secretary of State as a legal advertisement, is well worthy perusal and study on the part of every taxpayer and voter. It is the proposition which will be submitted to the voters this fall for approval or rejection as to whether the State shall bond itself for $19,000,000, in addition to the $106,000,000 already voted for canals, with which to purchase and equip terminals in various parts of the State for the barge canal. It will be noted that the proposition includes the expenditure of upwards of a million dollars in Rochester to maintain and equip a terminal harbor in the vicinity of Court street bridge.

There may be legitimate opposition on the ground of enormous expense but it must be remembered that the people have already voted to build the barge canal and the canal will be of precious little local benefit to Rochester, Lyons, Utica, Rome and other points unless there are adequate local terminal facilities. The proposed bond issue is to provide funds for these local terminals. For this reason every reader of the Catholic Journal should read and study the proposition carefully so that as to be able to vote intelligently upon it next November.

Catholics especially, should remember the good old saying:—"Actions speak louder than words."

The Puzzle of the Press.
There used to be an aged elevator man who operated one of the lifts in the house wing of the capitol. Most of his passengers were either representatives of newspaper correspondents. The old man got to know all of the correspondents very well and always had a cheerful greeting for them. It was often noticed, too, that he seemed to be greatly interested in their conversation.

One afternoon, as three of them stepped out of the elevator, Seno Payne of New York stepped in. As the car went down the old elevator man called out:—"Mr. Payne, I can't understand about those newspaper men. They puzzle me."
"What's the trouble with them?" asked Mr. Payne.
"Well, Mr. Payne, every day they ride in this car one feller will turn to another and say, 'What do you know today?' And the other fellow will answer, 'Not a thing. What do you know?' Then the first feller will answer, 'Nothing.' And yet, Mr. Payne, the papers are just full of news every day. It beats me where they get it."
"It beats me too," said Mr. Payne.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Old Time Strawberries.
Strawberries have improved very much in flavor since the fifteenth century. Until then the only strawberries eaten were wild strawberries of a kind which would never find a market nowadays. By 1480, however, they were beginning to be cultivated, for Hollander records under that date a particularly fine crop grown by the bishop of Ely in the grounds of his palace, now covered by Elyton garden. He quotes the Duke of Gloucester as saying to the bishop:—"My lord, you have very good strawberries in your garden in Holborn. I require you to let us have a mess of them." This speech was copied almost verbatim by Shakespeare in "Richard III." Still, even the bishop's fruit would not appeal much to modern connoisseurs, for the garden strawberries at that period were only transplanted wildlings, the plants being sold at about fourpence a bushel.—London Standard.
