

Woman's World

First Woman in China to Practice Medicine.

DR. YAMEI KIN

Is it possible for an eastern woman to enjoy western education and training and remain... This is a question frequently asked by Europeans interested in the education and progress of eastern women.

To see Dr. Yamei Kin, China's first woman doctor, and better still, to hear her speak in perfect English of her hopes for the further progress of Chinese women, is to answer the question in the affirmative.

Dr. Yamei Kin took her degree at the Women's Medical College, New York, now merged into Cornell University. She spent the next year in the west before coming to Canton.

It is more than twenty years since Dr. Yamei Kin took her degree at the Women's Medical College, New York, now merged into Cornell University. She spent the next year in the west before coming to Canton.

She is now instructed by the Chinese government with the organization of a medical department for women in northern China, a huge task which calls for her splendid abilities. A state hospital, dispensary and medical school are in existence.

The architect and engineer are now sunk in the doctor and director. Dr. Kin's aim is to make sure progress and lift the people step by step to better sanitation and hygiene.

Nothing Like Personality. If you want to assert it, Clark has a way of doing it. He writes to the Standard. "I am just crazy over you."

Origin of High Heeled Shoes. Mrs. Pompadour was a very small woman, but to make herself look tall she built her hair up high and wore the first pair of high-heeled shoes ever made.

Points for Mothers

In the Nursery. Fresh ripe fruit without sugar is very wholesome, especially if eaten in the early part of the day.

To make an attractive screen for the nursery get a light bamboo screen an old one will do and remove the sillings with which these are usually covered.

One Mother's Experience. A wise young mother who seems to have excellent control over her child, once let fall a few words of wisdom at a "mothers' club" recently.

Helping Backward Children. Many mothers would be perfectly willing to help their children with their school work if they only knew how.

Ten Commandments For Baby. Give the baby its food at regular hours. Give the baby water.

For the Children

When Ted Comes the Fun Begins.

Oh, isn't it lively at our house when our young cousin Ted spends the day!

The last time he came it was carter. And he used all of Daddy's best soap. You ought to have seen the pizza!

Caricards of Crawlers. There were five full caricards of a queer kind of freight that recently left the far western states for the east.

A Dragon Fly Watch. We have grown used to watches in various guises from the tiny pendant not bigger than a locket to the time piece in an umbrella handle or set in cardboard or bracelet.

It's Old Gilt New. The quest of the collector is directed nowadays toward objects of old gilt, which thirty or forty years ago were when to be seen decorating milady's toilet table.

The Giraffe. Giraffes have been known in Paris since a comparatively recent date only. The earliest specimens came there during the reign of Louis XVI.

Little Helpers. Do you know what the children who do things to help one another are called? They are called "little helpers."

Correct Pronunciation. The correct pronunciation of the English language and all foreign words in common use is becoming a subject of interest and importance to those persons who are apprehensive of the great advantage of possessing the ability to speak correctly.

Game of Crawls. Each writes one or two lines on the slip and a question on another, or both may be written on one. All are shuffled and drawn. An answer to the question must be written in some language in the world.

Milady's Mirror

Dimple in the Elbow.

Women who went to Paris this summer had the pleasure of seeing the Stephanie elbow. Stephanie is an actress, and the elbow is seen to best advantage when she is dining or supping at a smart restaurant.

Whether her arm is straight or bent or lying long and graceful in her lap, the dimple is there. It is not a thing that depends upon position. The dimple is a fixture, and all who pass Stephanie's table can see it. It is deep and pink alluring and pretty.

That was the beginning of the beauty maker's trade. Now she has done hundreds of elbows, and Stephanie is no longer the only one who has the dimple, though hers are still the most natural and the most youthful.

To Beautify the Hair. When the hair begins falling out by reason of dandruff try shampooing without soap. A shampoo for this purpose is made of the beaten yolks of two eggs in lime water.

When the hair is excessively oily lime water applied with a small sponge will improve the condition. Only a small amount should be used, enough to moisten the scalp without making it damp.

The Care of the Teeth. Fruit stains may be removed from the teeth by rubbing them with salt or brushing them with a toothbrush that has been dipped in salt.

One often finds himself without a toothbrush when spending the day or the night unexpectedly away from home. In such an emergency a rise of soda water will prove effective in cleansing the mouth and teeth.

Any number of women who are cutting ruthlessly into their allowances to swell the cash drawer of the beauty parlors could solve the riddle of appearing fresh and animated if they would but make a practice of taking the proper amount of sleep.

The Coming Season's Furs. No muffs and scarfs a rich looking fur is used as to whether the coats will be long or short opinion differs, and milady must decide for herself.

Sleep as a Restorative. Any number of women who are cutting ruthlessly into their allowances to swell the cash drawer of the beauty parlors could solve the riddle of appearing fresh and animated if they would but make a practice of taking the proper amount of sleep.

Mrs. A. M. Hildner writes from Waukegan, Iowa, March 17, 1919: "I had a total wreck; had an attack of epilepsy and was over a month in hospital. I could not eat nor sleep. This matter made me nervous. I was very ill and had a desire to be alone. I called on Pastor Koenig's Tonic and I now can sleep and have a good appetite, and feel as well as I can do my day's work. I am much pleased with the Tonic and recommend it whenever I can."
