Sound Reasoning

While one need not harp all the time on the importance and benefit of the Catholic press to the Catholic Church and the Catholic laity it is well once in a while to speak out plainly upon this subject.

The necessity of a strong Catholic press is conceded all along the line except by "wobbly Catholics" and those who wish to "break into easiness" and they imagine this is not led or peopled by staunch Catholics. How are we to have a strong Catholic press and who is to blame if we do not possess it? At a recent conference of the Catholic clergy of the Diocese of Trenton, N. J., Rev. Stephen M. Lyons read a paper on "The Catholic Press." Here is his answer to the queries we have propounded:

"Some find fault with Catholic newspapers, claim they are not what they should be, that they deal too much with parochial matters which can interest only those concerned, etc. If the Catholic press is not what it should be, whose fault is it? Is not the Catholic press just what we make it? Does not the blame lie largely with those who fail to give the press that support which is necessary to build it up and make it what it should be, the main support of our faith and our rights as Catholic citizens? Whatever may be the shortcomings of the Catholic press—shortcomings which are greatly exaggerated—it is our duty to support it so effectively that it may be enabled to maintain itself on a higher level of merit than is at present possible. It is not a question of pleasing ourselves, or getting, so to say, the value of our money, but a question of generously co-operating in a work which we all must concede, according to the command of our Holy Father and our Bishops, is really apostolic. Every faithful and zealous Catholic should be made to realize that the support of the Catholic press is a particularly effective way of showing his devotion to the Church."

Behind The Times

The Boston Pilot the other day handed out a good shot at the Associated Press. We cannot refrain from reprinting it as follows:—

The American on Tuesday published the following under "Today's Cable News":

"Rome.—Much comment has been caused in this city by the publication of the regulations which are to govern the election of the Pope's successor. The statement is made that any Cardinal attending the conclave who shall accept any charge from any person or government that claims the right to veto the choice of a Pope shall be excommunicated. In other words, 'Pius X' proclaims that the veto is abolished. Otherwise the regulations governing the election of a Pope are the same as formerly."

This wonderful piece of news is only eight years old. The correspondent of the Associated Press is waking up.

No Socialism!

Toledo, like Milwaukee, is a hotbed of Socialism and the blatant advocates of that "ism" are trying hard to swing all the trades unions in the city to the support of Socialism and of Socialist candidates for public office. They have so far succeeded that there is a labor party in Toledo which is, in effect, a Socialistic annex.

For this reason, therefore, it is a pleasure to chronicle that an important international labor convention was held in Toledo and that its membership emphatically rejected a proposition to advise that all trades unionists abandon other political parties and swing their united support and vote to the Socialist party. The convention was that of the International Longshoremen's Union and the resolution rejected was as follows:—

"Whereas, The Democratic and Republican parties have proved their inability to solve the labor problem; be it Resolved, That this convention recommend the adoption of socialism by all organized labor."

From the character of the membership of the Longshoremen's Union, one would not be surprised if they were somewhat swayed by Socialistic tenets and it is the more surprising and gratifying to find its members standing for sound principals and for common sense action on economic propositions. Longshoremen are men of brawn and their work is hard. Evidently, it tends to make them clear of head and discerning of action.

We congratulate the Longshoremen and the sound thinking citizenship of Toledo on the fact that all trades unionists are not so hare-brained as some of the trade unionists of Toledo.

Teaching.

The consecration of Bishop Lynch, of Dallas, Texas, was marked by a beautiful and touching incident. Seated in the first row to the left of the altar, with other relatives of the newly-made Bishop, was his mother, Mrs. John V. Lynch. As the Bishop, arrayed in the full vestments of his office and crowned with the mitre and with pastoral staff in hand, was being led down the main aisle of the Cathedral to impart to the congregation his first episcopal blessing, he paused for a moment and affectionately kissed his mother upon the cheek. Tears sprang to the eyes not only of her whose heart was filled with pride, but also to those seated nearby who witnessed the incident.

Just now yarns, that is all they are, of girls alleged to "have escaped from convents" are the proper things in the sensational press. Needless to say, when the yarns are disproven, no correction is made by the aforesaid sensational press.

Rochester has led the van this year in conventions, in baseball, in weather and lastly, in industrial expositions.

Sheriff Henry, of Erie county seems to be a remarkably clear-headed as well as a remarkably efficient public officer. Mr. Henry is a prominent member of the C. M. B. A.

Because many advertisers withdrew their patronage from "Watson's Magazine" on account of his bigoted flings against the Catholic Church, Tom Watson is out with a lurid circular letter complaining that the Catholics are boycotting and persecuting him. Thought you despised the Catholics, Tom?

Rochester's Industrial Exposition is a credit to the city and to the men who planned it.

Appreciated

Even the non-Catholic's are remarking that our churches are never closed also that they are not empty. Rev. Wm. J. Batt, former chaplain of the Concord Reformatory in speaking before the non-Catholic clergymen of Greater Boston, drew this striking comparison:—
"I saw a beautiful sight yesterday morning. I saw a church with three double doors thrown wide open, and toward this church I saw hastening men and women, boys and girls, individuals and groups of people; whole families and I think it was a beautiful sight to see those people of all ages going to divine worship in the early morning. On the opposite corner was a church of our kind, which was closed for morning service during the summer; probably the majority of the people of our kind have automobiles and they have perhaps out driving."

What It Means.

Catholics and non-Catholics alike will find food for reflection in the following taken from the "Catholic Standard and Times."

"Excommunication is not a curse to drive the guilty to hell. No, not at all. It is a rather drastic reminder that a man must abide by the Constitution and by the laws of the Catholic Church, if he hopes to enjoy full membership privileges. If we remember that the Catholic Church is a society with rules and regulations binding all its members from the head down, we can understand at once that those who refuse to accept the ruling of the authorized executive body should be invited to depart. The invitation is called excommunication when the society known as the Catholic Church serves notice. In the last analysis it is the member that excommunicates himself. He is told what he must do if he desires to retain his membership. He refuses to comply, and in so doing renounces allegiance to the society."

Those "Haskin letters" which are appearing in some of our contemporaries are interesting but in many instances, absolutely unreliable. In dealing with Catholic matters or Catholic countries Haskin displays unmistakable evidence of bigotry or ignorance.

Forty Hours

The Forty Hour's devotion will be held in Groton, Watkins, St. Mary's, Danville; Penfield and Churchville on Sept. 24th, and in Our Lady of Perpetual Help, city on Sept. 29th.

In vain will you build churches, give missions, found schools—all your works, all your efforts will be destroyed if you are not able to wield the defensive and offensive weapon of a loyal and sincere Catholic press.—Pope Pius X.

Dear Sir—I feel compelled to issue this statement of what your medicine has done for me. It has completely cured me. My hair was falling so fast that I was afraid to comb it. My wife's was equally as bad, but after one application, the hair ceased to fall, and one bottle completely cured both my wife and myself.
