Inspiring Sight.
 Inspiring, indeed, was the great Holy Name parade last Sunday. Over twelve thousand men in procession as a pledge of their fealty to the Christian faith, also as a protest against blasphemy and obscenity is a sight which could not help but inspire wonder if not gratification in the heart of any man who saw it.

Likewise, it was a splendid demonstration of the democracy of the Catholic Church. Elbow to elbow, shoulder to shoulder, marched the merchant prince, the banker, the carpenter, the street foreman, the coachman. Each was to exemplify the faith that was in him, for one half day they were brothers indeed. That was a public demonstration of the democracy of the Catholic Church, an object lesson to non-Catholics. We of the faith see that object lesson so often in the confessional and on Sunday morning at the communion rail that it is nothing marvellous to us.

The community of Rochester has reason to be proud of such a demonstration as that of Sunday. For one-twentieth of a city's population to turn out in public protest against profanity and obscene speech is a splendid recommendation for the quality of that community's citizenship.

We repeat that Bishop Hickey, the Catholic people of Rochester, the entire city of Rochester has good reason to feel proud of the Holy Name parade and reunion of 1911. Not the least inspiring in the many features of the day was the open air benediction with the Bishop's inspiring address and the mighty chorus of men's voices joined to the music by the Park Band and led by Professor Eugene Bonn.

The Catholic Journal.
 Brief mention was made in last week's issue of the fact that the Catholic Journal has entered upon its twenty-third year of journalistic life. How time flies! It seems but yesterday that the Catholic Journal was launched upon the then precarious sea of Catholic journalism. Many there were who prophesied for us an early demise. Thanks to God and to good and true friends these predictions were not realized and to-day the Catholic Journal is an integral and established part of the newspaper world of Rochester. True, there were times when the storm clouds hung low and we were dangerously near to discouragement. But kind friends came to the rescue and the rough places were made smooth. We have tried to keep abreast of the times in the way of Catholic news-gathering and publishing a Catholic paper. In public matters we have tried to be conservative and to hew to the straight line. When we felt that public events or public men were in the nature of a menace to the faith and morals we have not hesitated to speak out. In our weak way we have tried to second the public in matters which made for the good of the community at large.

Whether our efforts are appreciated we leave to the judgment of the many subscribers who have been on our rolls ever since the paper started. To the many friends who have stood by us from the beginning we return our heartfelt thanks; to the new friends who have been added as the years went on, we do likewise. To the business men or Rochester who have helped to make the Catholic Journal a success by advertising in our columns and giving us their printing work we are sincerely grateful.

But in order that we may make our paper still more attractive and add to the features, our circulation should be doubled. If each of the present subscribers to the Catholic Journal would start out and add one new subscriber to our rolls, this could be accomplished by the time we enter upon our silver anniversary. Will you co-operate?

Miss Conway Honored
 Katherine E. Conway, formerly of Rochester and loved by so many of her old friends and new acquaintances—she visits here frequently and is held in fond remembrance by the girls of Nazareth Academy where she usually stops when in Rochester. She has been made a member of the faculty of St. Mary's college, Notre Dame. St. Mary's is one of the leading Catholic colleges for women in the United States, indeed, it was the first institution of the kind in the country.

Miss Conway began her journalistic work, we believe, on the Catholic Union and Times of Buffalo. Later she went to the Boston "Pilot" as assistant to the late John Boyle O'Reilly. She stayed on with the Pilot until it passed from the control of the Donahue family. Then she joined the staff of the Boston "Republic" and made her imprint upon that sprightly publication now under the control of Mayor John Fitzgerald, of Boston. We trust that Miss Conway's entrance in the teaching profession will not mean her abandonment entirely to the field of letters. She wields a fluent, facile and delicate pen and is equally at home in prose and verse.

We extend congratulations both to Miss Conway and to St. Mary's College.

Food for Reflection
 We commend to the thoughtful consideration of those who contend for the adoption in this country of the German ideas in education and morals the following editorial utterance of the Philadelphia "Catholic Standard and Times":
 "Paris used to bear the sinister palm of leader in the race for immoral behavior in European cities. It is Berlin who has snatched the unenviable distinction from the brow of mud-born and muddled Lutetia. Latest statistics show that Berlin leads in illegitimacy. Out of close on forty thousand births in the city and its zone last year, nearly ten thousand have to bear the ban sinister! All classes are found contributing to this awful revelry of shame—college women, business women, seamstresses, housemaids. Luther's advice to sinners—to 'sin, and sin strongly'—in order to have a claim on the fruits of the Atonement, is taken very seriously and most practically in the heart of Prussian Lutheranism."

The Holy Name parade of 1911 was remarked even more than that of 1910 because the latter was the first in Rochester and perhaps not unnaturally, the non-Catholics thought it would not hold in interest as the years roll on. Let us be glad that this, at least, disproved the old saw that a new broom sweeps clean.

12,000 Holy Name Men Parade.

Marching eight abreast, each one carrying a red and blue pennant, the insignia of the Holy Name Society, about 12,000 Catholic men from the various parishes in the city and surrounding towns marched through downtown streets on Sunday afternoon as a public demonstration of their opposition to all forms of swearing, blasphemy and indecent speech. It was undoubtedly the most remarkable religious turnout that the city has seen. Men from every walk of life, from the financier to the laborer, joined in the procession.

An escort of mounted patrolmen, Frank J. Schwalb as marshal and Joseph A. Weiss as assistant marshal, both on horseback, headed the parade followed by the Park Band. Then came societies from the twenty-four city churches, and contingents from twelve parishes in neighboring towns brought up the rear of the parade.

The church delegations were stationed in line in order of seniority of establishment. St. Patrick's Cathedral heading the list. The marchers were divided into fifteen sections, the priests of the various churches, with their assistants, leading their parishioners.

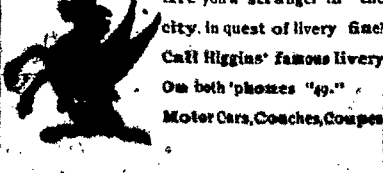

At 3 o'clock the signal was given for the parade to get under way, and thirty-five minutes later the police escort passed the reviewing stand which had been erected in front of the Orphan Asylum in West Avenue. Besides Bishop Hickey, there was in the reviewing stand Rev. E. J. Hanna, D. D., of St. Bernard's Seminary, Rev. D. J. Mounahan of Buffalo, Rev. J. J. Killen, of St. Bernard's, Rev. Thomas J. O'Hern, of Buffalo, Rev. B. J. Gorming, of Lyons, and Rev. J. Nolan, D. D., of St. Andrew's Seminary. As each of the divisions arrived at the grounds the pastors went to the reviewing stand, and there was a distinguished gathering there when the last marcher passed at 4:55 o'clock. It having taken an hour and fifteen minutes for the parade to pass the stand.

After the review Bishop Hickey, assisted by Rev. D. J. Curran, vicar-general of the Rochester Diocese, and by Rev. M. J. Harter, of St. Michael's Church, Rev. Edmund A. Rawlinson, assistant chancellor, carried the blessed sacrament from the chapel of the Orphan Asylum to the temporary altar.

After Bishop Hickey had given the through his solemn benediction, he announced that a cablegram would be sent to His Holiness, Pope Pius IX, as follows:
 To His Eminence, Cardinal Merry del Val, Vatican, Rome.
 Twelve thousand men, marching through the City of Rochester to-day under banner of the Holy Name, unite with their clergy and Bishop in extending to our Holy Father most respectful and affectionate greetings and while praying before the Blessed Sacrament for the welfare of the Chief Pontiff they pledge to the Holy See their unwavering loyalty and filial devotion.
 THOMAS F. HICKEY,
 Bishop of Rochester

K. of C. Honor Columbus
 The Knights of Columbus celebrated Columbus Day with a banquet at Seneca Hotel on Thursday evening. After an excellent menu was enjoyed, toastmaster Joseph P. F. MacSweeney called the banquet to order and in a witty speech introduced Justice Peter A. Hendrick, who spoke on "Random Thoughts." Hon. Eugene J. Dwyer gave his opinion of "K. of C. Ideals;" Harry B. Crowley entertained with humorous reading; J. David Enright spoke on "The Catholic Citizen;" and the Chaplain of Rochester Council closed with a few remarks.

 Willie—Say, pa, you ought to see the men across the street raise a building on jacks. Pa (absently)—Impossible. Willie, you can open on jacks, but a man is a fool to try to raise on them—I mean it must have been quite a sight—Puck.

 Europa Twentieth Century Dandruff
 Cure and Hair Tonic Co.
 Dear Sir—I feel compelled to issue this statement of what your medicine has done for me. It has completely cured me. My hair was falling so fast that I was afraid to comb it. My wife's was equally as bad, but after one application, the hair ceased to fall, and one 50c bottle completely cured both my wife and myself.
 Very Gratefully,
