Browning and a Cabman.
The gondoliers of Venice are supposed to know their Tasso and Ariosto. The following little incident leads to the supposition that Browning's "Ride to Ghent" may possibly be found in the poetic repertory of the London cabman: A neighbor one day saw Mr. Browning alight from a hansom. The cabby looked at the fare in his open palm with an air of dissatisfaction and, wheeling round, delivered himself of this parting shot: "You may be a good poet, but you're a bad pay master."—Mrs. Andrew Crosse in "Red Letter Days of My Life"

His Calling.
"What are you doing now, Wiggle-thorpe?"
"Settlement work."
"Settlement work? You don't look the part."
"That's what I'm doing, but the name 'settlement' isn't for old spot-cash."—Ex-banque

An Easy Task.
Later (unintentionally). Have you learned to love another? "I did—who had just broken off her engagement with him (Oh no, George, I didn't have to learn. The man is very very wealthy and the love came spontaneously!"

"Music Hath Charms."
"What on earth do you keep clapping for? That last singer was awful!"
"I know but I liked the style of her clothes, and I want to have another look at them."—London Opinion
