What Wealth Brings.

The late Colonel Ingersoll was talking one day with a group of friends when the subject of wealth and the desire of most men to accumulate money was discussed.

"I never could understand it," said the colonel. "Just imagine a man with 800,000 hats, 400,000 pairs of shoes, 1,000,000 pairs of gloves, 6,000,000 handkerchiefs, 200,000 pairs of suspenders and a train load of neckties getting up before daylight and exerting every energy until late at night in order that he may make enough money to buy himself another necktie!"

Artistic.

"I will give you your dinner if you will beat those rugs," said the woman with the gingham apron at the back door.

"Ah, madam," replied the wanderer, his hat in his hand, "those rugs are really and truly beautiful—exquisite. I don't think they possibly could be beat!"—Yonkers Statesman.

A Boomerang Rabuka. A certain high school professor, who at times is rather blunt in speech, remarked to his class of boys at the beginning of a lesson. "I don't know why it is—every time I get up to speak some fool talks." Then he wondered why the boys burst out into a roar of laughter.—Lippincott's.

FATHER KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

Wm. H. J. Whitmore writes from Paris, Ark. Sept. 1, 1918:—In 1909 my little son, 1 year old, was taken ill with epileptic spells, three doctors treated him, but all their trials were without any benefit. Every 1 to 15 days the spells appeared. We had to watch him all the time. We tried lots of patent medicines, which were advertised or recommended against that sickness, but not any of them helped. So we gave up all hope of betterment. Through a chance we read about Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic and tried it. The first bottle relieved his trouble and made him well, he had no more attacks since.

Mrs. M. Wickersheim writes from Missouri, Wis.—My nerves were affected, have taken Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic and must say, the remedy has saved me from the insane asylum.
