George F. Baer, Leader of the Hard Coal Operators.

© 1912 by American Press Association

George F. Baer, president of the Reading Railway company, has for years been the dominant figure of the anthracite coal operators in their union with the mine workers' union. He first came prominently into the public eye during the big coal strike of 1902. It was at that time that he expressed his belief in the divine right of the kings of industry. It is said that he really believes that Providence placed the great coal deposits control by himself and his colleagues in their hands for a high purpose. In minutes to remove this attachment appeared Baer's rather soldierly figure, and his steel blue eyes are piercing. In dress he is unassuming. A native of the Reading, Pa., he was born on April 1842. In his early life he was a printer, but after returning from the coal war in which he served with distinction he studied law. He entered the service of the Reading railway as resident solicitor in 1872 and gradually advanced to his present position. He is now president of the central Railroad of New Jersey, the Temple Iron company and the Reading Electric Manufacturing Co. Mr. Baer is in good health and looks younger than his years.

Senator Borah of Idaho.
 If the progress of the Idaho Progressives is carried out, the Republican Senate, William E. Borah will figure as a dark horse at the national Republican convention. The league proposes that a solid Borah delegation be sent to the convention from Idaho and that the speaker be left for the nomination of the first ballot to push the Idaho statesman. The league is the only progressive who would be satisfactory to the conservatives.

He is much liked in the senate for his profound knowledge and grasp of public questions. He believes in the election of senators by direct vote, but is opposed to the recall when applied to judges. As a debater he has few superiors in the senate. Senator Borah's hobby is books. He owns a large library and even in the days when he was a struggling lawyer he spent his spare money in books. He is a native of Illinois, forty seven years old and got his education at the Southern Illinois university at Carbondale. He was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1906 and was admitted to the bar in 1880. From Kansas he went to Idaho, where he is recognized as one of the strongest men ever sent to that state to congress.

Senator O'Gorman's Diary.
 Senator O'Gorman remarked to a league the other day that he used to keep a diary.
 "I started in when I was seventeen years old," said O'Gorman, "and I kept it up without missing a day until I was about twenty-four."
 "And why did you stop then?" the friend asked.
 "Why," replied O'Gorman, "there was no longer any need for me to write down my daily doings. I got married then."

HINTS FOR THE BUSY HOUSEWIFE

Baby's Crib That May Be Fastened to Parents' Bed.

A Californian has designed an attachment for beds by means of which the baby is always at its mother's side, but not in her bed. A small rectangular frame, which is a miniature bed in itself, is pivotally mounted to one of the head posts of the larger bed. It can be kept right at the mother's side or swung a little distance out if the latter wishes more room or when she gets out of bed. In this way a woman can watch over and attend to her child quite as well as if the little one were lying by her side which she really believes that Providence placed the great coal deposits control by himself and his colleagues in their hands for a high purpose. In minutes to remove this attachment appeared Baer's rather soldierly figure, and his steel blue eyes are piercing. In dress he is unassuming. A native of the Reading, Pa., he was born on April 1842. In his early life he was a printer, but after returning from the coal war in which he served with distinction he studied law. He entered the service of the Reading railway as resident solicitor in 1872 and gradually advanced to his present position. He is now president of the central Railroad of New Jersey, the Temple Iron company and the Reading Electric Manufacturing Co. Mr. Baer is in good health and looks younger than his years.

Fricandeau of Veal.
 Select a cushion of veal and have it trimmed and skewered into shape. Lay the upper side on one onion, the lower on a carrot and one potato. In the bottom of the braising pan place a bay leaf, a sprig of parsley, a piece of celery and two cloves. Lay the fillet on top with the inner side uppermost and pour over it a quart of hot stock. Place the lid on the braising pan and cook in a moderately hot oven for two hours if the meat weighs four pounds. When done remove the fillet and strain the gravy from the pan. Garnish the meat with the cut vegetables and fresh parsley and serve with a brown sauce made as follows:
 Brown Sauce: Brown two tablespoons of butter and cook steadily until smooth and brown. Add two cups of the strained stock and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce and mix thoroughly.

Curried Eggs.
 Mold some boiled rice into form resembling a nest. Chop one onion finely, fry it in a tablespoonful of hot butter for a few minutes and add a tablespoonful of flour a level tablespoonful of curry powder, a teaspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of lemon juice, half a cupful of water. Allow to cook slowly for twenty minutes. Quarter some hard cooked eggs and add them to the sauce. Allow them to heat and place them in the nest of rice. Pour the sauce over carefully and serve decorated with a little chopped parsley.

Baked Bean Soup.
 For each cupful of baked beans allow two cupfuls of tomato juice, or for a little over a cupful of baked beans a quart can of tomatoes may be taken. Put beans and tomatoes over the fire to heat; bring to a boil and put through puree sieve. Return to the fire. If the soup is thin butter and flour should be rubbed together to thicken it and carefully cooked so that it may have no raw taste. If too thick stock may be added or even water. The soup should be seasoned well and served hot.

Orange Marmalade.
 Twelve oranges cut into small strips, put into a pan with twelve pints of water and soak forty eight hours, then put on to boil two hours add twelve pounds of sugar and boil two hours longer. Be sure it boils well all over and do not let it remain on stove after the allotted time as it loses its golden color. It will be sure to set.

To Freshen Fish.
 Those who dislike salted whitefish and mackerel should put the fish in a crock or stone jar, pour over clabbered milk or buttermilk, let stand twelve hours, rinse twice in clear water, and they will find the fish as fresh as though it had never been salted.

Everyone of 92,000 People Average 2 1-2 Bell Long Distance Messages A Year.

In 1876 the telephone was an interesting invention only:—there wasn't a telephone line in existence.
 In 1911 the traffic over Bell Long Distance lines (not including Connecting Companies) was 236,000,000 messages—one Long Distance for every dollar paid in Public School salaries in this country.
 It isn't a question of how much your Long Distance bills are, but how much does Long Distance Telephoning save you.

Enjoy Housework

You can If You Don't Put Obstacles in Your Own Way.

HOUSEWORK is fun enough when you have the things to DO with. The range, for instance, can be a help or a hindrance. It is like the salt in a stew—unnoticeable when it is doing its work properly, but a nuisance if it makes itself too evident.

THE BEST part of owning a "Red Cross" Range is that it does not keep taking your time and attention from other things. Especially the Coal-and-Gas Combination ("Z-Fuel") which does its work summer and winter, spring and fall, in all weathers, with the best results and least attention. (Have you seen the latest model?)
