

Woman's World

A Possible Chatelaine of the White House.

© 1912 by American Press Association.
 MRS. WOODROW WILSON AND DAUGHTERS.
 Standing next to Mrs. Wilson, wife of the Democratic nominee for president, is her eldest daughter, Margaret, immediately behind her sister Miss Jessie, and at one side stands Miss Eleanor Wilson.

If in the course of human events Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey, should be duly elected president of the United States and inaugurated into office on March 4, 1912, social life at the White House would be in capable hands. The mistress of the White House would be a woman who is talented, sympathetic and always charming, and with her would be three daughters, each of whom has a definite vocation in life and peculiar fitness for doing at least one thing remarkably well. The eldest, Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, is twenty-six years old, while Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson is only a year younger, making her three years older than Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, who was born twenty-two years ago at Middletown, Conn., when her father was a professor at Wesleyan university.

The principles of education which Woodrow Wilson advocated while president of Princeton university were put into practice in his own family. None of the girls went to school until after ten years old. The natural inclinations of each were allowed to develop to the full extent, and the parents made almost unfelt their guiding hands. A German governess gave them instruction in French and German, and today all three young women are very proficient in both languages. They fitted for college at a private school in Princeton.

Miss Margaret entered the Woman's college at Baltimore in the class of 1907. At the completion of her sophomore year she discovered that she had a soprano voice of great possibilities, and acting under advisement, she left college for musical training.

The most serious of the trio is Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, much of whose time is given to educational, philanthropic and religious work. She is a member of the national board of the Young Women's Christian association and is prominently identified with the educational branch. She was an honor member in the class of 1908 of the Woman's college at Baltimore, gaining the golden key of Phi Beta Kappa.

Miss Eleanor Wilson, known as Nell in the family circle and among her intimate friends, inherited her mother's artistic ability and has already made quite a reputation for herself by her productions. She is not a college graduate, having gained her education in a private school at Princeton and in St. Mary's school at Raleigh, N. C. Much of her artistic training was received at the Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia.

Progressive Women.

The legislative assembly of Manitoba has recently adopted an amendment permitting women to study and practice law in that province.

"Woman's Who's Who of America" is the publishers claim, to be a "biographical dictionary of notable women of the United States and Canada."

Dr. Yamina Sen of China is said to be the first woman admitted to the fellowship of the Royal Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons at Glasgow.

Franlein Hedwig Martins of Rostock is credited with having sent in the only essay worthy of a prize in a competition held at Gottingen university.

Miss Frances Perkins of New York, executive secretary of the Consumers' league, has resigned to accept the position of executive secretary of the committee of safety, succeeding Dr. Charles H. Keyes. The committee was formed shortly after the Triangle fire, its chief aim being the protection of life and property against fire.

Points for Mothers

A Baby Party.

To plan and successfully carry out a children's party requires a great deal of forethought. Little tots are hard to amuse for several hours at a stretch.

Our small sisters and brothers will have birthdays, and they enjoy so thoroughly their "parties" it would be unkind not to celebrate each year.

Many of our dearest memories linger about our birthday parties. Do not deny the children this pleasure. Invite the small friends to spend the afternoon.

Prepare a room where they may play without fear of breaking anything until refreshments are served.

Have plenty of toys, so that those desiring to amuse themselves with them. Children love to "act," so select groups to produce the Mother Goose rhymes in pantomime. Then have the others guess what they are trying to represent, awarding a prize to the one guessing the greatest number.

"Silhouettes" always amuse children. To "see pictures of their shadows" drawn by a clever draftsman greatly interests them.

In another room have the table spread for refreshments.

In the center have a miniature garden, with tiny flower beds, in which grow the smallest blossoms. Mark out the walks with pebbles and have doll children playing about.

Serve sandwiches of several varieties, but consume creamed chicken and ice. Give them cocoa to drink and have candies, salted nuts and fruit.

At each plate have an inexpensive favor for the child to "take home."

Fun With Clothespins.

Five cents' worth of clothespins will furnish a whole afternoon of fun for boys and girls who are of an inventive turn.

They make specially "use toys" for out of door sports.

For instance, there is a clothespin ninepin game. For this the pins are stuck up in the turf in the form of a wedge with the broad side of the wedge toward the players.

The children all stand at a prescribed distance from the novel tenpins and endeavor to overthrow them by rolling at them a hard ball. It must be rolled on the turf, not thrown. Each player has three shots at a time, after which another player takes his place.

The number of men overthrown by each player are counted, and these represent his score.

After each player has played the men are "set up" again for the next player. The one having the highest score wins the game.

It is great fun to mark out little pens made of four clothespins with cords around them and in each pen to put a wild animal cut from some newspaper or other periodical. This makes a most entertaining zoo. Some of the children can be keepers and explain the animals, while others are visitors and visit the zoo in search of information. There should be a ticket chopper, who takes up the beans or other tickets which the visitors bring.

Smart Little Coats.

Dame Fashion decrees that the coats small maidens wear on dreary occasions shall be the most exquisite creations possible. White, with a touch of color, she prefers. They may be of the sheershest linen, French pique, a corded lightweight woolen fabric, rough crinkled crepe or white pegsue.

One charming coat noticed recently was of oyster white pongee, with bits of French blue corded silk in collar, cuffs and narrow belt. A little semi-tailored model of a firm white china silk has a deep collar and cuffs lined with a fascinating shade of rose satin, the lining showing on the right side in an inch wide fold. A rose emerald button, lovely in color, finishes the double breasted front.

On the dressy wash coats, pullings are used as the very newest mode of trimming.

Suggestion For Mothers.

When baby has the croupy, the first thing to be tried is, age band. Put a piece of flannel in the oval until it is quite hot, then hold it over the baby's ear, covering it with another flannel. A small hot water bottle is also good, covered with the flannel.

IN FALL ARRAY

Stunning Tailored Suit For Cool Days.

DELICIOUSLY MODEL IN HAVE NONE.

For the matron with silvery white hair nothing is prettier in the way of a fall tailored suit than this new model of mauve serge. The coat lines, you will observe, are much longer than those we have been accustomed to wear for several seasons, but for a matronly figure this allouette is exceptionally becoming.

On the revers there is a touch of white cloth trimmed about with black passementerie. The coat fastens with two large black jet buttons.

THE SLIT SKIRT.

Fastidious Maudsells Refuse to Adopt This Extreme Style.

A new skirt resembles a thing of shreds and patches or, to give it another simile, a penwiper, for it is notched at each seam and so hangs about the ankles like a fringe.

The hosiery and shoe makers applaud the vogue which necessitates the wearing of very beautiful specimens of stockings and shoes. But, despite the novelty of the idea, it is not gaining favor among the fastidious.

The penwiper skirt is also too extraordinary for the majority of women, for, as has been said, the shredded effect, though sensible, is not very elegant. The best interpretation of the vogue is the one that shows a bit at the left side of the skirt or, at the most, at both sides, extending only about five inches upward and so arranged that when the wearer walks it is not perceptible except as an ease giving attribute of the skirt's measurement. When the wearer sits her shoes and stockings may be perceived.

Warm Weather Salad Dressing.

In warm weather it is an advantage to have salad dressings that will keep for a week or more if placed in a cool place. Here are directions for making such a dressing:

Mix together a gill of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar, a teaspoonful of mustard and a grain or two of cayenne pepper; add to this six well beaten eggs, stirring them in for five minutes. Cook it all in a double saucepan or stand the saucepan containing the mixture in another one-half full of boiling water, stirring it constantly. Leave it till cold; then add a gill of cream and salt to taste and bottle. It will keep for weeks.

Surf Curis.

Have you seen the "surf curis"? They consist of a string of tiny curls to fasten inside the bathing cap when your hair is twisted tightly on top of your head to keep it from the salt water. These beach curls are warranted to stay in kink, and they give you a coquettish look when your neighbors are far from looking their best.

There are other strings of curis for placing inside the bonnet cap. These are longer than those for surf use and are more costly and complicated. It is really getting to the place where one need not comb one's hair at all unless one wishes to waste time.

A Laundry Hint.

If you wish to have table linens look nice do not put it through the wringer, as it makes creases that will not come out even if the cloth is ironed when very damp. By rinsing very thoroughly it looks better even if not wrung very dry. Just try it and see. In fact, any clothes that you wish to look very nice when ironed you will find come out a great deal better if wrung by hand.

A Bene to Good Figures.

Rocking chairs are a bene to good figures, for it is impossible to sit in one and not double up eyes a little. Once in a while, as a great luxury, this does not matter, but the practice of sitting one, getting into it and sliding down to rock, is injurious to a well shaped body.

CORSET NECESSITY

Witch - Thin - Sweet - Delicately - Well - Made.

CORSET HIGHER - AT THE POINT.

Very slender hip lines are given by this new corset, which reaches almost to the knees; it is particularly soft and pliable.

The corset is worn over a chemise bloomer of unbrothered glove silk, which is exactly like the unbrothered silk gloves in texture.

KEEPING YOUNG.

Advice For the Woman Who Wants to Look Well.

At nearly sixty-eight Miss Corlette Adams, residing in Chicago, once gave a fairy in "The Blue Bird" the great secret of youth to the correspondent of a Spanish publication. Here it is in two lines:

"Work has kept me young; I have had no time to grow old."

And her next sentence emphasizes the point:

"Only when I have a spare hour and sit down to play, patience do I begin to feel old. So long as I am working I always feel young."

"The Blue Bird" played the part of a fairy—an old fairy, it is true, but still a fairy—and I felt very young; and I believe all the really young fairies thought I was young too. I'm sure they had so ideas I was nearly seventy."

"I have had a hard life, but I believe it is the people who have the hardest lives who keep the youngest. The prematurely old people are those who are always taking rest-cures. Nothing makes people so old as having nothing to do. But work should be congenial. — If I had been a charwoman I am afraid I should have been much older than I am."

"It is a good thing to be as much as possible with the young people—if they will put up with you, and you know how to get on with them. Some of my friends tell me that young people bore them, but that is never so with me. I am still interested in everything that interests young people."

"It is not wise to try to keep young. Nothing makes one feel so old as wearing young clothes. I think the great secret is to work hard and take no notice of birthdays and avoid holidays. A holiday always makes me feel rather old, especially if I have to pay patience."

An Autumn Wedding Gift.

One of the interesting additions to fine china displays for autumn wedding.

Best for serving crackers and cheese. This is the cracker and cheese dish.

The cheese reposes in the small, inner dish, and the crackers are arranged around the plate.

Fancy Work Blouses.

A fashionable figure that is easily adapted to an oval composed of four rows of dots, the largest on the outside. This design may have the dots worked in slightly padded satin, or for more open effect eyelets can be used. A broad border could have three rows of these eyelets, the outer walls measuring an inch and a half by an inch and a quarter, the next an inch by three-quarters and the inner one half an inch by three-quarters. The size of the dots is proportioned to the size of the oval.

Soilage in North Dakota.

An active state-wide campaign is being planned in North Dakota, and legislative work will receive the first attention of the leaders of the movement. Down to rock, is injurious to a well shaped body.

Millady's Mirror

Care of the Teeth.

Considering the importance placed on the teeth in the search for beauty, so much importance cannot be given to them and their maintenance. The best dental attention or failure in the woman who would appear always fresh and attractive.

Not only is it necessary to strive constantly to preserve the natural beauty of the teeth, but it is equally important that we labor to increase their whiteness and general appearance by every remedy of all sciences and all degrees of dentistry are able to discover.

For keeping the teeth in good condition chewing dry toast, hard bread or crackers is recommended. Certain foods tend to give a stability to the "grinders" which keeps them from early decay. For the purpose of dissolving particles of food removing deposits and other substances a good tooth brush is indispensable. The brush with medium soft bristles is best for the reason that coarsely bristles injure and inflame the gums causing them to shrink and recede. No particular shape of brush is recommended, the principal point to remember being that the back and under parts of the teeth require as much or even more attention than the front. In brushing do not make the mistake of drawing the brush across the teeth without separating the action with a circular up and down stroke. Drawing the brush up and down separates particles of food that lodge tightly in crevices between the teeth.

Cover the gums as well as the teeth during this cleaning process. Gentle stroking is best for the gums. If they bleed rinse them thoroughly with a healing mouth wash as they will gradually become invigorated and hardened, thus aiding in the fight against decaying teeth. Exercise extreme caution in selecting tooth powder, powders or other dentifrices on the market. One of the most universally popular is graduated in dentifrice is powdered chalk. It is inexpensive, harmless and effective. Its chief value being the neutralizing of acids in the mouth.

Among the simple remedies always at hand some can be recommended more highly than common salt. A strong solution of salt water is a beneficial mouth wash and dry salt placed on the toothbrush cleanses the teeth.

Borax is useful in that it tends to remove impurities from the mouth. Dissolve two to four ounces of borax in a pint of boiling water and add a half teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda or spirit of camphor.

The Tinged Head.

There is a revival of the red head. A genuine carrot shade is the favorite of the moment, and women have in preference to these eyes and complexion.

If they do not know how they should tinted hair is artificial looking, but there is something about the right red hue that makes the most perfect woman look like an advertisement, and that her features and in general are glowing.

"The truth has not the best effect of those of most concerns, but they might refrain from tampering with their hair if they knew how well the artificiality added to their years. It hides the features and gives a strained look of about facial. It dulls the complexion and makes all but the extreme blond look paler."

Health and Beauty.

Have plenty of ventilation in your sleeping apartments. Before the season such several inches and also raise the lower sash. This gives free circulation of the air and will keep your bed fresh.

A simple "first aid" remedy for blood is found in a stock wrap of cold water and placed at the neck of the neck. A large cold-water key may answer the same purpose. So may a piece of brown paper dipped in vinegar.

Baby's mouth should be washed every day with tepid water in which a small pinch of borax is dissolved. This borax lotion keeps the mouth fresh and sweet and prevents that formidable affliction, sore mouth, from which babies so often suffer.

Brittle Nails.

Brittleness of the nails is quite often due to the condition of the general health. Then, again, if you do your own housework the strong acids which you probably use for cleaning purposes will make your nails brittle. When a day hold the tip of your fingers in five minutes in a vessel containing enough olive oil to cover the nails. At night before retiring dip the fingers into cold cream and let the tips stay as just as much as they will remain. After this dip them into lemon juice.

Beauty Hint.

Orangeade is the fashionable favorite summer beverage for her companion's sake, and the beverage actually also is recommended to clean the skin, brighten the eyes, in addition, she who takes much sugar and who drinks the lemon juice will with water, mixing the orange with it.

When the skin becomes overheatened by putting a little baking soda into the water in which you wash your face will produce a cooling influence which will prevent.

For the Child

FOODS OF NECESSITY FOR THE CHILD.

For keeping the teeth in good condition chewing dry toast, hard bread or crackers is recommended. Certain foods tend to give a stability to the "grinders" which keeps them from early decay. For the purpose of dissolving particles of food removing deposits and other substances a good tooth brush is indispensable. The brush with medium soft bristles is best for the reason that coarsely bristles injure and inflame the gums causing them to shrink and recede. No particular shape of brush is recommended, the principal point to remember being that the back and under parts of the teeth require as much or even more attention than the front. In brushing do not make the mistake of drawing the brush across the teeth without separating the action with a circular up and down stroke. Drawing the brush up and down separates particles of food that lodge tightly in crevices between the teeth.

Cover the gums as well as the teeth during this cleaning process. Gentle stroking is best for the gums. If they bleed rinse them thoroughly with a healing mouth wash as they will gradually become invigorated and hardened, thus aiding in the fight against decaying teeth. Exercise extreme caution in selecting tooth powder, powders or other dentifrices on the market. One of the most universally popular is graduated in dentifrice is powdered chalk. It is inexpensive, harmless and effective. Its chief value being the neutralizing of acids in the mouth.

Among the simple remedies always at hand some can be recommended more highly than common salt. A strong solution of salt water is a beneficial mouth wash and dry salt placed on the toothbrush cleanses the teeth.

Borax is useful in that it tends to remove impurities from the mouth. Dissolve two to four ounces of borax in a pint of boiling water and add a half teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda or spirit of camphor.

The Tinged Head.

There is a revival of the red head. A genuine carrot shade is the favorite of the moment, and women have in preference to these eyes and complexion.

If they do not know how they should tinted hair is artificial looking, but there is something about the right red hue that makes the most perfect woman look like an advertisement, and that her features and in general are glowing.

"The truth has not the best effect of those of most concerns, but they might refrain from tampering with their hair if they knew how well the artificiality added to their years. It hides the features and gives a strained look of about facial. It dulls the complexion and makes all but the extreme blond look paler."

Health and Beauty.

Have plenty of ventilation in your sleeping apartments. Before the season such several inches and also raise the lower sash. This gives free circulation of the air and will keep your bed fresh.

A simple "first aid" remedy for blood is found in a stock wrap of cold water and placed at the neck of the neck. A large cold-water key may answer the same purpose. So may a piece of brown paper dipped in vinegar.

Baby's mouth should be washed every day with tepid water in which a small pinch of borax is dissolved. This borax lotion keeps the mouth fresh and sweet and prevents that formidable affliction, sore mouth, from which babies so often suffer.

Brittle Nails.

Brittleness of the nails is quite often due to the condition of the general health. Then, again, if you do your own housework the strong acids which you probably use for cleaning purposes will make your nails brittle. When a day hold the tip of your fingers in five minutes in a vessel containing enough olive oil to cover the nails. At night before retiring dip the fingers into cold cream and let the tips stay as just as much as they will remain. After this dip them into lemon juice.

Beauty Hint.

Orangeade is the fashionable favorite summer beverage for her companion's sake, and the beverage actually also is recommended to clean the skin, brighten the eyes, in addition, she who takes much sugar and who drinks the lemon juice will with water, mixing the orange with it.

When the skin becomes overheatened by putting a little baking soda into the water in which you wash your face will produce a cooling influence which will prevent.