

THE NEW COLLAR.

Style in Robespierre Effects Are Legion.

THE LATEST ROBESPIERRE COLLAR.

The variations of the Robespierre collar are legion. Every day a new style comes out. This collar is very tall at the back and slopes deeply at the front. The black bow and long ends add smartness.

HUSBANDS IN THE WAY.

American Women in Europe Tell What a Nuisance They Are.

That "American husbands are a drag on their women folk when traveling abroad" is the startling generalization made in a London paper on the authority of an American woman.

After stating that American women are considerably in the majority among transatlantic visitors this summer and declaring that the fact is not without interest as marking the degree of self-reliance and confidence with which American women face an extended foreign tour without a male escort and sometimes without even the companionship of a woman friend, the paper quotes an American woman whose husband is the head of a big furniture manufacturing firm at Grand Rapids as saying that she learned more about England this season during a fortnight alone than she had done in half a dozen previous visits under the escort of her husband. She added:

"I don't mean merely getting about and finding places and schemes and plotting to keep my day full of interest and enjoyment, but more especially the smaller but even more important things that make for happiness and comfort."

"For instance, I can order my dinner at a restaurant now. For years my husband invariably ordered the dishes. Once, on our honeymoon in Paris, I said I liked a vol au vent which my husband ordered and which I tasted for the first time. Later on I expressed my warm approval of a tournee.

"Now, would you believe it, for nine years past vol au vent and tournee have been ordered for me because of that early appreciation, out of sheer kindness. A new dish was never risked on me for fear I shouldn't like it. Isn't that like a man?"

Secret Lockets.

Would you have something quite new and different to wear on your pretty, long chain? Then here are some fascinating lockets with a compartment for a hidden picture. They may be turned and twisted and examined most minutely and still retain the secret of the enclosed portrait. Neither hinge nor crevice is to be seen, and the bejeweled and ornamented cover will defy the detection of the secret picture.

These lockets are handsomely carved in many beautiful designs, and they are shown in the jewelry shops in various shapes and sizes. Some are encrusted with diamonds or pearls and others with the colored stones.

One charming locket is set with an emerald and three beautifully tinted baroque pearls, while from it is suspended a large baroque pearl as a pendant.

Another is set with a large topaz, and this gold locket is heavily carved and chased.

Suffragettes in Budapest.

Budapest has been chosen as the place of meeting of the International Women Suffrage association for its seventh biennial congress, June 15-20, 1913. Dr. Stefan von Barcsay, lord mayor of Budapest, is quoted as saying that he will be happy to welcome the congress in Budapest, because the movement must be advanced by all right thinking men. It is expected that delegates will for the first time include women from India, Egypt and Java. The Hungarian Men's League for Woman Suffrage has decided to invite the Men's International League for Woman Suffrage to hold its first general meeting in Budapest during the session of the congress of women.

SIMPLE HOUSE GOWN.

An Odd Whimsy in Button Trimming.

IN WHITE COTTON BATHING.

This simple house gown was designed for a young French actress. The material is white ratine, and the plaits down the front give height and dignity. The arrangement of the buttons, half under the buttonhole, is an odd whimsy.

DRESSMAKING BIDS.

Contracts For Sewing Awarded in Businesslike Fashion.

Letting out the making of a summer wardrobe to the lowest bidder is a new wrinkle to one dressmaker who was recently invited to participate in such a contest.

"I have a number of gowns, separate blouses and shirt waists, which I wish made up by June 1," wrote the woman who had the contract to let. "Will you kindly call at my house for particulars and make an estimate of charges?"

The dressmaker went and named a figure. When she came back she said she never felt so important in her life. "It was like bidding for a government job," she said, "and when I agreed to make up so many yards of taffeta, dimity and linen for a certain sum, I felt as if I were signing a contract to drape the columns of the library or postoffice or some other public building. That illusion was heightened by the size of the customer, who is stately enough for statuary, and solid enough for masonry. There is only a small chance of my getting the work, for she invited scores of other dressmakers to compete, some of whom are likely to underbid me, but if I do get it it will be the first order I ever obtained on those businesslike terms."

Reversible Satin Coat. The turned back fronts of this French coat show the color of the under side.

BLACK SATIN COAT WITH GOLD LINING.

In effective contrast with the black satin of the outer side. The coat is made of reversible satin, with dull gold on the reverse side.

Women in Panama.

The government of Panama has just appointed Miss Agnes Ewing Brown, an American woman, director of the normal schools for girls at Panama.

SING A SONG OF FASHION.

Feminine Fancy in Dress. Ah, ladies, ye whom Fashion's stringing. What of the style of skirt called "dancing?" So thin that you and light show through it.

As thousands are aware who view it, with little underneath but nature. To constitute the filling feature, so startling as to cause a modest man to wonder if the oddest sculptors ever carved or modeled. Were not in public now unfolded. Ladies, ladies, your apparel makes one wish you wore a barrel. And if by chance you are not knowing that you are making such a showing. Oh, would some power the girls give you to see yourself as others see you! -W. J. Lampton.

ices of Palermo." If you wish to realize what devotion to ices means you should go to Palermo. All over the south of Italy ices are eaten to an extent of which we do not dream, but in Sicily and Palermo in particular the custom has attained amazing proportions. Ices are eaten by people of all ranks and ages from morning to night. Where a true Briton would demand a glass of beer the Palermitan asks for an ice. Morning, noon and night the consumption of ices varies on. They are in wonderful variety and cheap. The stranger in that beautiful country finds the cafes invaded between 4 and 5 by ice eaters. He sees officers and men of the army, merchants and work people, the rich and the poor of both sexes consuming ices with gusto. No one evades this pleasant duty. Lines of carriages draw up at the side of the pavement before the cafes, the occupants, the coachman and the footman all with their favorite delicacy. At first the stranger wonders, then he falls a victim.—London Chronicle.

Why is a Pergola? An interesting question is raised by a writer on gardens in the Atlantic Monthly. Why should so many American gardens have that queer, irrelevant, useless thing called a "pergola"? Generally it is built in a spot where shade is called for, but the pergola, having no roof, affords no shade. It is really a trellis and is borrowed from countries where it is used to support grapevines, but American grapevines are kept pruned back to mere stumps, and the pergola, as affected by our suburbanites, is of no use at all as a grape trellis. What is its use we have never been able to find out. Perhaps some one knows. As one generally sees it, the pergola is a sprawling, extremely naked object, suggesting a shed which has had its roof blown off by a gale or a henroost that has been deserted by the hens because it is no good. Can it be that it is regarded by some people as ornamental?

A Fine Battery of Teeth. The animal having the most teeth is the great armadillo of south Central and northern South America. It is a fact well known to most people that the normal or average number of teeth in mammals is thirty-two—sixteen above and the same number below. The great armadillo, however, is an exception, having from 82 to 100. He has from twenty-four to twenty-six in each side of the upper jaw and from twenty to twenty-four in each side of the lower jaw. Another peculiarity lies in the fact that they are all molars or grinders. They increase in size from front to back instead of from the root, and are wholly destitute of enamel.

Looking Forward. The husband and wife were making a call on friends one evening. The wife was talking. "I think we shall have Marian take a domestic science course along with her music and regular studies when at college." "Ah," said a man present, who had been a stranger until that evening, "you look rather young to have a daughter ready for college." "Oh," said the mother naively, "she isn't old enough now. She is just eight months old, but I do so like to look forward!"—Indianapolis News.

Mixed on the Phone. Irritable Man (at other end of phone line)—Hello, hello! What's the matter with you? Are you forty-seven? Angry Spinster (at this end)—No; I'm not. Who said I was? I'm only thirty-three. Irritable Man—Oh, ring off!—Chevrolet Fish Dealer.
