Thanksgiving Favors. Decorations for the Thanksgiving dinner table arouse much interest in the candy and pastry shops. There never was such a variety before.

Three inch turkeys constitute candy boxes. There are dolls dressed in pumpkin colored paper from hat to train. In their hands they carry little bags made out of tiny pumpkins.

Little negro doll boys clap pumpkin cymbals; others guide automobiles that have pumpkin wheels. Little pumpkin coaches as charming as the one that carried Cinderella to the ball stand in line with other devices.

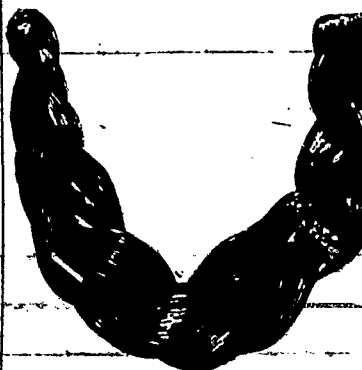

Fruit plates are filled with red checked apples, grapes, bananas, pears and lemons, each one of which is a candy box. Careful reproductions are seen in the mammoth peanuts and the minnie cure lobsters, which also make candy boxes.

Values That Men Appreciate.

It is gratifying to a man these days when most everything costs him more to be able to walk into our Furnishing store here and purchase the best scarf he ever did for half a dollar.

And that statement will hold true throughout our entire line of men's neckwear—better qualities of silk, superior patterns, more expert making is embodied in the scarf at any given price than ever before.

We are giving this too with a thought of Christmas when women as well as men will be buying neckwear. It is an exceptional line of men's four-in-hands that we are showing at half a dollar, particularly the silks with bias satin stripes. There are some exquisite Persian effects among them.

A scarf that is to be very popular this fall is the Imperial. This is a graduated four-in-hand, largely made of English silks, at $1 to $1.50.

There are some exclusive things in folded four-in-hands, at $1.50, $2 and $2.50.

Knitted scarfs in crocheted and accordion weaves present qualities at prices all the way from half a dollar up to $2.75.

There are some marvelously rich and stylish things in knitted neckwear this season.

What An Extension Telephone

May Mean in Your Home.

Suppose that the telephone bell downstairs is ringing and upstairs your wife is lying ill. She can't answer your call, or any other call. You must talk through a third person.

You owe it to your wife and to yourself to have an extension telephone put in her room where she can talk herself.

The cost—why it's less than two cents a day.

Wouldn't it be worth many times that amount?
