Solitary confinement lasts for five long years, sometimes for ten, but convicts ean hardly bear it for more than six months. Invariably they are insane long before the term expires, and often they commit suicide. The fear of solitary confinement acts as a preventive to murder as much as and perhaps much more than that of capital pun ishment. It is quite true that the cases of murder have not diminished to any great extent in Italy since the aboticion of the death penalty; but, ondren sit or stand on the doorsteps of the other hand, they have not increased -Chicago News.

German Justice,

A curious illustration of the princi ple of responsibility abroad is afford ed by a civil damage suit growing out of the breaking of a plate glass window in a German town. A witness had testified as follows:

"As I was passing down the street" in front of the window I saw a big tone come whirling through the air. did not know whence it came. I saw it coming through the air, and I had just time enough to dodge to save myself from being hit by it." The witness was sharply questioned ipon the point whether the stone that broke the window would have struck him had he not dodged it. He was then dismissed. Eventually the deci-

don of the magistrate was this: "Inasmuch as if the witness bad not infortunately ducked his head the glass would not have been struck by the stone, he is hereby adjudged re ponsible for the breaking of the window and is ordered to pay to the owner the value of the same."-Chicago inter Ocean

Meving Pictures In Japan.

The Japanese take the moving pic ture with the seriousness bentting the national character. They enjoy it thor oughly, but they like it best when it makes them sad. The favorite theme the warrior lighting for righteousness. Next in popularity comes the pathetic picture. The strictly educational film is also popular, and there is always applause for good scenery. But the love story is never represented in the Japanese moving picture. It would be an outrage to modesty and a violation of decency and therefore intolerable Pictures derogatory to the dignity of officials and of policemen are forbidden, as well as those likely to instill revolutionary ideas in the minds of the young.

A Dangerous Precedent. The hest case which I have seen of law versus justice and common sense is one which Montaigne relates as having happened in his own day. Some men were condemned to death for murder. The judges were then informed by the officers of an inferior court that certain persons in their custody had confessed themselves guilty of the murder in question and had told so circumstantial a tale that the fact was placed beyond all doubt Nevertheless it was deemed so bad a precedent to revoke a sentence and show that the law could err that the innocent mea were delivered over to execution.-
