Twenty-fourth Year, No. 19.

Holman had heard of this golden book. He had not dreamed it could fit one's need so exactly.

Had not his own' heart known such need? He opened to the boy, leading younger brothers chapter, "Of the Want of all and sisters into new fields of consolation." The idea was thought and play, an oldest son, strange to him: "But it is very groping into the quagmires of necessal and it if it, telling Munchausen consolation, both human and distories to us over harvest work. Wine." The next gave him new He was always ready to wonders: "So do thou also learn himself between danger and so exactly.
