Give the Proof!

With a picture of the pretty author, this statement attributed to Miss Inez Milholland, the self-advertising young suffragist, is going the rounds of the secular press:

Miss Inez Milholland, the suffragette, said recently that she had been informed by a prelate in the West that the Catholic Church much preferred to have things go along as they are, because if the ignorance of a greater part of its communicants were dispelled and female suffrage were admitted it would cause great trouble in controlling the parishioners.

We will be charitable enough to think Miss Milholland has been misquoted and that she will make suitable correction when the matter is brought to her attention. However, if she does not do so, it is in order to ask her to give the name of the "Catholic prelate" to whom she attributes such silly talk. No Catholic prelate ever said any such thing, of that we are sure.

Produce the proofs, Miss Mil-holland!

On Right Road

According to a press despatch, there is a priest in New Jersey who is not afraid to speak out in meeting, even if he is located in a rural parish where it is often inexpedient to take a pronounced stand against certain popular movements. This despatch read as follows:

New York, April 24.—Offering to the boys in the parochial school of the Church of Our Lady of the Valley, Orange, N. J., the alternative of giving up membership in the Boy Scouts or discontinuing attendance at classes in the Roman Catholic Church institution, Father John F. Boylan, rector, had several of the lads resign from the Scouts.

At the masses on Sunday Father Boylan announced that he did not desire young men of the church to join the Young Men's Christian Association, because Roman Catholics are not permitted voting membership nor places in office. He objected to the Boy Scouts as a "feeder" for the Y.
M. C. A. He declared he would not take the responsibility for moral education of the young persons if they were allowed to join societies outside the Catholic Church which announced their intention to teach a form of morality to youth.

The priest also warned his congregation against instruction of sex hygiene by any persons but parents, the Catholic sisterhood or priests.

Let us hope that the Y. M. C. A. sponsors in Rochester will reciprocate the generosity of our citizens by leading a movement to break down some of the narrow, sectarian limitations which obtain in that organization.

Secretary Bryan's universal peace programme does not strike a responsive chord in Germany.

Let New York Act

In the main we agree with the following editorial in the New York World:

The New York State Reformatory at Bedford was built to hold 320 wayward girls and young women. It has been a model for similar institutions in other States. With 500 inmates it has reached and passed its limit of usefulness unless the State appropriates money for more buildings. It menaces health unless it is also provided with water and means of sewage disposal.

Considering what it does, the Bedford Reformatory is about the most economical investment the State ever made. The inmates dig cellars, lay concrete walks, build silos and pig-pens, cut and store ice, make fences, cut trees, drain land. Such outdoor work improves their health, saves wages and cuts down the cost of maintenance. The graduates of this remarkable institution do it credit in a large percentage of cases.

Few taxpayers will object to liberal support of the Bedford Reformatory.

However, Magistrate McAduo, of New York, made a misleading plea before Governor Sulzer for larger appropriations for Bedford when he complained that New York city correctional institutions were overcrowded and inadequate. Why, then, should New York City provide adequate institutions? Why call upon the entire state to be taxed to take care of New York city's unfortunates?
One failing of those interested in philanthropy is that they see only one side of a question, they forget its effect upon the whole community.

Is It Home Rule?

The Legislature has passed and Governor Sulzer has signed a bill which is heralded as "a measure to confer home rule upon cities." This was a consummation devoutly to be desired because it is an intolerable nuisance to be compelled to run to Albany every time a slight change is needed in the charter.

But home rule in non-essentials while state supervision of cities is extended is a farce. Why should a New York city state official be sent to Rochester to supersede our fire marshal in building inspection? Why must we go to the State Conservation Commission when we wish to construct or extend our municipal water works system? Why should we not be permitted to regulate out street car service instead of waiting the pleasure of a State Public Service Commission?
"Home Rule" which permits us to borrow money but compels us to ask permission from the state as to how to spend it, is not home rule in the highest sense of the word.

Why cannot cities have home rule?

Some persons regret the passing of the free lecture course.
Unfortunately, men did not take as kindly, in later days to lectures as they do to vaudeville. Nineteenth century business men prefer play in leisure hours rather than instruction.

Rochester surely can supply every brand of weather in the catalogue.

The health officer of the District Columbia says cremation is the only poetic way to dispose of the dead. It is also the pagan way.

Jealousy is a drawback and not the attribute of a truly great man.

Thanks be to Almighty God, our Holy Father has been spared to us a little longer. Pope Pius X has done wonderful work for Holy Mother Church and his work is not yet done.

IN MEMORIAM.

In the death of Frank J. Hughes this assembly of the fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, has suffered a severe and irreparable loss. Throughout the long period of his membership in the assembly, Mr. Hughes gave lavishly of his time and his energy for the welfare of the order.
In the work of building up this organization no task seemed to him too heavy, no duty too exacting. With cheerfulness, zeal and marked efficiency he labored for the best interests of the Knights of Columbus.

But not alone as a society do we mourn his loss. The personal charm of his manner, his kindly thoughtfulness, genial and warm-hearted ways endeared him to each of us personally. His example will live among us as the ideal of Christian knighthood.
To all his associates and comrades, and to his loved and beloved family especially, we send our deepest sympathy and mourn with them in their hour of sorrow.

Patrick H. Murray,
Thomas E. Garvey,
Andrew E. Tuck,
Committee.
