Schools

In a few days the Catholic schools will reopen for the 1913-14 term. The date is earlier than usual so that the scheduled period of yearly instruction laid down by the State Department of Education for schools that desire to graduate can do so under the Regents.

It is really necessary in order that work proceeds intelligently and that the greatest benefit to all should accrue, that all the pupils be in their rooms on the opening day and all begin work together. No argument would seem to be needed in order to demonstrate the value of this, both to pupils and teachers and parents alike, but there are parents who seem to think that no great harm can come from the absence of their Johnnie or Mary on opening day or opening week. Possibly, their child is of superior ability and is able to catch up readily but that he or she may catch up, a score of others are delayed who need the work badly. It often happens, too, that Johnnie or Mary is, by no means as precocious as the parent thinks and really needs all the time in school he can get.

No matter what the excuse, every pupil should be in school on the day it opens. One word more:—There is very little need now for Catholics to send their boys and girls to public high schools. There is the Cathedral High School for boys and girls; Nazareth Academy for girls. And St. Mary's is to have a two years' high school course at least. Just as good and better secular education, high school and grammar courses, can be had in Catholic schools. Besides, they are given religious training, an all-important point these days.

Mass in Mexico

Mr. Stanley E. Bowdye, a non-Catholic correspondent, and publicist, is thus quoted by "Church Progress" of a visit to Mexico where he attended Divine service:—

I attended mass there Easter morning. At least three thousand Mexicans were kneeling in the cathedral,—an impressive sight anywhere, but in this setting of majesty, solemnity, and historic association, a picture of touching eloquence. And they knelt throughout the services; for Mexican churches are without seats.

I stood in the shade of a pillar, to render my Protestantism less conspicuous. There was no rustle of skirts; no vain, studied stride; no looking about to see the milliner's creation worn by neighbors. There were no unctuous ushers to escort thoroughly-belated Pharisees to high seats. It was one tremendous democracy of Mexican sinners—the rich, the poor,—kneeling side by side, each class oblivious to the other's presence, and each showing an intensity or purpose that seemed to say: "Lord, be merciful to me a sinner!" The thousand masses they had attended had brought no callousness. Time had but intensified the august mystery of the mass. To them it was a veritable Mount of Transfiguration, for they seemed to see no one save Jesus.

I left the church with this Pentecostal crowd, over whose faces a happy change had come because of the deposit of their sins with the sleepless saints. The morning chill had gone, and the capital of the Montezumas was again bathed in dazzling sunlight. The power of the cross impelled us as we turned for a last look,—the grandest cathedral of the western hemisphere standing on the ruins of the most terrible temple of paganism.

Convert-Diplomat

One of the distinguished Americans appointed by President Wilson to a high diplomatic post is Frederic Courtlandt Penfield, who will be ambassador to Austria-Hungary, in succession to Colonel Richard Kerns, of Missouri.

Mr. Penfield is one of the noted authors and writers. His writings range from philosophical and diplomatic themes to a high-class fiction. He has been a journalist, traveler, diplomat and art collector. He is a convert to the Catholic faith as is his wife, Mrs. Anne Weightman Walker Penfield, who is a Marchioness of the Papal Court. Mr. Penfield is a Knight of St. Gregory, of the highest rank, receiving this honor from Pope Pius X. He has also received the cross of the French Legion of Honor.

We wish for Ambassador Penfield a splendid record in Vienna.

String to Them

Several times has the Catholic Journal called attention to the bigoted sectarianism displayed by Andrew Carnegie in his "benevolences" to educational institutions. The Scot ironmaster makes it a condition that recipients of his dollars must not act as "purveyors of any sectarian tenet." At first, little attention was paid to this requirement. Evidently, it was taken to apply only to Catholic colleges. Lately, however, non-Catholic Christians are waking up to the real significance of the situation. They find that Mr. Carnegie wants to "de-religionize" education in the higher branches. Those in charge of Protestant educational institutions, wishing a slice of the Carnegie melon, have sought to covertly change their scope and plans so as to comply with the Carnegie conditions. This has provoked angry protests from the heads of denominations founding these colleges.

One Methodist college in the South is the center of an acrimonious discussion on this subject. Some of its faculty and some individual Methodists would have the denominational character of the college eliminated, on the surface, so that it may share in the Carnegie fund. Some of the Methodist bishops take an opposite view and stand out for the refusal of Carnegie dollars. These are met by the argument that if the Carnegie fund is pushed aside, other institutions will take advantage of it and enter into successful competition with the Methodist institution.

Andrew Carnegie's ill-acquired dollars may be a bone of contention for many a day. Any way, Catholic colleges and institutions will not participate unless the ironmonger changes the conditions of his help.

August days have been of that "too-hot-to-work" class.

We hustle and rustle and bustle—but where will we be ten years hence?

Home rule for Ireland does not and will not mean Rome rule for Ireland no matter what the bigots say.

A Sister Recommends It Most Highly. Kewaskum, Wis., August, 1912. Many of the Sisters are using Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic. I tried one bottle for nervousness and sleeplessness, and noticed not alone a marked improvement in my sleep, but felt much better since.

Helen G. McLaughlin, of Overly, N. Dak., says that Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic is certainly an excellent nerve tonic, because she was badly run down from nervousness and sleeplessness, but after taking the Tonic her nerves became stronger and she slept well. Rev. J. M. Riley, of Seymour, Ind., says he took Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic for sleeplessness, of which he suffered since 14 years. Since then he sleeps good and recommends the Tonic to all needing it for that purpose.

A Valuable Book on Nervous Diseases and a Sample Bottle to any address. For more information see the medicine free. Prepared by Rev. FATHER KOENIG, of Fort Wayne, Ind., since 1876, and now by the KOENIG MED. CO., Chicago, Ill., 62 W. Lake Street, near Dearborn. Sold by Druggists at $1 per bottle, 6 for $5. Large Size, $1.75 & Double for $3.
