Weather Coats for Men.

What does a man want of a raincoat? "Foolish question," you say. Yes, and no. It is a question every man has to answer for himself.

For the man who was going to drive a pair of mules along the towpath out in all sorts of weather, we should recommend an oilskin rather than this cravenetted Balmacaan which is a smart top coat as well as a raincoat. The price is $12.50. These coats match up with those selling for a good deal more around town. In four styles of all wool mixtures.

But this is not an out and out raincoat. Fashion calls for them being cut rather short.

In the gabardine style coats, the out and out raincoat of the gentleman, we have a double texture coat seams of which are sewn and cemented, convertible collar, $4.50.

Wool cashmere coat, at $6.50.

Double texture worsted coat, with belted back, $7.

An all wool back to back cashmere coat of very superior value, $10.

Canton coat with silk plaid back, $13.50.

Imported cashmere coats in oxford and tan, $19.50.
