"Claudia" Pilate's Daughter will be given by the Ladies Auxiliary in the church hall, soon after Easter.

Rehearsals are under way for the presentation in the near future of Claudia, Pilate's Daughter. It is a religious play written by Rev. Francis L. Kenzel, C. S. R., of Boston.

The play has scored a wonderful success in Boston and also in Brooklyn, where it is presented every year. It is in five acts, the scenes being laid in Jerusalem and Rome. The plot is built upon an incident in the life of Christ in which the little daughter of Pilate figures. The child throws a rose from the balcony of her father's house, just as the procession leading to Calvary passes by. The rose touches the garment of the Saviour and thenceforth not only never fades, but is endowed with marvelous powers. These miracles performed are shown with wonderful effect.

Much money has been spent in staging the play and by means of scenery and electrical apparatus the troublesome times of the Crucifixion will be reproduced with startling clearness.

Don't leave unless it is absolutely necessary, but if you must leave and are planning to go into business, come over to the Rochester Business Institute, office on the fifth floor of the Y. M. C. Men's Plaited Shirts

There is something about a plaited shirt, with its atmosphere of the aristocrat perhaps, that lends it a style and individuality of its own. It gives you a "dressed up" feeling that would be impossible in that soft front shirt.

This is a short story about men's plaited shirts. Men's plaited percale shirts, neat patterns, beautifully hand laundered, for $1.

A better quality of percale, in several new patterns, plaited of course, for $1.50.

Men's plaited percale shirts in handsome cluster stripe effects, in contrasting colors—tan and blue, blue and pink, and tan and lavender—for $1.65.

A very fine line of men's plaited shirts in printed madras effects, many handsome patterns, for $2.
