Broil With Gas

There is no comparison between a fried steak and one that is broiled. The broiled steak is more juicy, more palatable, and, naturally, more easily digested.

Gas for broiling has all the advantages of other fuels without their disadvantages.

The gas fire is absolutely clean and can be controlled to a nicety—therefore, it is more sanitary and the results more satisfactory.

Use the Broiler in Your Gas Range

If our demonstrators can be of assistance, they are at your service.
