W. G. Sharp, American Ambassador to France.

Although he has been in Paris since last September, William G. Sharp, American ambassador to France, has only recently secured a house in which to reside. The lease to the residence so long occupied by American ambassadors was given up before Mr. Sharp's arrival in Paris.

As representative of Uncle Sam to one of the belligerent nations Ambassador Sharp is called upon to solve many difficult and important problems. Matters of international import are constantly arising that call for the most careful consideration and adjustment.

When Mr Sharp was appointed on June 12 to succeed Myron T. Herrick as ambassador to France, he was ranking member of the house committee on foreign affairs and had a general knowledge of international political affairs.

Like his predecessor, Ambassador Sharp is a native of Ohio. He was born in 1859 and has lived in Elyria since boyhood. He was educated in the common schools and was graduated in law from the University of Michigan in 1881. He practiced law for a time and was made prosecuting attorney for his county. Soon the future ambassador gave up the practice of law and engaged in the manufacture of pig iron and chemicals, in which business he acquired a large fortune. He was elected to membership in three congresses and was a delegate to various Democratic national conventions.

FOR HOMES OF THE BETTER CLASS

Do High-Class Building Restrictions Mean Anything to You?

Despite the fact that Beverly Hills has most elaborate landscape architectural plans, despite the fact that its superb parkings and driveways have been laid out to preserve the natural beauty of the hills and despite the fact that it is located but a few rods from East Avenue, it is absolutely dependent for success on one further feature—namely, the nature of the building restrictions—(building restrictions in Rochester have come to mean a great deal as many people can testify).

Beverly Hills restrictions mean a homeplace where the homes around you must be the same high class as yours.

Where undesirable elements and conditions can never intrude.

In the restriction clause of the buyer's deed are ironclad stipulations regarding cost, style, and design of homes to be erected.

This is both for your protection and the owner's.

The owners of this tract live on it themselves. They have built costly homes. They therefore have a personal pride in the place and its development and have other ideals beside making money.

These facts guarantee that all investors will be afforded all possible facilities and protection.

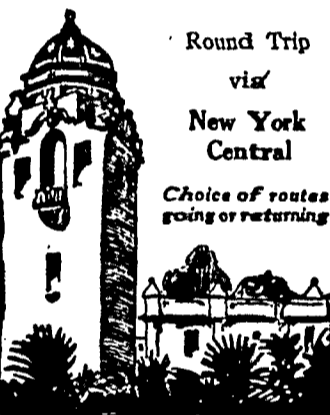

And, furthermore, the tract is large enough to maintain a community atmosphere of its own.
