

Do You Read Labels?

Domestic science teachers and food authorities are urging the housewife to carefully read the labels on all food articles.

The laws of most States compel food manufacturers to print the ingredients of their products on the label, and this enables consumers to distinguish healthful foods from those which may be deleterious.

High-grade baking powders are made of pure cream of tartar, derived from grapes. Royal Baking Powder is a type of the highest grade. It is healthful beyond a doubt and the safest and best to use.

The low-grade baking powders are made from alum, a mineral acid salt, or phosphate of lime.

Consumers can learn the character of the baking powder by referring to the label, which must state whether the contents include cream of tartar, alum or phosphate.

The Scientific Sterling Is a GAS Combination

The manufacturers of the Scientific Sterling have an enviable reputation throughout the country, not only for the quality of their product, but also for anticipating the wants of people in the matter of ranges, hence the Scientific Sterling GAS Combination.

IN THE SCIENTIFIC STERLING, GAS DOMINATES, and gas dominates because it is cheap, clean, available at maximum heat at a second's notice, and is absolutely under control of the user.

In some homes, however, the kitchen cannot be heated from the furnace, therefore heat must be furnished by some other means—hence, again, the Scientific Sterling upon which a certain amount of cooking can be done when the fire is right for it, thereby avoiding waste.

Save a Series of Letters by One Bell Telephone Call

"Doesn't it really seem foolish to call in a stenographer, dictate a letter, send it on its way, and then wait a day or maybe longer for a reply, when one Bell Telephone call will settle the matter at once?" said a business executive recently.

"Yes, and that isn't all. Maybe a whole series of letters is necessary before the matter is cleared up satisfactorily.

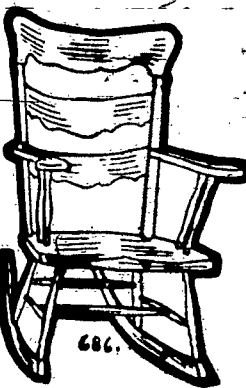

"I tell you I am just coming to appreciate how much one telephone call can accomplish. I use my Bell Telephone more every day."
