

Don't Let Fatigue Get You!

SANTA'S TIRED!

The fine art of discovering their physical limitations is something all women should strive to attain. Half the cases of nervous prostration, of disease of mind or body, arise from the absence of the very bit of knowledge. "Stop just short of being tired," is the advice which all physicians give their patients. This is the one prevention idea that stands before the folly of the pound of cure, and yet not one woman in ten pays any heed to it.

The sensation of fatigue is the indication of your particular limitations. Give up the theater and supper in the evening if you have had a hard day and are feeling tired at night. "I know I ought not to do it, but I just can't resist," is the continual confession of most women.

Any doctor in my city, town or country will tell you that what women need is not medicine, but confidence—confidence that will make them stop short of being tired. "All we can do," the doctors say, "is to patch up what they persist in tearing down. We find it almost hopeless to arouse them to a sense of their duty toward their less-blessed families and themselves in this respect, so we have learned to shrug our shoulders and patch em up."

"Now, fatigue actually means a decrease of vital force. If up to the point of feeling tired you have remained all the vital energy you have been using to keep you in good physical condition it is a foregone conclusion that your limit has been reached when the first signs of fatigue begin to show themselves. That is the time for you to drop everything and rest. Sleep that has relaxed you in it is the best and to insure it.

"Not one woman in a hundred knows how to rest. Despite the fact that chafing clothes and tight shoes are prescribed to coax the sitter into relaxation, the average woman seats herself upon a chair with the grim determination of holding the chair hold her in place. How many agonies of your appearance know even how to let their heads drop fully in their laps? Not them! The strain is felt full along the arms. They are not left there in the laps but actually held there by the gripping power of its master, the will."

"It is not fatigue that really keeps a woman youthful-looking; it is nothing more than the relaxation that she is forced into by the temporarily superior power of the will of the one tiring her. Youth and beauty and charm are not only born of relaxation and composure, but are kept alive by it. No power on earth can keep youth alive when old age in the form of unrest of mind and body is persistently working against it.

"Study relaxation in everything, how to walk without weariness, to sit without restraint and to live without haste. And of course that you have relaxed frantically, have needed no grip at all. Most of the worries you have are creations of pure imagination. You have lived through a day of them and found them turned into jokes. Most things don't matter at all. Most of your losses have been just inconveniences, but you have turned them into tragedies and lasting griefs by the grip you have had upon them."

SONNY'S PLAY UNIFORM.

Loose, Warm and Durable Are These Knitted Suits.

Cap, sweater and leggings to say nothing of two pockets provide this favorite play uniform of the small boy.

ONE IN THREE.

Such outfits come in warm gray, bright browns and navy blue in the shops, but enterprising mothers have invented the knitting microscope make them as fancy work.

SHORT AND SHARP.

Woman is the architect of her own fortune—and his.

Only a woman of tact can smile when she hears a rival praised.

The only thing that's cheap about the European war is talk.

Even if it does not gather moss the rolling stone can often stir up a lot of dust.

In some human relations the man higher up represents the lower order of mortals.

Food speculation never becomes ominous until they begin to speculate where to get it.

Probably the secret of happiness is to convert yesterday's disgust into spiritual sunshine today.

If women know everything by intuition how does it happen they make so many matrimonial blunders?

It is becoming more and more difficult for the villain of a play to identify himself as the villain by smoking a cigarette.

In some churches they pray for the widows and the orphans, but it's a rule more wives are in need of prayers than husbands.

Soldiers killed the man whose act helped to bring about the war which may be taken as an indication of how a good many persons in Europe feel about it.

The Royal Box.

King Constantine of Greece is an enthusiastic pedestrian. He has tramped haphazard through many of the countries in Europe.

Queen Mary of England is a practical housekeeper in every sense of the word. She is acquainted with each detail of the management of her household.

The King of the Belgians is the greatest antifascist in Europe. He abhors both sides. His major hobby after any meal in the morning before breakfast is in the afternoon.

The Grand Duke of Luxembourg.

The youngest sovereign in Europe has no taste for refined entertainments. She is extremely beautiful, very talented, very intelligent and possessed of a strong will. She is the richest heiress in Europe.

Echoes of the War.

When will Europe get weary of "filling up the gaps?" New York Sun.

The news from the belligerent nations is that the fight must go on to the end. But what will be the end? Philadelphia Press.

All that is known of the condition of the "sulfur" of Turkey is that the does not yet feel like being moved to Asia.

Washington Star.

It is estimated that the cost of war for another year will be about $200,000,000 and almost as many heartbreaks.

A drum, dear land o' memories, weep.

I keep in mind where the old folks are.

And I wonder if our own children think in o' Jane an' me.

If they heard some organ sending the song, "We'll Meet Again at Home."

Through the holy Christmas givings, through the holy Christmas givings, if they hear their children shouting an pleasure beside their toys.

Would they think once more of the home stead, where they lived when grown boys.

The young has the world before 'em but the old ones have the world behind 'em.

Press.

Neither side to the terrible contro versy in Europe must be allowed to destroy the laws for the protection of the lives and rights of neutrals on their side nor both together. Chicago News.

Train and Track.

Buffalo is to have a fast train shed for the Lehigh Valley and $37,000 for the American heart, and thus solve the problem of giving Christmas gifts that are different. Imagine how pleased most men would be to receive an electric shaving cup or electric car light instead of neckties, socks and handkerchiefs as usual.

A tankette for grandmothers, a sofa net for mothers, a 5-cent book for sons, or a toy for the college girl, a dress for employees, were cited as instances in stores for gift giving.

Snowshoes are to be given to the men who have served in the army.

Shoes will be given to the men who have served in the navy.

It is hard to find out what the people want.

These are the things that have been suggested for doing something better.

Then it seems to do no harm to see whether it is possible to get to the head of the race or to the power of running a swing train.

The presence of an air rifle pistol, a pocket knife, a pipe, a touch of perfume, something different and something where girls are taught they are of better... the electric fan, sun-warmer, fans rapidly be coming quite the thing for the modern tea-table.

Short Stories.

Taffeta is so called after a street in Bagdad.

Nearly a quarter of Australia has not been visited by civilization.

The value of the total mineral production of Alaska from 1890 to 1914 was $298,151,000.

The average height of the male Japanese adult is six feet three and one-half inches, while that of the woman is six inches less.

There are shells on the seashore of Barbados so small that a hundred of them can be laid on a space covering only an eighth of a square inch.

What Others Eat at Christmas

EVERYONE is familiar with the viands that go to make up the Christmas dinner of the English-speaking races—the turkey, goose, plum pudding and mince pie festivals but how many of us know what they eat at Christmas in foreign countries?

The Frenchman's Christmas bill of fare, for instance, is extensive and varied and in many respects quite different from our own. The great staple national dishes are truffled turkey and black puddings, of which every Frenchman who can afford such luxuries makes a very hearty meal at Yuletide.

In Russia the Christmas meal consists largely of two dishes—one of wheat porridge served with honey and the other a curious compound of stewed peas, apples, oranges, grapes and cherries, sweetened with honey and served cold.

Italians, too, are fond of rather sweet and digestible dishes, especially at Christmas. One of their favorite dishes there is that of eels, periwinkles and vongole, while the inevitable macaroni and spaghetti form of course the principal articles of food at times.

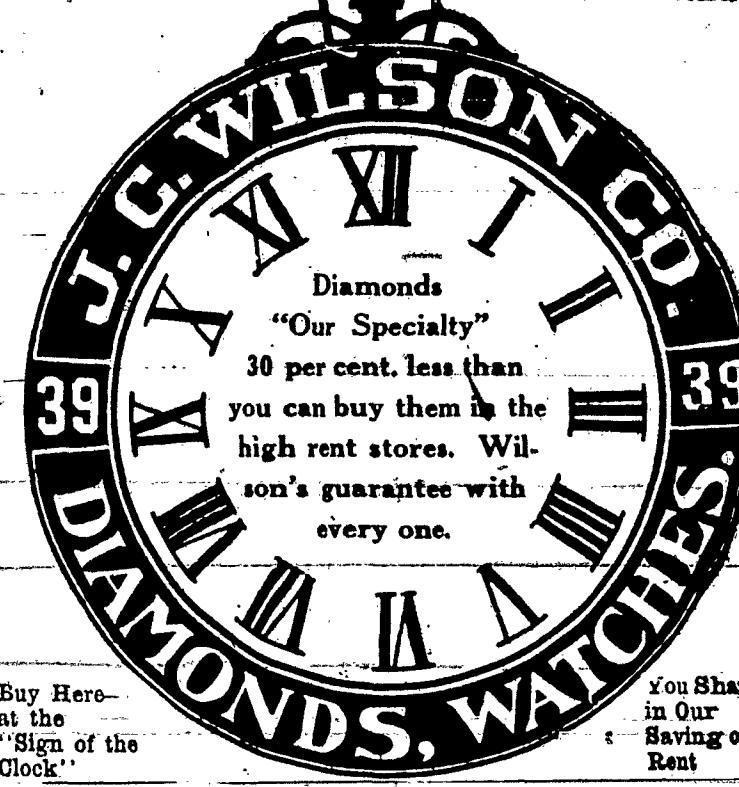

The German Christmas dinner offers as its principal attraction the goose, without which no true German would feel that he had had a real holiday. Germans, like Austrians and Poles, have a very sweet taste as evidenced by their numerous varieties of cake.

Notwithstanding the tendency in all countries to offer huge dinners at Christmas, it would seem that even

Wilson's Motto

High Quality and Low Prices

Everything in Jewelry
Save 30 Per Cent.

Buy Here at the "Sign of the Clock"

Bracelet Watches, a large assortment, and Wilson's prices are less.

Big stock of high grade jewelry of every kind, cut glass, ladies' handbags and hundreds of articles suitable for holiday gifts. Wilson's prices are always less. Sign of the old reliable clock.

39 MAIN STREET EAST

Let Your Bell Telephone Ring Out Your Christmas Greetings to Your Out-of-Town Friends

From year to year the glad custom has steadily grown of sending cards of Holiday greetings to all our friends and relatives near and far.

Has it ever occurred to you how much more personal, happy and cheery the spoken word may be than the written card.

Your Bell Telephone is the starting point from which your voice may travel to extend your greetings to your friends and relatives in nearby places or far-away cities.

This Christmas try the Bell telephone way of wishing everyone a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

It Costs But Little So Let Your Bell Telephone Ring Out Your Happy Christmas Greetings.

New York Telephone Company,
95 N. Fitzhugh Street

Bell Phone, Geneva 316 Home, Stone 813

Blower City Carting Co.

EDW. A. SHENGULLETT, Pres.

LARGE PADDED VANS FOR MOVING

OFFICE

226 Main St. West Rochester, N.Y.

Bings for Birds

424 Main St. East