HELPFUL HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Safety Pin That Holds Baby Bedclothes in Place.

The baby will not kick out of the bedclothes if pinned in with the big safety pin which has been recently invented for this purpose. It is an extremely simple modification of the safety pin which permits of its being thrust easily through the bedcloth, rug and mattress and after being put in place is held there secure against accidental removal by the action of a spring which holds the point in engagement with an arm of the device which passes under the mattress. The device is also suited for bedridden persons who must be protected from exposure.

When stuffed rub turkey with salt and one-third cupful of butter and one-fourth cupful of flour mixed together until creamy. Place on rack in upright pan in hot oven. The high cost of living ceases to command attention when the high cost of destroying life is computed.

There is one don't in this grip business worth all the others—"don't worry" and don't let others worry you, either.

It's all well enough to warn us about getting the grip, but the trouble is that we never know we've got it until it's got us.

Breathe through the nose and keep the mouth shut, says a doctor, giving advice on the subject of health. Lots of people owe a ripe old age to keeping the mouth shut.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Besides being a crack shot with the rifle, Mrs. Elizabeth Moulton of Philadelphia is her own taxidermist. Mrs. Henry Sedgwick, sister of A. J. Balfour of the British ministry, is a scientist of considerable renown. France has one woman judge, Alice Jussell, whose special duty is to try disputes between employers and the employed. Miss Rose Murray, who cares for the health of the books in the New York Public Library, is a bibliographical sanitary engineer. Miss Rose MacDonald, librarian of the bureau of fisheries in Washington, is the only woman in the federal service who has passed a civil service examination as a fish culturist. Signora Eleonora Duse, the great Italian actress, had in her young days a life of struggle and hardship. With her parents she wandered about the country, appearing in humble theaters with a small troupe of performers, who often earned barely enough money to provide themselves with food.

The Wise Ones.
 "He is a perfect disciplinarian."
 "Yep; never gives an order unless he is dead sure it will be obeyed."—Judge.

The Royal Box.

The present heir apparent to the throne of England is the thirteenth prince to bear the title "Prince of Wales." K. Isar Joseph of Hungary, son of Marie Theresa, was called the "hated king," because he refused to be crowned. A small miniature of her father, as in gems, is the only piece of jewelry the Princess Mary of England wears, with the exception of a pearl necklace to which the miniature is attached. The king of Greece, the king of England and the emperor of Russia are first cousins. King George I. of Greece, Queen Alexandra of England and the Empress Marie of Russia were all the children of King Christian IX. of Denmark.

SHORT AND SHARP.

He who starts out to meet trouble has a short journey.

Genius and common sense blended usually spell success.

Sometimes not being able to do what he wants to do is the best luck a man could have.
