MRS. OGDEN MILLS REID.

No one problem is daily more vexatious than "What shall we have to eat?"

Is it not possible and easy also to vary more greatly our American menus?

Is it not possible to take the piece of chuck, and cook it in some other way than as the unending pot roast?

No one thing will make for greater economy in our cooking than greater variety.

A WATTEAU MODEL.

A Pretty Spring Bonnet Reminiscent of "of Other Days."

FOR JUVENILES.

Massed in the back. The effect is charming for youth and a graceful variation from the banked, high design.

Millinery Jottings. Buttons have entered the realm of millinery and are used on sports hats.

Hats, too, in either pearl, brass or nickel add an ornamental touch to many a hat for spring.

Ostrich novelties effectively change an ordinary hat into one of unusual effectiveness.

Many straw ornaments are used on the Paris creations, and most of them are formed of the modish shiny straw.

Appiques of fruit are most popular, and all the small berries are to be had as well as the larger fruits.

Mint Sauce. Pick all the leaves from a large mint stalk and mince as fine as possible.

Shrimp Salad. Chop shrimp with celery; if large, add a little onion.

(Wear as Possible)

A black and white checked worsted is banded, collared and cuffed with heavy black satin for this suit.

ON MOVING.

Few people move right, and it is a good plan to know how to pack things for moving.

Red Tiles and Marble.

To make red tiles a nice bright, clear color the following is very good: Rub small boxes are more practical than the huge packing cases sometimes used.

Cream Cheese on Toast.

One tablespoonful of flour, one tablespoonful of butter, one-fourth cupful of cream, one-eighth tablespoonful of salt, three-fourths cupful of scalded milk, sprinkling of cayenne, one cupful of chopped cheese, one egg.

Cranberry and Raisin Pie.

Make a rich pie crust and fill a deep tin. On bottom of crust put one cupful of plump raisins; then pour over them one cupful of sweetened cooked cranberries.

Creamed Fish.

Separate cooked fish into flakes. Rub one teaspoonful of butter smooth with one teaspoonful of flour.

Cheese Straws.

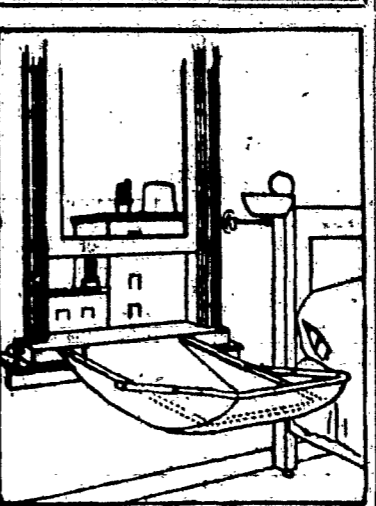

Grate two ounces of cheese, mix with two ounces of butter, two ounces of flour, two ounces of bread-crumbs, season with cayenne and salt to taste.

To Clean White Flannel.

To remove stains from white flannel suits and similar things try rubbing them with a mixture composed of equal parts of yolk of egg and glycerin.

Polish For Glassware.

A brilliant polish for glassware can be secured by adding a little turpentine to the washing water.

This window trough, which has been recently patented, is designed for the open air sleeper who does not want to be put to the inconvenience of getting out of bed to close the windows.

In fact, the progress of the storm may be regarded with complete indifference so far as the likelihood of its doing any damage in the interior.

Cleaning Ostrich Feathers.

You may always clean white ostrich feathers in the following manner: Make a good tatter of lukewarm water and pure soap.

Photo by American Press Association.

Not for many years have the children of New York enjoyed such a winter as the weather man has provided this year.

The Chickens' Surprise Party.

In southern California the dry season lasts from six to eight months, so there were some good sized chicks in our yard that had never seen rain.

The River Jordan.

Among famous rivers must always be included the Jordan, nearly as sacred to Christians as the Ganges is to the Hindus.

Natural Snow Bridges.

A slow thaw following a heavy fall of snow is almost sure to form here and there, miniature natural bridges of snow.

Under the Bridge.

Under the bridge the train goes by. With whistle and shriek and puff, and I mean to go right off in a train.

I shall go to a land where bananas grow.

And oranges, too, on trees.

Why, I'll come back to you.
