Frances Evelyn, Countess of Warwick, Writes For Papers.

IS AN ETIQUETTE EXPERT

One of England's Most Popular Hostesses Will Give a Series of Articles on the Charm and Dignity of Good Manners In Social Life.

It is announced that Frances Evelyn countess of Warwick, will write a series of articles on etiquette for newspapers. In her introduction the countess states:

"If parents were more with their children familiarity with all the details of etiquette would be inherited rather than acquired. While mothers are content to leave their little ones to other boys will tend to become tough and self conscious and girls will regard instructions as a lesson and resent it accordingly. I have made it a rule to have my children round me on every possible occasion.

"The tendency toward carelessness must be repressed by all of us and etiquette has done much to add to the charm and dignity of life. We need more study of demeanor than do the French, Italians and Spaniards, for the Latin races have a natural grace that is only seldom found among us. The Italian peasant of the Maremma, the Spanish shepherd of the Asturias, will astonish you by his perfect courtesy, his instinctive knowledge of the right word, the appropriate action.

"We are rougher and more rude until we have been polished on the grindstone of polite custom or until we have traveled and lost our insularity.

"After all, our behavior is the reflection of our personality and while, if that personality be gracious, knowledge of etiquette will set it off to complete advantage, an aggressive personality cannot be made tolerable by any amount of perfectly correct action.

"Yet knowledge is power. I think it was Francis Bacon who said that the man who goes to a foreign country without a knowledge of its language goes to school and not to travel, and in the same way the men or women who seek the pleasures of social life without knowing either how to entertain or to be entertained miss the fundamental pleasures of intercourse."

Filipino Embroidery.

Long have we praised and bought the hand made French lingerie, and long have the women of fashion depended on French hand work. It is only recently that the Madeira eyelet and solid embroidery have made inroads on the very secure position which the French work so long monopolized. Now all this is to be changed for the Filipino work is as wonderful in execution as either of the other two ever pretended to be. Besides that it is finer and the prices lower. The fabric is cheaper, whether it comes from China or Filipinos do the embroidering, but best of all there is no duty on hand garments. The only trouble is that there will be a demand for the Filipino embroidery.

Spring Lounging Robes.

The new lounging robes are very pretty and made of fine fabrics. Fancy cords, cottons are much used for these garments. Cotton crepes with heavy cotton embroidery are largely used, especially in blue lavender rose or tan with the embroidery in white. Instead of embroidery, they may be trimmed with ribbon or lace. The voluminous effects in dresses are also used in negligees. Sheer and light weight fabrics are most favored.

Cottage Pudding.

THE EASTER SUIT.

Expert Advice About Your Costume For April 23.

Gaberdines, serges, poplins, broadcloths, whipcords, golfines and bedford cords are prominent. Then there are the novelty materials in checks and stripes that will be very modish. The season's favored colors are navy, prague blue, tan, gray, reseda, black and white. The white tailored suit will be very smart for early spring wear.

In development youthfulness is the keynote. Skirts will continue short and will be ample in width. Many of the new models measure five yards at the bottom. The horizontal trimmings, such as folds, tucks, bands and ruchings, which are popular, emphasize the fulness. Many of the new skirts are shirred to the belt, others are gathered to a yoke and then again the skirt may fit snugly over the hips and ripple below. Both the gored and circular skirt are fashionable. Panels are seen on the newest importations. A recent Paris model shows plaited panels at the sides, the front and back being plain. Side trimmings are strongly favored by fashionable dressmakers. This may be in the form of plain panels of contrasting fabrics, horizontal [illegible] braided pieces and they extend the full length of the skirt.

[illegible] diversity. The suit coat is a trifle like the old fashioned pea jacket. It extends just below the waist line or it may be a close fitting jacket with a ripple effect below the waist line extending well over the hips. Some of the jaunty box effect, and others are [illegible] with the full [illegible] attached to a belt. All are [illegible] mannish. Collars are low and [illegible] at the throat and there is a [illegible] to one or more capes falling from under the collar.

The New Fichu

[illegible] The fichu has become [illegible] that may be bought by the yard. The fichu is edged with pleated ruffles of its own material or with tiny pointes of lace. Some of the fichus show embroidered designs. Then there is another style where the fichu has one side fluted and the other finished with a picot edge.

No matter which way is preferred fichus are all ready to be cut the desired length and draped on the shoulders. They go a long way toward freshening up a frock which is not absolutely new, but which is too good to be cast aside thus early in the season.

Surpliced Bodice.

The old time surplice bodice promises to be much in evidence as the season advances. It has been modified to meet the demands of the present, but is full of quaint grace and charm. Sometimes the fronts are extended about the waist to form a girdle, which ties in a bow with long sash ends at the back. The sleeves of these bodices are usually long and close fitting, with flared cuffs that half cover the hands.

BUNNY RABBIT'S WORKSHOP.

[illegible] was a great deal to be done in the Bunny Rabbit's workshop.

Just then a [illegible] little rabbit with [illegible] ears came in carrying a basket of eggs dyed beautiful bright colors. "Everything is going along fine," he said briskly. "My eggs are really gorgeous this year, speckled and spotted and brilliant as well. How goes it with you old pals? Is the chocolate right? Really, chocolate eggs are so good for these days [illegible] but [illegible] to please all the little ones."

"Oh, right enough, right enough," answered the Bunny Rabbit wearily as he dipped the creamy contents into the [illegible] chocolate and laid them out to dry. "I can't complain of the work, but I do complain of the [illegible]."

"What's wrong with the grass?" replied the inquisitive rabbit as he dotted decorative eggs with [illegible] sugar.

"Oh, there's nothing at all except that a [illegible] can't have to be seen."

"Now, now, Bunny Rabbit don't you borrow trouble," said his little friend as he dipped [illegible] sugar. "The [illegible] you have a little faith in it. The Wisdom of Treating a Child as if He Had Feelings.

Don't [illegible] wonder it necessary to say [illegible] to your child. Your adult friends will know you do not mean it, but the child will not and probably more character is weakened by the lack of self control engendered by such a process than by the early which follows the self indulgence [illegible].

Don't think that the moment you are done with your boy or girl you must find fault or endeavor to improve the occasion by [illegible] no matter how [illegible] This is the [illegible] to [illegible] Love is [illegible] to begin [illegible] forget [illegible] [illegible] to be [illegible] at times [illegible].

Don't [illegible] the child before others. Never speak of a well meaning relative does [illegible]. My dear, I am surprised that you do not show more force of character your children are [illegible] from [illegible] discipline. Pass no matter over until you and the small offender can have it out alone. If the circumstances are such that it cannot be passed over take him out of the room.

Lastly, laugh often with, but never at your child. This takes self denial but it pays. Make up your mind that whatever others may say he can depend upon you for a quiet, sure understanding without quibble or joke at his expense.
