Davey Robertson, the great outfielder of the New York Giants, is considered by many experts to be one of the greatest outer gardeners the game has known. He is classed with Ty Cobb of the Detroit.

They are telling a good one on Davey Robertson of the Brooklyn Forest Park Club. Lord says the Brooklyn Eagle.

He did not seem able to make his friend understand that he must replace droops. In fact, Lord was putting back and stamping down torn turf as if he was sodding down the fairway.

At last the friend, after a particularly ferocious dig at the ball with the mallet, came up to Lord with a bit of turf as big as his hat.

Among National League ball players it is common talk that next season will see former Manager Fred Clarke back at the helm in Pittsburgh, as part owner of the club.

The story is told of two golfers who were playing in the finals of a match over a links at Fort Wayne. The first man's drive to the home hole was so short and he hit a long ball on the approach.

The New York Giants' western trip was the most successful jaunt ever undertaken by a National League team.

The door opened, and a group of children burst into the room, followed by their parents.

But the old man did not wake up. One of his sons, a man of fifty, approached and quietly shook him. Touching the veteran's hand, he found it cold. Quickly passing his own hand over the wrinkled brow, he dropped it on the heart.

LAST DINNER OF THE OLD GUARD How the Annual Feast of Comrades Came to an End.

An old man sat at a table on which had been placed a smoking dinner and plates for eighteen persons. No seat was occupied except that of the old man himself, and as the clock on the mantel ticked away the minutes no one else appeared.

All were either young or comparatively young, and it was some years before a single place was vacant. Then a chill passed over every man as he entered the room and saw the empty chair, the plate, the uncorked bottle, of their late comrade.

Several years passed. The seventeen men were beginning to become somewhat accustomed to the one vacant chair when the clock of their lives struck 2. They missed one of the youngest, merriest of their number.

Their clock struck 10, 11, 12, and two thirds of the original number had passed away. Six men whose beards were gray sat together and drank to twelve who had gone.

By this time all who were destined to reach the ordinary limit, three score years and ten, had dropped out. Of those who were to become octogenarians or centenarians, but two remained.

A simple means of testing the durability of paving brick has been devised and its efficiency demonstrated in a number of cities.

Many lightly built cars will ride more easily if the body springs are taken apart and sent to a polishing shop to be polished.

Surfaces may be coated readily with bronze powder by applying a thin coat of shellac and quickly dusting the powder over it.

In 1916 the zinc properties in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., were actively developed, and a 200-ton mill was in successful operation during the latter part of the year.

Real frying is done in deep fat - not deep enough to cover the food in question. The fat should be very hot. It then immediately cooks the outside of the food and does not penetrate to the inside at all.

SCIENCE - INDUSTRY. New Fabric of Great Strength.

One of the most trying tasks incident to trench fighting has been considerably lightened by the appearance in the British trenches of gloves made of a fabric which is said to be impervious to barbed wire points.

Feldspar is used in large quantities in both the body and the glaze of pottery and tile and in the manufacture of enameled ware.

The simple hydroplane shown in the illustration was the means of carrying a line across a swollen stream after bridges and telephone wires had been torn away in an Arizona valley.

It was years before there was an other vacancy; then two empty plates dropped into the line like figured disks recording the revolutions of an engine shaft.
