FOR POTPOURRI.

How to Make a Rose Jar to Last All Next Winter.

Rose potpourri is undoubtedly the favorite though it is not by any means the sweetest or only kind. To make it is simple. Collect together as many rose petals as possible, those of old-fashioned roses for preference, and be sure they are free from blight or disease.

The Thrill of Being Wet.

There is something medicinal and fundamental about having water splashed down upon one and getting completely drenched.

ABOUT SWEATERS.

The Popular and Picturesque Sport Garment Up to Date.

Many women like the two-tone or fiber silk sweaters. They are less glaring when in high colors and they seem to blend more colorfully into the tone of the skirt.

Besides the plaided trimmings, there are recent accessories to the sweaters which have the hem border, the color and the cuffs done in busy design and coloring.

Sweaters of pure silk are practically worth their weight in gold—or at least in silver. For those who cannot afford the possession of such there are sweaters of silk fiber that wear very well and which may or may not stand the intense rays of the summer sun.

JUST THINGS.

Remember These Notes and Housework Will Become More Intelligent.

The secret of a good stew is to broil the meat first. One egg well beaten is worth two not well beaten. When a pudding is boiled in a bath of cloves, powdered cinnamon, powdered nutmeg and allspice, mix together in a jar and keep closely covered stirring every day for a month.

The following potpourri, one of the most delightful possible, is easier still to make since all kinds of scented flowers can be used in it.

White For Summer. Almost every summer white proves its worth as the most popular summer color.

WHAT HAPPENED IN A GROVE.

Amusing Adventures of a Pair of Intelligent Collie Dogs—Many Things of Interest and Information For Little People—Strange Story of a Walk.

DOGS AND SQUIRRELS.

Laddie and Brownie are adventurous collie dogs. They live in the Kansas city of Kansas City, and their play yard is a grove of trees. Every morning they fare forth to this miniature forest, and were betide the squirrel that loitered too long upon the ground.

One day the dogs frightened a squirrel that had just found a nut. With the nut in his mouth Chatterer rushed up a tree and clung to one of the lower branches.

It landed right on top of Laddie's head. In the display of temper that followed Laddie seized the nut between his teeth, crunched his jaws down and cracked it.

A Fern That Walks.

The walking fern is a native of the United States. It is found in certain localities of the eastern states and westward to Kansas, usually growing on moss covered rocks, or near the bases of cliffs.
