NO ARCTIC WARRIORS.

As Hunters the Natives are Wonders, but Cannot Make Soldiers

Battle history tells of the Arctic, of the hunt for the white bear. Beyond that human life is so difficult to sustain that its willful waste is unthinkable. Nations with a foot hold in the high north resort to armies in that frigid zone. Indeed, the men are of such muscular stature and intellect that a military training is next to impossible.

The real natives of the Arctic are the Eskimos and the Inuit, who endure hunger and fatigue, can march in their own fashion through blizzards and blizzards, but their value is rather to the explorer of the inhospitable north than to the soldier. As hunters they are wonderfully clever, yet they are curiously formal in administering the cup de grace.

They will apologize to the fierce white bear which they have cornered before advancing to a close attack with bone tipped arrows and spears, a duel in which the odds seem decisively on the bear's side.

The Lapps and Samoyeds of Arctic Russia, like the Eskimos of North America and Greenland, are so often compelled in times of dearth and famine to sacrifice their aged weaklings that this form of death has become a vague religious and social principle with them.

Nature's Rifle Bullets. What man has learned by dint of thought and experiment some of the lower animals appear to know through instinct. An instance is furnished by what is called the "spiral swimming."

of the Eskimos, such as the "spiral swimming." As these people are able to travel in a straight line, they are not otherwise...
Creation of a Knight. The ceremonies at the creation of a knight have been various. The prince had a box on the ear and a stroke with a sword on the shoulder. John of Salisbury tells us the blow with the naked fist was one among the ancient customs. By this it was that William the Conqueror conferred the honor of knighthood on his son Henry. It was afterward changed into a blow with the flat of the sword on the shoulder of the knight.

St. Michael's

The requiem masses for this week were for Joseph May, Frank Schmuck, Paul Badum, John and Anna Windhauser, Isador Hohman and Alexander Dittmar.

During the month of October there will be devotions held consisting of the Rosary and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at 7:45 o'clock.

On Wednesday morning at 7:45 o'clock a high mass was celebrated in honor of St. Francis, it being the names day of our assistant pastor, Rev. Francis Hoefen. On Thursday morning a high mass was celebrated in honor of St. Adolph, it being the names day of our assistant pastor, Rev. Adolph Edelman.

The marriage of Miss Ella O'Donnell of 106 Clinton Ave. South and Joseph Long of 52 Lowell St., took place Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock by Rev. Francis Hoefen. A wedding breakfast was served at the O'Donnell home. Mr. and Mrs. Long left for a trip to include New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic City and will be at home after Oct. 20th, at 52 Lowell St.

The funeral of Albert Buchler took place Thursday morning at nine o'clock. He leaves his mother, Mrs. Magdalen Buchler, four sisters, Mrs. F. P. Schindler, Mrs. B. Metzger and the Misses Mary and Florence Buchler. He was a member of St. Anthony's Society and the C. Y. M. C. of this parish.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Warlock of Laforce St. are rejoicing over the advent of a daughter. It is safe to say that the Rochester public has never before been offered a treat equal to the one St. Michael's Dramatic Club is prepared to offer in the production of "The Congressman" on the 8th and 9th of October at the parish hall.

The play is a recent product of W. C. Parker, well known dramatist, and abounds in tense situations as well as wholesome comedy. The plot itself may not be novel, but there is novelty in the treatment. It's an old story, a brilliant young congressman, in quest of wealth, is lured into questionable though profitable deals with the agent of a powerful corporation. Ambitious and unsuspecting, he is blind to the wiles of the cunning lobbyist, who rudely forces his unwelcome attentions on the congressman's wife. Inflamed by the repulse to his insult and filled with pique, the unethical agent reveals to the woman his deals with her husband. But, the complications that follow and the final developments are too stirring to be exposed here. To say the least, the play is exciting and interesting, and well worth attending.

No less attractive a feature of the production will undoubtedly be the acting. Judging from the calibre of the work that the entertainment in rehearsal, the person public offers more whole some and satisfying pleasure. For those who know the quality of the average amateur playing, for unveils life, customs and activities in a way that will satisfy the most discriminating critic.

Travel, more and more, is becoming an essential part of an education. It is no longer a luxury, but a necessity. No doubt this fact explains the great vogue and success of Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival which comes to the Armory on Oct. 9th and 10th. Over three million people who travel annually with Lyman H. Howe know from experience that no other entertainment before the American public offers more whole some and satisfying pleasure. For the student and thinker it always unveils life, customs and activities in other lands; for the professional business man or woman it is an enjoyable relaxation, while for the whole family it is a most welcome diversion from daily cares or the demands of society. The benefit that may be derived from it is incalculable. Mr. Howe's current program includes far-off Hawaii, snow-bound Norway, mediaeval and modern Spain, the United States Military Academy at West Point and diversified activities by the splendidly trained cadets, odd dissolving portraits of famous men, various specimens of birds and fish in their natural colors, the amusing pranks of a tiny baby, new animated cartoons, and many others.

St. Francis Xavier

The Children of Mary and the members of the Third Order of St. Francis met on Sunday afternoon.
