On last Tuesday evening, the St. Boniface Young Men's club gave a Pedro and Five Hundred party together with a vaudeville entertainment at the Parish Hall. This social gathering and card party was an instantaneous success and is one of the many successive celebrations of this nature that has added to the good reputation this organization has established. After the card games an enjoyable program was listed, and one that was surely guaranteed under the Pure Fun Laws. Comedy, wit and humor was the means of keeping the audience in a continuous uproar by some of the city's most clever entertainers. Comedy skits, monologues and class songs were all of a high class order, all due through the untiring efforts of the committee in charge who arranged a program "a la grand".

The activities of the Young Ladies' Sodality of this parish during the autumn season of each year culminate with the "Hallowe'en Party", an event peculiar in its custom and one which attracts keen interest among the members of this Society. On last Thursday evening, the Parish Hall was turned over to the Young Ladies' of this Sodality and according to the flaming and glaring notices given in advance the event was one worthy of the most painstaking attention of the guests in advance. Several mysterious attractions, the nature of which was not disclosed by the committee until the night of the festivity, proved to be a marvelous display of ghosts and witches in haunting garbs and ways having a set of nerve racking propositions in store for the inquisitive guest. Added to all these thrilling attractions was a number of new and novel games for which good prizes were awarded. A good line of eats was in readiness for the members after the witch performances were ended, and in all the evening of festivity was a glorious social success.
