

HOW TO REMOVE STAINS FROM CLOTHES

Turpentine is used to remove paint stains. Apply the turpentine with a piece of rag, and if the stain is obstinate use a little ammonia as well. Paraffin is also used for the removal of paint stains. Dip the stain into the paraffin, rub between the fingers and then wash thoroughly with soap and water.

USE FOR SPOILED FILMS

Have you ever made a stencil? It is a simple feat if a few rules are kept in mind. In choosing a stencil design for decorating curtains, furniture or draperies of any sort, posters for church entertainments, business signs, etc., select a design that is simple, something that will look well because of its effective outline and with few details.

How to Wax a Floor That Has Been Already Stained

Waxing floors that have already been stained or finished is very simple. The materials needed are a quantity of cotton waste, turpentine for cleansing the floor, a heavy weighted brush for polishing and this should be used on the floor before the wax is applied as well as after it—and a can of wax in either solid or liquid form.

How to Soothe Tired, Aching Feet After Hard Work

After a hard day's work or shopping one's feet often burn, swell and otherwise distress one. The following remedy is offered by a trained nurse. Add a heaping tablespoonful of baking soda to a pint of common bran, put in a basin and dampen with sufficient warm water to make a thin paste.

How to Clean Tapestries Without Injury to the Fabric

Pour boiling water over a handful of bran. Let it stand until tepid and then plunge the tapestries into it. Use no soap and do not rub, but just shake the goods up and down in the liquid. Wring them out, rinse well in tepid water and hang out in the wind. When dry shake well to remove the bran.

How to Clean the Oven Without Much Drudgery

If the inside of the oven grows rusty looking pour a little oil on a cloth and thoroughly wipe out the oven walls and racks while the oven is yet warm. This will not affect the flavor of things cooked in the oven.

ST MARY'S

The formal opening of the new Club House, of the Young Men's Association, will be held on Sunday, Jan. 21st. An invitation is extended to all friends of the Club to attend and inspect the handsome new rooms. The building which is situated at 7 South St., is part of the old convent property, which has been entirely separated from the other buildings and has been thoroughly remodeled and re-decorated.

The lower floor of the building has been converted into a large variety shower at the Parish meeting room where the different societies of the Church will hold their meetings. The second and third floors will be the Club Rooms of the Young Men's Association. On the first floor are the Lounging Rooms, Library, Committee and Directors room.

The entire membership of the Club will serve on the Reception Committee for the inspection Sunday, which will start immediately after the services in the Church and will continue all day so that everyone who wishes may be present. The present officers of the Club are: Spiritual Director, Rev. Joseph Guilfoil; Pres., James H. Farrell; 1st Vice Pres., Norman J. Dixon; 2nd Vice Pres., Leo W. Leflett; 3rd Vice Pres., John A. Kavanaugh; 4th Vice Pres., Joseph J. Boland; Secretary, John C. Sullivan and Treasurer, Thos. F. Vogt.

At a special meeting of the Young Men's Association held in their new club rooms, No. 7 South St., last Tuesday evening, arrangements were made for the formal opening of their new club house. The meeting also marked the beginning of a membership campaign, the aim of which is to double its present membership, making it 300. Two teams will compete for the next week in an effort to obtain members. The Blues selected Thomas F. Vogt for their leader and the Grays will be led by John C. Sullivan. Rev. Simon Fitzsimons was elected to honorary membership at the meeting and a resolution was passed acknowledging his efforts in behalf of the Club.

BLACK FRIDAYS

First of These Financial Traverses Came in London in 1745

Several of the great financial panics of the past have commenced on a Friday, and this has given rise to one of the pet superstitions of the stock exchanges and bourses of the world—that the sixth day of the week is fraught with ill omen for those engaged in financial operations.

The original "Black Friday" occurred Dec. 8, 1745 in London. On that date the Bank of England had its closest call in its long history. The citizens were anxious to take their money with them and the Bank of England was besieged by an army of depositors. The Bank escaped bankruptcy only by the expedient of paying "dummys" in the line to impede genuine depositors and by paying bona fide depositors in small coins thus consuming much time.

The first "Black Friday" of latter day financial history was in 1868 and was due to the failure of one of London's largest banking houses. Three years later Wall street had a "Black Friday" due to an attempt to engineer a corner in gold. The worst of all "Black Fridays" was that of 1873, when on Friday, Sept. 18, it seemed that the whole financial structure of the new world had crumbled into ruins.—Exchange.

A FAMILY ORCHESTRA

Has Your Home One, and if It Has, Does This Just Fit It?

When two people conduct an orchestra there is plot material. If the two are knit by marriage ties the plot thickens. Endroit and I conduct a family orchestra, he at the piano, I playing second violin. I know more about music than does Endroit; he is more musical than I. I keep the time; he has the temperament. Temperament is more subtle than time, but time, I shall always insist, has its place, perhaps nowhere more appropriately than in an orchestra. He at the piano can dominate the situation more neatly than I in my position among the strings, however, I can more readily organize a strike.

The rest of the pieces are presided over by our children, young people of inflexible spirit and chromatic moods. Sometimes we doubt whether we have our troops under the rigid control which as parents we must expect to command. The conductivity of an orchestra, says our son Geoffrey, varies with the distance of the blood relationship between artists and conductor. When the children were little we held the pleasant theory that a family orchestra would draw us all close together, standing always as a symbol of our perfect harmony; that would be all right if the harmony would only go to suit us all equally at the same time. As it is our little band, in which observers find so touching a picture of heartside unity, suggests sometimes all the elements of guerrilla warfare.—Atlantic Monthly.

Walk and Be Healthful

Get out-of-doors and WALK. Raise your chin high, breathe deep, more lively, don't just stroll—WALK. This may strike some ladies as out of place as advice to them, but it is for both women and men. Indoor walking will not bring the health and exhilaration of a brisk, out-of-door walk. Even those who are on their feet all day, need to use this prescription. Take care that you treat your feet fairly. We will gladly advise you in regard to the proper, most comfortable and economical shoes. For ladies who walk we highly recommend the four shoes described below. Do not judge them as "cheap" shoes because of the price. They are very high grade—fully guaranteed. Wholesale prices are to-day about equal with our retail prices. Get a pair while you can. We have most all sizes on A, B and C widths left.

These are 8-inch height, lace, Walking Boots, 1 1/4 inch heel. Stylish but comfortable. Dull Black Calfskin, $5.50 Dark Tan Calfskin, $6.50 Dull Black Calfskin, $5.50 Tan Russia Calfskin, $6.00

The Shoes above are our highest quality in materials and workmanship. Goodyear Walled Soles. We have other grades at lower prices, but for those who want the best we recommend the above. HIS CHEERFUL RECEPTION.

The Compliment Came After He Made His Little Talk. A Washington newspaper man was once a member of congress from an Ohio district. He is not an orator and rarely makes a speech. When he was running for congress he got word that he must come to a small town on the edge of his district to attend a meeting. A famous "spell-binder" had been secured, and the candidate was expected to be there, to shake hands and show himself.

When he arrived at the village he was horror-stricken to find that the speaker of the occasion had missed his train and would not be there. "Come right up to the hall," said the chairman of the delegation that met him. "There's a big crowd there, and they are anxious to hear some talking." The candidate went in fear and trembling. He was introduced and talked for fifteen minutes. He started to sit down, but the chairman motioned him to continue. He went on for another quarter of an hour and by that time had told all he knew or ever expected to know that was of interest to his audience.

Then he dropped into his chair. The man who was presiding came cheerfully forward and said: "We have heard your candidate. Now, if there is any one present who can make a speech we shall be glad to hear him."—Youth's Companion. A Statue That Never Was Built. Mount Athos, in Turkey, was the spot contemplated by a sculptor for the most imposing monument that man had ever had. The sculptor, Diocretes, offered to cut the huge mountain mass into the form of a statue of Alexander which should hold a city in the left hand and in the right a basin to receive all the waters that flowed from the mountain. Alexander was much taken by the plan, but rejected it for the practical reason that there was not food enough in the district to feed the inhabitants of the proposed statue. So the final cut by Naxes to enable the ships to escape sailing round the mountain remained the greatest enterprise ever achieved there. He who aims only at the lowest is sure never to attain to the highest, but is not unlikely to miss even the lowest.—Brownson.
