A RUNAWAY HORSE.

Use Your Hat and Your Head. It is Said, and You Can Stop Him.
The observer of people and events wonders how many people have the slightest notion as to how to stop a runaway horse.

There are many stories of the journalistic genius of the blind Joseph Pulitzer. One cropped up the other day.

COWARDS IN DAYLIGHT.

But the Great Eagle Owls Are Fierce Fighters by Night.

There are about 200 kinds of owls. Some are tiny owls, some are big eagle owls, twenty-eight inches in length, very fierce and strong, ready to attack a man who goes near, able to kill fawns and large game birds and to do battle with the golden eagle.

Chinese Locksmiths.

The earliest locks known to man were of Chinese make. Although it is impossible to tell the exact date of those still extant, they are wonderfully well made and as strong as any manufactured in Europe up to the middle of the eighteenth century.

Indian Relics.

A copper hammer stone or ceremonial weapon of ancient Indian days, which was unearthed in Fond du Lac during the digging of a sewer, is shaped like an ancient battle-axe and has two blades and a hole for a handle.

Breaking on the Wheel.

In medieval days 'breaking on the wheel,' a most barbarous mode of inflicting capital punishment was often used in France and Germany. It consisted of stretching the victim upon a wheel or upon a wooden frame in the shape of St. Andrew's cross and then breaking his limbs by blows from iron bars.

Before and After.

'Ah, love, I would like to listen to you all night,' said Clarence as he rose to go.
Six months after they were married he chanced to stay out fifteen minutes after his hour, and he had his desire gratified.—Exchange

Paper Windows.

In the early days of the American colonies greased paper was used in the windows in the absence of glass, and candles were in use up to 1760, when lamps of whale oil were first used.

Total Cost.

'So you bought that car from Baxter. What did it cost you?'
'A thousand and all the respect I had for Baxter as a truth teller.'—Boston Transcript

The Strange Part.

'Hardup—You see this half dollar?'
'Yes. Why? Is there anything extraordinary about it?'
'Hardup—Rather! It's mine!

'Just Livin' Along.'

Frank L. Stanton of the Atlanta Constitution is one of the best known newspaper men in America. Likewise he is one of America's sweetest poets. One of his dainty lyrics is entitled 'Just Livin' Along.' It is a song of optimism. It embodies a philosophy which might be adopted with profit by all men and women.

Life, Joyous, Jubilant, Vital and Thrilling.

Life, joyous, jubilant, vital and thrilling, is all about us. Birds, beasts, plants and flowers live and love and pass to the great change.

Good Journalism.

There are many stories of the journalistic genius of the blind Joseph Pulitzer. One cropped up the other day.

School Strikes in Japan.

School strikes seem peculiar to Japan, and invariably one is under way. Such a strike is a calamity dreaded by head master and undermaster alike.

Heavy Money.

How to keep your money safe from thieves is a problem that was solved by the inhabitants of Uap, in the Caroline Islands, when they devised a currency too heavy for burglars to carry away.

Mangrove Forests in the Bahamas.

Mangrove trees are to me the most fascinating of all the vegetable growths of our strange planet. When young (we must first come upon them at the opening of the creek) there is something tender and idyllic about them.

Sad Proof.

'Yes,' said the young wife proudly 'father always gives something expensive when he makes presents.'
'So I discovered when he gave you away,' rejoined the young husband.

In an Emergency.

Triplets—What did your chauffeur do when your wife fainted? Ah, bella! He didn't do anything till some one in the crowd hollered, 'Give her air!' Then he got his pump. Town Topics.

Keen Sense of Smell.

The aborigines of Peru can in the darkest night and in the thickest woods distinguish respectively a white man, a negro and one of their own race by the sense of smell.

Men and Women.

Men ought to be mighty good to women, for nature gave them the big end of the log to lift and mighty little strength to do it with.—Lincoln

Well Trained.

'Your daughter did well to land that young millionaire.'
'I gave her a good business education.'—Puck

Every man's task is his life's preserver.—Emerson.

ESKIMO ICE CREAM.

It's a Fine Dish, No Doubt, but Your Guests Might Not Like It.

The main food of the Alaskan Indian is meat and fish. In the winter many people do not cook the fish at all; simply leave them in the house for two or three days and then eat them raw.

Abused Superlatives.

It is hard to make people understand that the adjective almost invariably weakens the noun and that the word 'every,' for instance, does not strengthen a statement, but qualifies it.

Why Not Be Cheerful?

It Will Help You to Increase Your Mental and Physical Power.
Good cheer is a great lubricant. It oils all of life's machinery.

Victor Hugo was Born.

Victor Hugo was born at Besancon, France, Feb. 26, 1802; died May 22, 1885. He began his literary work at fourteen, and by 1827 his reputation was continental.

British Isles.

Great Britain is an island in which are located the countries of England, Scotland and Wales. Ireland is an island by itself. These two large islands together with the numerous small islands adjacent, constitute the British Isles.

Lobsters' Shells.

When a lobster is about to shed its shell the latter splits down the back and drops off in two equal parts. Then the tall slips out of the shell like a finger out of a glove.

Winning Long Life.

A recent investigation made to find out what class of men live the longest revealed the fact that clergymen live longer than other men. Monell Sayre, who made the investigation, attributes the longevity of clergymen to their simple life and says that the extra years which the clergy accumulate are the result of clean personal lives—lives of moderation and abstemiousness.

The Way of It.

'The man they picked up on the street and carried to the hospital was suffering from knockout drops.'
'Knockout drops given him on the public street? Impossible!'
'Two bricks fell on his head from a building he passed.'—Baltimore American

Too Honest.

'He's too frank to be a good politician.'
'Why?'
'When he has said something that the people don't like he doesn't deny that he said it.'—Detroit Free Press.

Good corn is not reaped from a bad seed.—Danish Proverb.

In Northern France.

It is strange and terrible to visit Paris—and no one can be happy but to one who has loved France. It is worse to visit the lovely northern country. There is here a sense of emptiness, as if terror still lurked in the normal cheerful noises of mankind.

Taking Him Down.

A lawyer with a liking for billiards had occasion recently to visit a small town in the west of Scotland. While there, seeking to pass the time, he found a new and excellent billiard table. Upon inquiring if there was anybody about who could play the hand-lod referred him to one of the natives. They played several games, but the result was against the lawyer. Try as he might, the countryman won every game.

Averting a Defeat.

A certain political boss always controlled his delegations to the conventions, and the delegates voted the way he told them to—and not until he did tell them.
